IS ACTING WITH BRITAIN

GOVERNMENT WON OVER

Peril of Situation Lies in Possibility of Control of Ignorant Masses by Anarchist Element.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The Japanese Government has taken positive measures to let Russia know that Japan is in the war to stay and will not be deterred from her intention to stand by her allies in the struggle until Germany has been defeated. It was learned here today that Japan has notified the Russian Provisional Government that if Russia withdraws from the war Japan, in consultation with Great Britain, will consider what measures to take. It was intimated in a diplomatic quarter that Japan and Great Britain would exchange views with the United States concerning the Russian situation.

It is understood that the Russian Provisional Government has been warned that if she accepted a separate peace with the Central Empires her action would be almost equivalent to aligning herself with Germany, and that so far from gaining anything by it she would become another Austria under German domination.

England and Japan are acting in conjunction in Petrograd in trying to dissuade the pro-peace party and influencing the provisional authorities. The latter, it was declared, have been definitely won over, and if they can succeed in retaining control of the Government there will be no defection by Russia. The difficulty lies in the masses, ignorant, clamoring for bread, with many looking for plunder and anarchy.

It was learned on good authority today that in treating with Russia, and in negotiating with England relative to Russia, Japan claims no interest in Europe. Her interests are confined to the situation in the Orient.

"Even if Russia shakes hands with Germany," a diplomat was quoted as saying today, "that does not necessarily mean that Russia will become aggressive on her eastern frontier, and, therefore, Japan might not have any immediate interests, peculiar to herself alone, in Russia's turning her back upon the Allies."

Japan's interests, however, according to this authority, are involved with those of the Allies by reason of her alliance with Great Britain and also by reason of the fact that she is at war with Germany and desires to assist in the consummation of Germany's defeat. She therefore must view with concern the present Russian situation, with the prospect it affords of Russia's desertion of the Allies.

Little doubt is entertained concerning the loyalty of the present régime in Russia to the Entente cause. The alarm relates to the possibility of the anarchistic elements, backed by the Russian masses, overthrowing the Provisional Government. The thinking elements of the nation, especially those in public life, with the exception of a few credited with political ambitions, are declared by Entente diplomats to be loyal to the alliance.

Japan is using every diplomatic resource to prevent a rupture in the alliance. She has informed Great Britain that military chastisement of Russia, should the latter withdraw from the war, would only mean another war in the Orient, and that the Tokio Government, if it possessed forces to spare, would prefer to send them to the German front. But the view thus expressed was qualified so that, if the new situation should appear to threaten Japan, the latter would be free to take measures for her self-protection.

KERENSKY REGARDED AS MAN OF THE HOUR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, June 3, (Delayed.)—M. Kerensky returned to Petrograd this morning. It was his original intention to visit the storm centres of Minsk, Pskov, and Riga, but the demand for his presence in Petrograd in view of the Kronstadt crisis and the retirement of M. Konovaloff, Minister of Commerce, because of the economic and financial difficulties, all of which threaten to transform the Government into a Socialist Ministry, necessitated the postponement of the War Minister's visit to the northern fronts.

His absence, however, has had effect convincing every responsible politician here that on him alone depends the fate of Russia. "When in difficulties turn to Kerensky," is the political maxim in Petrograd now, but his difficulties show no tendency to diminish. The people desire peace at almost any price. Kerensky wishes them to undertake a vigorous offensive.

Mongolia's Gunners Drive Off a Submarine; Liner Dodges Torpedo by Skillful Manoeuvres

LONDON, June 5.—The American steamship Mongolia fired four shots on June 1 at a German submarine which discharged a torpedo at the liner. Neither the Mongolia nor the submarine was damaged.

The Mongolia was 250 miles from the British coast when the submarine appeared and fired a torpedo. By skillful manoeuvring the steamer escaped the torpedo and opened on the submarine with her guns. Four shots were fired. The submarine fled, although unhit. The Mongolia proceeded on her voyage, and has arrived at a British port.

It was the Mongolia which fired the first gun for America in the war and sank a German submarine. After starting on the voyage just completed, the liner put back to port on account of an accident to a gun.

Officials of the American Line said yesterday that they had received word of the safe arrival of the Mongolia at a British port, but no mention was made of the submarine attack in the cabled dispatch.

On her previous eastward trip the Mongolia sighted a submarine in the English Channel, and her naval gunners opened fire. On his arrival in London Captain Rice said there was no doubt the submarine had been sunk. It was reported unofficially later that the Captain of the U-boat had been killed, and that the craft had been damaged badly, but had reached Kiel.

Twenty-four hours after leaving an American port on her present voyage, a brass cup of one of the cartridges used in gun practice burst, and fragments killed two nurses who were sitting on the promenade deck and seriously injured another woman. The Mongolia returned to port and delayed her sailing for five days.

PEACE MUST GIVE ALSACE TO FRANCE

FOR A LEAGUE OF NATIONS

PARIS, June 5.—By a vote of 453 to 55 the Chamber of Deputies, in secret session, has adopted a resolution declaring that peace conditions must include the liberation of territories occupied by Germany, the return of Alsace-Lorraine to France, and just reparation for damage done in the invaded regions. The resolution, which was accepted by the Government, also favors the creation of a league of nations for the maintenance of peace.

The secret session, which was adjourned from Saturday, continued all yesterday afternoon and evening until midnight.

Demands the Return of Alsace.

When the doors were thrown open to the public soon after midnight President Paul Deschanel read four resolutions which had been submitted. One was drawn up by Deputies Klotz, Charles, and Dumont, representing the opinion of the majority group; the other three were presented by different sections of the Socialists. The first resolution, which was accepted by the Government, read:

"The Chamber of Deputies, the direct expression of the sovereignty of the French people, salutes the Russian and other allied democracies, and indorses the unanimous protest which the representatives of Alsace-Lorraine, torn from France against their will, have made to the National Assembly. It declares that it expects from the war imposed upon Europe by the aggression of imperialist Germany the return of Alsace-Lorraine to the mother country, together with liberation of invaded territories and just reparation for damage.

"Far removed from all thoughts of conquest and enslavement, it expects that the efforts of the armies of the republic and her allies will secure, once Prussian militarism is destroyed, durable guarantees for peace and independence for peoples great and small, in a league of nations such as has already been foreshadowed.

"Confident that the Government will bring this about by the co-ordinated military and diplomatic action of all the Allies and rejecting all amendments, the Chamber passes to the order of the day."

No Secret Diplomacy.

Speaking to the resolution, Premier Ribot said:

"The Government asks you to vote for the Dumont-Klotz resolution. The long debate, now drawing to an end, has shown with what spirit of sincerity and patriotism the Chamber is animated. This resolution affirms our national sovereignty. It declares that in a democracy like ours there can be no secret diplomacy. None can or wants to finesse with the national sovereignty. None has entertained such thoughts.

"French policy is the policy of frankness and clearness. When the hour for supreme decisions strikes it will be for representatives of the country to determine the conditions of peace. We wish to bring about the triumph of the rights of the peoples and the ideas of justice and liberty. Do not let us be deceived by formulae whose makers hide themselves and who wish to spread the conviction that we seek conquest. We ask only that what is ours be returned to us. We demand that the provinces which never ceased to be French be restored to us.

"The resolution which the Government asks you to pass demands a reparation, which none can contest, for appalling damages. The universal conscience will ratify these pretensions.

"Appealing to what has been said by the President of the great Republic of the United States, we wish to establish in stable fashion justice and right for all nations, guarantees for tomorrow, for our children against the renaissance of barbarism. If we fall back into our old differences the danger might be great, but France united cannot be vanquished.

"I ask you in the name of the Government, in the name of France, that your vote be unanimous."

Ribot Government Stronger.

The Government of Premier Ribot has emerged from the campaign of rumor and criticism which has been going on for a fortnight stronger than at any time since it came into power, according to the judgment of experienced parliamentary observers upon the decisive vote in the Chamber of Deputies last night on the peace conditions resolution. The Temps and many other newspapers consider the Ministry as now having sufficient authority and prestige in the country's eyes to enable it to govern strongly.

16 AIRPLANES RAID ENGLAND, TWO LOST

TWO KILLED, 29 INJURED

Several Places in Kent and Essex Hit—Defensive Measures Greatly Improved.

LONDON, June 5.—Sixteen German airplanes came over the North Sea this evening and dropped many bombs on the small towns and villages in Essex and Kent. Only fourteen of them returned to their home base, for two of them were brought down by British guns.

So far as late reports show only two persons were killed and twenty-nine injured in the bombarded districts. The raiders met with a lively reception, extra precautions having been taken by the British authorities after the recent very serious raid on the southwest coast of England, in which 250 persons were killed or wounded. The Germans were attacked by British aviators before they had an opportunity to carry out their raiding intentions to any great extent, and the British anti-aircraft guns were very effective. The official statement says:

An airplane raid this evening was carried out by a squadron of about sixteen airplanes. They crossed the Essex coast at about 6:15 and dropped some bombs in the country and on small towns in Essex, and then proceeded to attack the naval establishments in the Medway. A considerable number of bombs were dropped and a certain amount of damage was done to house property, but the damage done to naval and military establishments was practically negligible.

The raiding airplanes were engaged by gunfire and pursued by aircraft. After having lost two machines they made off seaward.

The casualties so far reported are two killed, two dangerously wounded, and twenty-seven wounded.

According to a local report the pilot and observer of one of the air raiders brought down were rescued at sea and made prisoner.

Warning sirens were sounded at some places prior to the raid and most of the people took shelter. The small number of casualties is attributed to this precaution.

Persons arriving in London from the raided area say that ample warning of the approach of the raiders was given and that British airmen were patrolling before the enemy reached the coast. The weather favored the invaders, who, flying at a great height, tried to penetrate inland under the cover of small cloud banks. They were quickly located and engaged by airplanes and land batteries, whose defense was so effective that they penetrated only a few miles inland, and, after dropping bombs, speeded away.

An eyewitness says that at one of the raided places the people were entertaining wounded soldiers on trips in sailing boats. The shore was crowded with women and children. The gunfire of the shore batteries caused no great excitement at the outset, it being supposed that they were being used in practice. But suddenly enemy planes came into full view, and apparently within range of the guns. A few minutes later one of them was seen somersaulting from the clouds, and amid a storm of cheering it dropped into the sea.

A number of motor boats and other craft manned by sailors immediately began racing toward the plane. The pilot, who was in his seat, apparently unhurt, was seen struggling to free himself from the derelict. When the first boat reached the scene, however, the pilot had disappeared and is supposed to have been drowned.

This is the third raid on England in the last fortnight by German airplanes, which apparently have been substituted for Zeppelins by the Germans in making their attacks on the British Isles. For six months before the last three raids no attacks of this nature were made, the last efforts of the Zeppelins having proved disastrous to them.

On May 23 four or five German aircraft flew over eastern English counties and dropped bombs, which killed one man. On May 25 a squadron of about 16 airplanes passed over Southeast England, dropping bombs, which killed seventy-six persons and injured 174, the largest casualty list from an attack by air since Germany began these raids on unprotected towns of England. The principal damage in this raid was done in Folkestone.

WEATHER AIDED RAIDERS.

East Wind, Haze, and Clouds Helped Them in Their Attack.

A SOUTHEAST COAST TOWN, June 5.—Seven German airplanes made another raid upon the southeastern coast tonight shortly after 6 o'clock. Bombs were dropped. One enemy machine was seen to fall, another is reported to have been brought down. The Taubes were flying at a very great height, but could be distinguished at once as enemy craft. There was a strong east wind blowing, and a good deal of haze and light clouds.

The British aircraft were quickly up in the air and began the attack. Anti-aircraft guns came into action and shells could be seen bursting around the invaders. They came eastward, and when a short distance inland turned to the southward, exactly the same course as was followed during the raid last Friday week.

Bombs were dropped in several places and in one case it was reported that a fire was started. One observer saw a machine fall, and another watching the scene from near the coast declares another was brought down. A strong east wind aided the enemy machines in their flight, but this would be strongly against them on the return.

ALLIES RETAKE LOST GROUND IN COUNTER BLOWS

GUNS ROARING IN BELGIUM

GREAT ACTIVITY IN THE AIR

LONDON, June 5.—In the district southeast of the mining centre of Lens, where the British met a setback in severe fighting Sunday, they made a new attack last night, capturing the electric power station, which was the centre of Sunday's battle.

Official dispatches from Paris say that the French also recaptured the positions they lost yesterday on the Aisne.

Numerous raids have been carried out on the Ypres front in the last twenty-four hours, the largest and most successful attempt being made this afternoon, when 75 prisoners were captured. The Berlin report, received here late this afternoon, says that in the Wytschaete salient (south of Ypres) and neighboring sectors, "the artillery battle has increased to extreme violence during the afternoon, and has continued far into the night."

In this connection it may be noted that the aerial attacks on German establishments in Belgium is being continued vigorously.

"Naval airplanes on Sunday night attacked the airdrome at St. Denis Westrem, near Ghent," an official report says. "Many bombs were dropped with good results. The enemy's seaplane base at Zeebrugge was attacked by our seaplanes at the same time, and shipping in Bruges also was bombed. All our machines returned safely."

The text of the official War Office report issued this evening says:

We gained ground slightly during the night south of the Souchez River. The electric power station in that neighborhood, for the possession of which fierce fighting took place Sunday, is now in our hands.

A successful raid was carried out by our troops today south of Ypres, in which we captured seventy-five prisoners, including an officer.

There was great activity in the air again today, and bombing continues day and night with good results. Twelve German airplanes were brought down in the air fighting, one of which fell within our lines. Six other hostile machines were driven down out of control. Five of our airplanes are missing.

The early statement follows:

Hostile raiding parties were driven off last night southeast of Lens and south of Armentières. A number of the enemy dead were left in front of our lines. Successful raids, in which we captured several prisoners, were made by us last night south and east of Ypres.

The report issued in Berlin early today says:

Army of Prince Rupprecht.—The situation on the Flanders front is unchanged. For days in the Wytschaete salient and in neighboring sectors the artillery battle has increased to extreme violence during the afternoon and has continued far into the night. Detachments advancing to ascertain the effects of the enemy fire have always been repulsed.

In the neighborhood of the coast and between La Bassée Canal and the Bapaume-Cambrai high road the fighting activity was lively again yesterday at several points. Advances made at these points were also without result for the British.

Army Group of German Crown Prince—Along the Aisne and in Western Champagne the artillery duel increased again at different points. Near Braye two enemy night attacks after strong preparations were repulsed with very heavy losses to the French. To the east of the point of attack our own storming troops brought a number of prisoners out of the French trenches.

Army Group of Duke Albrecht—There was nothing of importance.

Aviation—During the favorable weather conditions aerial activity was very lively throughout the day and the night on the whole front. Yesterday twelve enemy airplanes were shot down in aerial battles and by our anti-aircraft guns. One captive balloon was brought down by our artillery long-range fire. Lieutenant Voss brought down his thirty-second opponent, Lieutenant Schaefer his thirtieth airplane, and Lieutenant Allmanroeder his twenty-fourth machine in aerial battles.

A supplementary official report issued this evening says:

On both sides the Wytschaete artillery battle continues.

On the Chemin-des-Dames a third night attack by the French at Braye-en-Laonnis and a strong advance against Winterberg failed.

FRENCH RECAPTURE TRENCHES ON AISNE

PARIS, June 5.—By what the War Office calls a "spirited" attack the French last night succeeded in recapturing part of the trenches they lost the previous day northwest of Froidmont farm, on the Aisne front. Heavy artillery fighting took place in Champagne.

There was great activity on the part of the French aviators. In reprisals for the bombardment of Bar-le-Duc, seven

PROBABLY 10,000,000 ENROLL FOR WAR; CITY'S REGISTRATION ABOUT 520,000; COUNT IS SLOW; VERY LITTLE DISORDER

NO TROUBLE AT THE POLLS

Indications That 600,000 Estimate of the Government Will Not Be Reached.

ONLY TWO ARRESTS MADE

C. F. Phillips, Columbia Student, Refuses to Enroll and Is Locked Up by Federal Agents.

The number of men who appeared yesterday for registration for compulsory military service was so great that the enrolling machinery proved unequal to the task of handling them rapidly, and it was announced that no official summarization of figures will be available until 9 o'clock this morning.

At 2 o'clock this morning the count had been completed in all but eleven assembly districts and four election districts in New York City. The total counted was 446,438, and the indicated total about 520,000.

The threat that Socialists and pacifists would hold off until just before the registration offices closed and then attempt to swamp them by crowds too great to handle, did not materialize. All registration was completed long before midnight. But the inadequate compiling force at headquarters made it impossible to get the figures together at once.

Rush in the Morning Hours.

The registration was enormously in excess of that for which provision had been made in many parts of the city, and the 8,000 officials who were on duty at the 2,123 registration places were so swamped by applications in the morning hours that they sent a hurry call for help and were reinforced by several hundred men drafted from other city offices and by members of the Home Defense League.

In many election districts two or three times as many men registered as at the last election, and in parts of the city where recent immigrants are numerous the addition of aliens not yet naturalized to the ordinary registration of citizenship made the task of the clerks unusually hard. At 11 o'clock last night, when the local registrars had been on duty for sixteen consecutive hours, word was sent from the headquarters of the Bureau of Elections that those who had not finished tabulation would be excused until this morning.

Opposition to the draft, of which there had been some fear, made no appearance on registration day. Policemen and members of the Home Defense League were on duty at each place of registration, the National Guard units were mobilized in their armories, and regular troops on duty in and about the city were ready for service in case of need. But there were no riots, no disorder. Of foreign or anarchistic propaganda there was no sign.

Only two persons, so far as could be learned up till midnight, had actually refused to register. One was Charles F. Phillips, the Columbia student arrested last week for distributing anti-conscription literature, and out on bail. Louis Kramer, in the Tombs on a similar charge, also refused to give any information about himself. As soon as the returns are completed, however, the police will begin a house-to-house search for slackers and it is expected that the number thus discovered will be actually large, though proportionately small.

New York made a holiday of registration day. Open-air patriotic meetings were held at the City Hall and elsewhere, and in dozens of churches and synagogues special services marked the appeal to the patriotism of the young men. Many offices were closed, and among those who registered and their friends there was generally found a spirit of good-humored readiness to serve and not to attempt to make heroes of themselves for doing it.

REGISTER WILLINGLY; NO OUTBREAK IN CITY

Thousands of Men Take Their Families to the Polls, Then Make a Holiday of It.

The young men of New York registered yesterday cheerfully and there was no evidence of gloom, despondency or reluctance. The spirit of the day was one of good-humored unconcern. Friends who passed on the street called to each other: "Have you registered yet?" much as they would have asked a few days earlier if they had seen Joffre yet. It was the thing to do; everybody was doing it. And the jokes that were passed over the display of the blue cards had in them only a jocular hint of the consequences that might follow. Men asked their friends if they had claimed exemption as conscientious objectors; they made byplay over the possible concealment of a wooden leg, and there was much merriment over the in-

Highest Standards of Americanism Met, Says Official Report on the Registration

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Registration Day developments were summarized by the Committee on Public Information tonight in a statement:

"Nearly 10,000,000 Americans of military age registered today for service in the army against Germany. The registration was accomplished in a fashion measuring up to the highest standards of Americanism. The young men came to the registration places enthusiastic; there was no hint of a slacking spirit anywhere, except in a few cases where misguided persons had been prevailed upon to attempt to avoid their national obligation. The Government officials, who had professed the highest confidence in the patriotism of the young men of the nation, were deeply gratified at the result. It transcended their highest expectations."

Provost Marshal General Crowder said late to-night he did not expect full and accurate registration reports from any State until tomorrow, and when his office closed at midnight no State had filed returns.

GAINS IN NATIONAL GUARD

Over 15,000 Men Were Recruited in Ten Days by Regiments Not in Federal Service.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The greatest single day of recruiting since April 1, when the drive was begun to bring the regular army up to war strength of 293,000 men, was experienced on Monday when, on the eve of registration day, 4,201 men enlisted in the service. This brings the total since April 1 up to 101,493.

New York State led the country Monday with 614 men recruited during the day. Illinois was second with 482, Pennsylvania third with 469, Ohio fourth with 384, and Massachusetts fifth with 306.

The net gain in recruits for the navy was 1,134, bringing the total in the service up to 110,871. The net gain for the marine corps June 1 to 3 was 748, bringing the marine corps total to 34,473 enlisted men.

Incomplete recruiting returns for the National Guard during the last ten days of May show a substantial gain, particularly among regiments not in the Federal service. A net increase of 15,000 to 20,000 men is indicated. In this period New York showed a gain in enlisted strength from 20,092 to 21,754, Pennsylvania from 11,525 to 15,039, Wisconsin 4,882 to 6,087, Ohio 8,902 to 9,205, California 1,867 to 2,830, Minnesota 2,918 to 3,161, Illinois 8,197 to 8,878, and Indiana 3,810 to 4,229.

On this showing the aggregate strength of the National Guard should be close to 200,000 men, leaving only about 130,000 to be recruited to put all existing regiments on a war footing. At the present rate virtually all of the regiments would reach full strength by the time they are drafted into the Federal armies in July and August.

In addition, virtually every State is making progress toward the organization of the authorized new units of the guard.

DRAFT DAY AIDS RECRUITING.

300 Taken for Regulars, 600 for Guard, 100 for Navy.

Registration produced another substantial harvest of recruits yesterday for the army, navy, and National Guard. As on the day before, all of the big recruiting centres were overrun with applicants, who determined to anticipate the draft by enlisting in the branch of service they preferred.

Many applicants were under the impression that so long as they presented themselves for enlistment they did not have to register. This was especially the case at army recruiting headquarters, 280 Broadway, where scores of men applied for enlistment without having the slightest intention of registering. Colonel R. D. Hughes decided to save the prospective recruits for the regular army and promptly obtained permission to establish a registration booth in army headquarters where all applicants for enlistment could be enrolled for the draft if they had not already done so.

The National Guard was again the biggest gainer of the day, enlisting more than 600 men in its ranks at the armory headquarters. The guard made registration day an occasion for special recruiting demonstrations. Parades and drills were held in all the armories.

A big demonstration was held yesterday on the land battleship Recruit in Union Square. Thousands of persons assembled, applauded music by the Hebrew Orphan Asylum Band, and cheered a patriotic speech by George T. Wilson, Vice President of the Equitable Life Assurance Society and Chairman of the Committee on Organization of the Mayor's Committee on National Defense.

The navy enlisted about 100 men yesterday. The applicants numbered more than 300, but fully two-thirds of them were rejected because of physical disqualifications.

SOLDIERS ROUT BUTTE RIOTERS

QUELL MICHIGAN MINERS

Navajo and Ute Indians Refuse to Register and May Take the Warpath.

Special to The New York Times.

BUTTE, Mont., June 5.—Six hundred paraders, with a twelve-foot red flag at their head inscribed "Down with War," started a riot tonight, which resulted in the calling out of two companies of troops. Several shots were fired and a score of persons were arrested. No one was hurt. Tonight the city is under martial law, with squads of soldiers patrolling the streets.

The parade, which was to protest against draft registration, had proceeded only four blocks when it was pounced upon by patriotic citizens, reinforced by the police. Women paraders fought the police, and the mob swelled to thousands within a few minutes.

Mayor W. H. Maloney, mounting the roof of a business block, called upon the people to go to their homes and to maintain order. Then he wound up by giving the crowd fifteen minutes to disperse.

Troops which had been held at their barracks during the day came at a run with their bayonets fixed and the crowd began to scatter. The paraders halted before Finlanders' Hall, where the procession was addressed by a woman in the Finnish language.

The city is quiet tonight, and no more trouble is feared.

James E. Treanor, Secretary of the Pearce Connolly Club, a local Irish society, which paraded on Easter Day in violation of police orders, was named tonight by Ed Keenan and John McDonnell, who were arrested on Sunday night for distributing anti-conscription circulars, as the ringleader of the anti-conscription conspiracy in Butte. Treanor was arrested last night. Both Keenan and McDonnell made confessions of their part in the circulation of the anti-conscription propaganda, declaring that Treanor gave them the circulars to distribute, and that they saw him give out bundles of the circulars to eight or ten other men.

MARQUETTE, Mich., June 5.—National Guardsmen were employed to prevent an anti-conscription demonstration at Negaunee, a mining town near here, today. The attempted demonstration was an outgrowth of a mass meeting held Sunday at which two speakers were arrested for utterances against the draft. Early this morning groups of foreigners gathered near polling places and their protests against the registration of young men took on violent aspects.

The Sheriff called upon all the young men of the town who had been registered to act as deputies, also the city firemen and all city employes. Numbering about 600, this force patrolled the streets for two hours. Then the agitators vanished. The Mayor then telegraphed for troops, and a company of guardsmen came here in automobiles. With the arrival of the troops the streets were cleared of possible agitators, and the authorities believed they had the situation well in hand.

At Hancock an anti-draft parade was dispersed by the Sheriff after having formed three times. Six of the foreigners and Socialists who were among the leaders of the parade were arrested. Distribution of anti-conscription literature in Columet caused the arrest of another foreigner and a citizen of Calumet.

Indians Refuse to Register.

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., June 5.—Navajo Indians drove an Indian agent and other Federal officers off the Government Reservation 100 miles northwest of here today when the latter went to register the Indians under the Army Draft bill, according to advices reaching here tonight. The Federal officers feared the Indians would go on the warpath if further attempts were made to register them, it was reported.

IGNACIA, Col., June 5.—Ute Indians on their reservation near here today refused to register under the Selective Draft act, and spent most of the day dancing war and "bear" dances in native costume. Several of the younger men are said to be out in the hills near here, and to have obtained a quantity of liquor.

It is reported here that the Indians have threatened to burn this settlement. Threats also have been made against the Indian agent at the reservation.

PHOENIX, Ariz., June 5.—Three hundred Russian colonists, trans-Caucasans, settled near Glendale, nine miles west of Phoenix, declined to register today. They are members of a religious

ELATION AT THE CAPITAL

GOVERNORS ARE SANGUINE

AGITATORS ADMIT DEFEAT

WASHINGTON, June 5.—The selective draft law has been sustained heartily, judged by the best information reaching Washington from all parts of the country. Estimates made here tonight, with few figures available, indicated that the total registration in the United States under the provisions of the law would be approximately 10,000,000. Even the highest Government officials were unable to give any definite statement.

Messages received from the Governors of all except one of the States, however, were to the effect that conditions were most satisfactory, and a number of them indicated that the final totals might show an enrollment in excess of the Census Department figures. The official estimate for the country was 10,264,867.

Reports received from some States tonight were to the effect that late comers had forced officials to keep the registration places open until long after 9 P. M., the closing hour set in the regulations. General Crowder at once authorized the officials to keep open as long as men wished to enroll themselves. The result will delay the transmission of final returns from these precincts.

Reports received by telephone from New York State at a late hour tonight were of the most encouraging nature, Governor Whitman saying that the rush to register had "vastly exceeded all expectations." This statement, he told General Crowder, Provost Marshal, applied to New York, Buffalo, and practically all of the cities. There even were indications that many men not within the ages fixed by the draft law had registered because of their desire to serve in the new army.

General Crowder was greatly pleased with these reports from the States, but refused to make a formal statement pending the receipt of actual figures.

"The reports," he said, "are unprecedented, but I shall wait for figures. In State after State the Governors wire us that the registration may go beyond the number the Census Bureau estimated were eligible for registration. Of course, we have nothing but the optimistic reports from Governors upon which to make predictions, and we shall want the facts."

Anti-Conscriptionists Peaceful.

One feature of the registration which gave the officials the greatest satisfaction was the fact that the anti-conscriptionists had a bad day. Not a single report of trouble of a serious nature had been received here when the registration places closed, and the carefully organized machinery which had been built up by the Department of Justice to handle outbreaks was practically idle.

Even in the mountain districts of the South and in Texas, where it was reported that organized bands were preparing to restrict registration, there was quiet, and it was the belief of the War Department that only a small percentage of the men subject to conscription had refused to enroll. This statement was issued, in regard to the situation, by Attorney General Gregory:

"Reports received today at the Department of Justice relative to registration indicate a ready and general response on the part of the young men of the country to the demands of the Conscription act. So far three arrests have been reported to the department, and none of these grew out of a serious situation. No resistance to registration has come to my attention."

The three arrests which were reported to the Department of Justice were made at Hamilton, Ohio; Hartford, Conn., and near St. Louis, Mo.

In only two or three places, including Detroit and Cleveland, Ohio, the latter city the home of Secretary Baker, did the elaborate registration machinery break down. In both cities arrangements were made to have the registration places remain open after the hour set by law.

In Cleveland it was reported much difficulty was experienced and thousands were kept waiting to register because of the lack of a sufficient number of registration cards. Governor Cox, it was said, had asked permission to use a different system of registration and had carried his case to Mr. Baker. After a delay of about three hours, during which cards were printed, the work was continued.

The trouble in Detroit was caused by the fact that the population had increased beyond the estimates of the Census Bureau. The figures for the District of Columbia had not been completed late tonight, but an estimate then placed the number registered at from 3,000 to 4,000 below the Census Bureau figure of 36,928. This did not take into account, however, the registration cards of those who were out of town or out of the country, and it was expected that there would be but a small deficiency, if any.

Optimism at the Capital.

In Administration and army circles today there was a feeling of unconcealed elation over the reports concerning the response today to the President' call to arms in the war against German autocracy. Throughout the day reports were received by the War Department and Department of Justice from Governors in every part of the country, and practically all of them were to the effect that the young men who came under the terms of the draft law had turned out early, eager to offer their services to America.

There were a few isolated reports of trouble. The messages were taken as proof that the predictions of the anti-conscriptionists of open revolt against the Government, represented the spirit of only a negligible part of the country's population.

The feeling of optimism and satisfaction was reflected at a meeting of the Cabinet at the White House this afternoon when Secretary of War Baker and Attorney General Gregory made full reports to President Wilson. Excerpts from many of the messages were read as an illustration of the spirit of the country. The President, it was said, felt that the messages then received reflected the desire of the young men of the country to serve when the test came.

When Secretary Baker left the meeting he gave open expression to his feelings. All of the reports received, he said, were favorable, and there was nothing to indicate that there would be serious trouble in getting the men needed for the new army.

The developments during the day were accepted as a complete defeat of the efforts of the small bodies of anti-conscriptionists who have endeavored to hamper the Government machinery and to break the spirit of the nation.

Washington was among the first of the communities to give evidence that there would be a ready response to the call and that slackers would be few in number. Long lines of men were waiting at the registration places when they were opened.

The messages from other parts of the country, many of which made it seem probable that in a dozen States the Government estimates were low, began to reach the offices of Provost Marshal General Crowder early in the afternoon. Governor Whitman of New York was one of the first to telegraph. He sent word:

Governor Cox of Ohio telegraphed: "Indicated 70 per cent. of those eligible had been registered at 11 o'clock and that less than one-tenth of 1 per cent. within the registration age will attempt to evade. No disorder."

The first report of trouble came from the Governor of Minnesota, but the trouble was due to climatic conditions, and not to the anti-conscriptionists. This message read: "Some little trouble in Northwestern Minnesota on account of high water. Registrars are using boats." The Governor of Indiana had a similar complaint. "High water in Brown County," he telegraphed, "renders complete registration impossible."

Virginia reported an arrest to the Provost Marshal General, but serious complications were denied. "The only incident reported," the Governor wired, "was that of J. L. Litz of Coeburn, who, according to reports, cursed the President, the Administration, and the flag. He was promptly arrested and held for trial."

A dozen favorable messages promptly came along to offset this. Wisconsin, Vermont, New Jersey, Nebraska, Kansas, Louisiana, South Carolina, Florida, Connecticut, Arkansas, Rhode Island, and Maryland reported, practically in the order named, that the registration was progressing satisfactorily, that no trouble had been reported and none was anticipated.

Idaho's Governor Optimistic.

The Governor of Idaho late in the afternoon sent the most optimistic message of the day: "Registration will be 100 per cent," it read. "Spontaneous and without murmur or incident." Other States which followed with favorable reports at that time were North Dakota, Montana, Arizona, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma, Texas, West Virginia, New Mexico, Tennessee, Oregon, Massachusetts, Maine and Delaware.

The Committee on Public Information gave out this official statement at 6:30 o'clock tonight:

"Nearly 10,000,000 Americans of military age registered today for service in the army against Germany. The registration was accomplished in a fashion measuring up to the highest standards of Americanism. The young men came to the registration places enthusiastic; there was no hint of a slacking spirit anywhere except in a few cases where misguided persons had been prevailed upon to attempt to avoid their national obligation. The Government officials who had professed the highest confidence in the patriotism of the young men of the nation were deeply gratified at the result; it transcended their highest expectations.

Conspiracies Failed Utterly.

"From every State reports were received showing that the sporadic conspiracies to thwart the first step toward the mobilization of as large an army as the country may need to bring the war to a victorious conclusion had failed utterly. The Department of Justice had a tremendous machinery ready to cope with these conspiracies, but it proved to be unnecessary. Late this afternoon the Department had not received a report of a single arrest, and the only arrest officially reported to any Government body occurred in Virginia, where one man who denounced the Government and the flag was promptly taken into custody. This report came to the office of the Provost Marshal, General Crowder.

"Arrangements had been made by the Department of Justice and the War Department to secure immediate telegraphic reports upon any outbreaks or troublesome occurrence. The Department of Justice was in touch with its own secret service agents and local police authorities throughout the country and the War Department was in communication with all of the State Governments.

"Every Governor had been asked to wire direct to the Provost Marshal General as soon in the afternoon as he was able to make a definite statement regarding the day's events. These messages began to come over the wire rapidly after 1 o'clock. Invariably they reported heavy registration early in the day, and in many cases comment was made upon an evident desire among the young men to be first at the polling places.

"Gladsome Spirit" Evinced.

"The spirit of the young men from whom the fighting forces are to be selected was evidenced in their attitude toward Question 12 on the registration blanks, which asked if exemption was claimed. In thousands of cases young men availed themselves of their right to ignore this question and to leave it entirely for the Government to decide whether he should be selected. This spirit was evidenced again in the receipt during the day of numerous requests from diplomatic and consular officials of the United States for additional registration cards to be used by citizens who are now in other countries; this fact was impressive because registration is voluntary on the part of Americans resident abroad.

"It was not a volunteer enterprise upon which the men of military age were embarking, but they entered upon it in the gladsome spirit of men who were seeking the opportunity to serve."

Provost Marshal General Crowder made official announcement tonight in a letter to General Barnett, Commandant of the Marine Corps, that "persons registering on June 5 are at liberty to enlist in the navy or Marine Corps at any time prior to their selection for military service."

General Barnett had pointed out that many men, according to the reports of recruiting officers, seemed to be of the opinion that those registered under the selective draft would be unable to enlist in either the navy or Marine Corps.

GREAT UP-STATE RESPONSE.

Registration Exceeds Expectations, Governor Whitman Says.

ALBANY, June 5.—Registration in New York State [illegible] night at the office of the Adjutant General, where the figures are to be tabulated. Governor Whitman expressed great gratification over the manner in which the enrollment had proceeded.

"We have a right to be mighty well pleased," the Governor said. "From every section of the State I am in receipt of news that the registration proceeded without the slightest trouble or interruption. We will have it not only complete and satisfactory, but the figures will show, I am sure, a great increase of the number we had reason to believe would b in the grand total.

"Although the War Department sent to each registration district in the State 10 per cent. more enrollmen blanks than it believed would be necessary, we were calld upon frequently during the day to send certain cities more. This is a grand response to the nation's call, and the people of New York can well afford to be gratified, as I am."

In the afternoon Adjt. Gen. Stotesbury was advised that New York City was running short of registration cards, and 10,000 were immediately sent to the metropolis by special messenger. Syracuse put in a request for 5,000 additional cards, and Albany and Schenectady served notice that they were short 3,500 and 2,500 cards, respectively. The supply in Buffalo was exhausted before the day ended, and several thousand had to be printed there to take care of the enrollments.

The Albany City figures showed that 10,678 had registered in Watervliet and 413 in Green Island. It was estimated that the missing rural districts in the county would have 2,071 recorded, bringing the county total up to 16,578.

Indications are that the number enrolled in Binghamton will amount to 4,902. The largest enrollment is in the foreign section of the city, where the number offering their services exceeded all estimates. The only refusal to enroll came from the county jail. A man posing as an Italian Count and giving the name of Eugene R. Ney of New York was arrested and convicted of forgery. He said at the time of his arrest he was purchasing supplies for the Italian Government. He admitted that he had not given his real name, and refused to disclose his identity to the sheriff for enrollment purposes today. His refusal will be reported to the Federal authorities.

The registration for the conscription draft was surprisingly large in Jamestown and throughout Chautauqua County. Reports thus far received indicate a registration in Jamestown of 4,200, and in the county of 11,600. There was no disturbance of any kind in the city or county, and so far as known there was not a single refusal to register. The registration cards will not be sorted in many of the districts nor returns made until Monday morning.

Estimates from Niagara Falls give the registration in Niagara County as 24,000.

Registration figures in Buffalo at noon had reached 19,387. At 3 o'clock the supply of cards in Erie County had run out.

A dispatch from Auburn estimates that 5,350 men registered for the draft in Cayuga County. It had ben anticipated that 6,000 names would have been listed. Returns from rural districts, however, are still incomplete.

The city of Hudson, on official returns, registered 1,062 out of a population of 11,500. Columbia County, with many districts estimated but including Hudson complete, registered 5,900 out of a population of 43,000.

At Watertown, N. Y., the county officials estimated that registration in Jefferson would total about 8,500. The registration throughout the county was as large as the census estimates of 10 per cent. of the population, and in some districts was considerably higher.

Monticello reports that Sullivan County, according to returns available late tonight, registered about 3,000, or about 8 per cent. of the population. Large numbers claimed exemption, fourteen out of the first sixteen to register. Thompson Township, the largest in the county, registered 309 out of a population of 4,904.

The Indians at the St. Regis Reservation in Franklin County were inclined to balk at the draft, but their Chiefs advised compliance and were obeyed.

JERSEY REGISTRATION HEAVY.

State's Enrollment Expected to Reach Estimate of 308,563.

In New Jersey registration proceeded quietly without exception. Even in munitions towns and in cities with large enemy alien population there was no trouble. Complete figures for the State have not been received as yet, but there is every indication that the War Department's estimate of 308,563 as the total registration will be equaled.

Registration was early everywhere, and, with police and Home Guards in the cities and Sheriff's deputies in the rural districts, assisted by Deputy United States Marshals and by agents of the Department of Justice, the crowds around the registration places gave no trouble. In Newark the registration was so heavy that a special message was sent to Washington for an additional supply of 20,000 of the little blue cards.

Most of the saloons were closed in Newark out of deference to Mayor Raymond's request, appealing to the patriotism of the saloon keepers, and those which remained open did only a side-door business. The only arrest was that of Nathan Goldstein, a 22-year-old Socialist, who denounced conscription at a registration office, and ended by tearing up a blue card and flinging the pieces at the registrar.

At midnight only one of the city's twelve districts had been fully counted, but the County Clerk's estimate of the total city registration was between 45,000 and 50,000. The twenty-two municipalities of Essex County outside of Newark registered a total of 17,905. Among these were Orange, 2,852; East Orange, 3,546; South Orange, 313; Montclair, 2,096, and Bloomfield, 1,734.

Paterson registered 12,478. Outside the city Passaic County recorded a total of 6,309, while the War Department had counted on only 4,115.

Kearny's total registration was 2,362; that of Harrison 2,076.

In Jersey City the total was 33,470.

Hoboken turned in the unexpectedly large registration of 8,015. In West Hoboken there was a registration of 3,912. The registration in the rest of Hudson County, except in Bayonne, returns from which are not yet in, was 14,706. This included 1,504 for Weehawken, 3,034 for West New York, 2,116 for West Hudson, and 676 for Guttenberg.

With only three districts missing out of 105, the registration in Union County was 17,164.

In Trenton there was a registration of 12,010, as against the War Department's figures of 13,342.

NEW ENGLAND WORK QUIET.

Returns May Not Equal Estimates, but Few Were Slackers.

BOSTON, June 5.—Directors of military enrollment in the six New England States who will report State totals only to Washington had few figures tonight, but press returns indicated that while the estimates of eligible men were set too high, the number of slackers was negligible.

Throughout New England there was not a ripple of protest against the orderly working of the selective draft. The registration generally was free of demonstrations of any sort, but the spirit was patriotic. Boston promised to exceed the enrollment of 77,000 expected. It was after 11 o'clock when the registration ceased, the official closing hour, at 9 o'clock, finding hundrds waiting for a chance to enroll.

Returns from Rhode Island indicated an erollment of about 50,000, as against an estimate of 60,000 eligibles. It was believed that virtually all the eligible men had answered the call.

Governor Henry W. Keyes of New Hampshire declared that the Granite State would show a total well over 35,000. The estimate was 36,578.

Vermont came to the front with what was thought to be her proper proportion, while Maine showed a high per cent. Reports from Connecticut at midnight were meagre, but indicated that the State had done its share.

SOUTH RESPONDS EAGERLY.

German Agents Fail to Alienate Mountaineers or Negroes.

ATLANTA, Ga., June 5.—Registration under the conscription law in the South today was almost wholly without untoward incident and in many cities took on the character of a patriotic holiday. There was no sign of trouble from negroes or the mountaineers, among whom German agents are said to have been at work. It is estimated that 260,000 men registered in Georgia.

The day was celebrated as a "flag day" in Birmingham, with the raising of the national colors in Capitol Park, after a parade and an address by Major General Wood. Business was suspended in many cities and in virtually all the cities the tooting of whistles and the ringing of church bells called the young men at the opening of the registration precincts.

Numbers of persons were detained by a citizens' committee at New Orleans while preparing to board trains, but later were released.

In Richmond, Va., 28,000 school children aided in the registration by distributing notices among their parents and others. The registration in the country districts exceeded expectations. In Baltimore, typifying the "Spirit of '76," the big bell in City Hall clock tower boomed out the signal "7–6" at hourly intervals throughout the registration period.

A great street pageant marked registration day in Greensboro, N. C. Registration was reported heavy throughout the State.

Tennessee reported heavy registration. Whistles and bells aroused Memphis and the surrounding country to register. A patriotic parade with about 25,000 persons in line was the feature of the celebration.

In Kentucky Registration Day was a public holiday. In Louisville it was estimated that approximately 20,000 would enroll. The number of negroes who registered was comparatively small, indicating, it was said, that "understanding of the law among them was not general.

Reports from the larger cities of Texas indicate that the total registration will exceed the original estimates, and it is not improbable that the estimate of 425,320 men of registration age in the State will be exceeded by several thousand.

REGISTRATION IN THE WEST.

Illinois and Other States Have Heavy Returns and No Disorder.

CHICAGO, Ill., June 5.—In Illinois registration for selective military service, on the face of the early returns, has eclipsed the original estimates of the experts.

Streams of men fairly swamped the registration officials today. By noon scores of counties were wiring Adjt. Gen. Dickson at Springfield that the supplies of registration blanks were exhausted. From Zion City to Cairo the story was the same, and early tonight the Springfield Central Board estimated that the poll for the selective draft was heavier than the figures set down for Illinois.

Complete figures from which an accurate estimate could be figured were lacking, but at the State Arsenal the belief was expressed that the Illinois lists would perhaps reach 650,000. The estimate of the Census Bureau last month was 639,500.

In scores of precincts outside Chicago waiting lines were still outside the polling place doors at 9 o'clock tonight, the hour set for closing. Blanks being exhausted, the registrars were notified to use temporary blanks, from which permanent records would be made out later.

There was no disorder. The anti-conscriptionists were discreetly dumb; the "conscientious objectors" were still, and the entire State was swept by a wave of patriotism that stilled any plotters.

The only disturbance came from the rains. Terrific downpours in many counties swept away culverts and bridges and made roads impassable. Some residents of the rural regions found it impossible to get even within telephoning distance of their precinct polling places. Washington authorized Adjt. Gen. Dickson to extend the time for registration in Illinois counties where the floods prevented full registration. Among the counties were Fayette, Moultrie, Effingham, Sangamon, and Hancock.

Two men said to be responsible for an anti-conscription placard were taken into custody this afternoon.

Two remarkable features stand out tonight in Ohio's response to the call to colors. One is the practically complete absence of trouble, which a week ago loomed ominous, and the other is the large number of registrations. Many Ohio cities used up supplies of registration cards, and in instances where they could not be furnished from State headquarters in Columbus, were ordered printed locally. Cincinnati and Toledo were among the cities that required additional cards. The large registration was attributed to the response of hundreds of aliens, and to registration of thousands of men who never had voted. While complete returns were not available tonight, it was believed 500,000 were enrolled in Ohio today.

Registration day in Cincinnati, which dawned with a raw, cold rain falling, was enlivened early by the parading and playing of numerous bands, the ringing of church and fire bells, and the blowing of factory whistles. Reports from the registration booths showed that they had been crowded from the opening.

So heavy was the registration in Detroit, Mich., that permission was asked and received from Washington late in the day to keep the booths open all night if necessary. Registration of Detroit's large foreign population slowed up the work considerably, and it was early evident that it could not be completed on time. Long lines of citizens were still in front of many of the registration places at 9 o'clock tonight. The only instance of disorder reported was a saloon fight, in which three foreigners were shot and the saloon was considerably damaged.

Indications were that Detroit would register approximately 25,000 more than had been expected.

Early indications in Milwaukee, Wis., were that a registration of men eligible to the selective draft would reach the estimated 35,000. Reports from various parts of the city indicated that quiet prevailed.

Thousands of Minnesotans and North Dakotans registered, on their way to work, and no disorders were heard of at any point. In some towns in both States the event was made an occasion for a holiday, stores closing and factories suspending. Adjt. Gen. Fred Wood, in charge of the registration in Minnesota, estimated that nearly a quarter of a million would be enrolled in the State, with 35,000 in Minneapolis and 25,000 in St. Paul. North Dakota was expected to enroll 89,000.

In Winona, Min., young women at each polling station sewed a band of khaki on the sleeve of each man registering.

Missourians living in Kansas City and the surrounding territory registered under adverse weather conditions, rain falling intermittently. Polling places throughout St. Louis were crowded early and no violence or attempts to obstruct the enrollment was reported.

A copy of President Wilson's war message to Congress and a small tag bearing the inscription, "I have registered," were given by members of various women's clubs to every man who registered in Des Moines and in many other cities and towns of Iowa.

Conscription Boards in a number of precincts in Indiana were unable to complete the registration before the hour set for closing, and they were authorized from Washington to hold booths open all night, or tomorrow if necessary, to complete their work. Flooded streams hindered registration in Brown County. Cities and towns and all over the State reported much heavier registration than had been anticipated. In Gary the Conscription Boards did not have sufficient interpreters, and after some delay persons familiar with fifty languages were obtained, and even then the registration was slow.

MARSHAL GOT ONE PRISONER.

With Police the Federal Authorities Will Hunt for Slackers Today.

With a reserve of 1,500 special deputies United States Marshal Thomas D. McCarthy was ready yesterday to lend full support to the police. At dawn automobiles loaned to the Government by citizens mobilized in the streets surrounding the Federal Building. The deputies were distributed throughout Manhattan and the Bronx. All were volunteers and gave their services free to the Government.

The first person reported to Marshal McCarthy as refusing to register was Louis Kramer, an anarchist, now in the Tombs waiting trial for circulating literature intended to dissuade men from registering. Kramer is of conscript age, and under the law persons in jail and penal institutions must be registered. Warden Hanley reported that Kramer refused to answer any of the questions put to him, whereupon the Warden had the prisoner taken to his office and there repeated the questions in the presence of three witnesses. Kramer again refused to be registered. The offense is punishable by one year in prison. Kramer goes on trial for conspiracy to dissuade other men from registering next Monday.

The police and the Federal authorities will begin this morning the work of locating men who violated the law by a failure to register yesterday. Police Inspector Ryan of the Sixth District, which comprises East Harlem, said last night that the police will begin a house-to-house canvass to ascertain if any persons failed to obey the law. Any slackers will be promptly turned over to the Federal authorities.

POLICE NOT NEEDED TO CHECK DISORDER

Principal Duty of Force Was to Keep Registration Machine Moving.

FEW ARRESTS WERE MADE

First Prisoners Taken to Court Were Two Italians Who Wanted to be First in the Line.

The entire Police Department was on duty from 7 o'clock yesterday morning until the polls closed last night. In every station house reserves were in readiness, but so orderly was the registration that they had little to do. There was a uniformed man on duty at every polling place, and all men on post had instructions to aid the citizens generally. It was the policeman on post who was the city's bureau of information yesterday.

In the early morning when, in numerous instances, the full force of registrars failed to appear at 7 o'clock, the policeman telephoned to Police Headquarters, to the Bureau of Elections, and to the Federal authorities calling attention to that fact. In the Thirty-sixth Election District of the Twenty-third Assembly District the registration place was in a shoe-shining shop, at 3,680 Broadway, and a dozen young men were waiting in line at 6:45 A. M. At 7:40 o'clock two of the registrars arrived as a result of a hurry-up call from the policeman on duty, and one of them was indignant when a young man said that he had been delayed in getting to his work.

"Young man," he said, "please remember that we are not charging for our service."

"Neither are we," was the retort. When the young man in answer to question twelve said that he claimed no exemption, the registrar remarked: "I hope they get you."

In another election district the progress of the registration was so slow during the morning hours that a 10:30 o'clock only eighteen men had been registered. In this district, which is in Brooklyn, twenty minutes was used up questioning an Italian, who proved to be thirty-two years of age. The police reported that in districts where there are large foreign populations a shortage of interpreters delayed the registration. The police commented on the patience shown by the men who because of a shortage in interpreters or for other reasons were delayed long times in getting registered.

In no instanc was trouble reported because of efforts of Anarchists or other agitators to persuade men to refuse to register. Arrests in and about the registration places yesterday were few and far between. The first prisoners taken to court were Vincenzo Scarporlino, 66 Morris Avenue, and Arsio Zinite, 239 East 150th Street, both of the Bronx. The men were charged with disorderly conduct due to their efforts to be the first registered at 233 East 149th Street. The complainants, two men who were in line ahead of the prisoners, said they had been roughly shoved out of line by the Italians. The prisoners said they were sorry they forgot themselves in their eagerness. Magistrate Breen, in the Morrisania Court, fined them $1 each.

Walter E. Pratt, 23 years old, of 562 Onderdonk Avenue, Brooklyn, was arraigned in the Yorkville Court yesterday afternoon before Magistrate Ten Eyck, charged with disorderly conduct in causing a crowd to collect at Fourteenth Street and Fourth Avenue, by making a speech. Patrolman Quinn testified that Pratt also read a letter from his mother in Plymouth, Mass., stating that a classmate of his who had enlisted with the British forces had been wounded and was dying in a London Hospital. Pratt told the Magistrate that he had no intention of offending the nation or violating the law. He said his great-grandfather fought in the War of the Revolution, his father in the civil war, and his brother in the Spanish-American war. Pratt explained that he had registered early yesterday and was ready to go to the front if selected. Magistrate Ten Eyck warned Pratt and let him off with a suspended sentence.

Peter Carlson, a watchman, who gave his address as a barge now anchored in the East River, was arraigned in the Morrisania Court on complaint of Frank Donnelly of 425 East 139th Street, who said that Carlson had approached him and handed him a printed handbill which was captioned "Principal Reasons for War," and which purported to be a reprint of an article arguing against war that appeared in a local Swedish newspaper. When Carlson handed him the paper, Donnelly said he asked him not to enlist in the army or navy. Magistrate Breen turned the prisoners over to the Federal authorities for examination.

When Max Katz, 21 years old of 71 East 101st Street, was sentenced to five days in the workhouse, by Magistrate House in the Traffic Court, for a violation of the traffic regulations, Katz asked the Magistrate to give him a chance to register. The Magistrate sent a policeman with Katz and he was duly registered, after which he was sent to the workhouse.

The Home Defense League was also on duty yesterday ready to reinforce the police had their services been needed. They aided in policing the vicinities of registration places and station house duties. Also ready for an emergency the available National Guard of the city was held in their armories. The commanders kept in touch with Major Gen. O'Ryan in the Municipal Building.

Although the police and National Guard were prepared for any registration trouble in Brooklyn, no friction developed. Lines of 400 men were standing at many of the registration places, particularly in the Italian section in the Eastern District and in the Brownsville district, before the registration officials arrived. In many districts the work was impeded by lack of clerks, but this difficulty was obviated by the organization of a "shuttle automobile" corps by Sheriff Riegelmann and James M. Power, United States Marshal. As soon as a cry for more clerks was sent in to the headquarters of the Registration Committee in the Brooklyn Board of Elections rooms Adam Leich, Deputy Chief Clerk of the Board of Elections, sent automobiles to some district that had reported a surplus of clerks and a transfer was made.

In the colored section in Myrtle Avenue most of those of conscript age registered early, and it was reported by clerks that few claimed exemption. This was also true in the Italian districts. In addition to detachments of police and men of the Home Defense League in the election districts, there was an additional reserve force of 225 policemen in the Brooklyn Police Headquarters under command of Borough Inspector James Dillon and Deputy Police Commissioner Leon Godley. All the Brooklyn troops of the National Guard were in their armories all day.

SUMMONS DR. BUTLER.

Miss Parker, Arrested for Conspiracy, Sues for Her Degree.

What was considered an attempt on the part of Eleanor Parker, the Barnard student arrested for conspiracy in the anti-draft agitation, to break up or delay today's commencement exercises at Columbia was made by the girl yesterday through her counsel. During the afternoon summons was served upon Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of Columbia, and Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve of Barnard, requesting their appearance in court this morning to answer the suit of Miss Parker against the university for refusal to award her the degree of Bachelor of Arts. Compliance with the summons would force Dr. Butler and Dean Gildersleeve to forego the exercises and would seriously limit the ceremonies. Dr. Butler is always present at the annual exercises to confer the degrees on the two thousand and more students graduating.

At the university last night it was stated that neither President Butler nor Dean Gildersleeve would miss the commencement. Appearance in court will be made by John B. Pine, one of the Trustees of the university, representing Columbia in the suit. Although Dr. Butler would not commit himself upon the subject, it is believed he considers the summons as a petty attempt to spite the university because of the failure to place Miss Parker's name upon the list of those of her classmates in Barnard to receive degrees. Also it was emphatically stated at the office of the Secretary of the university that Miss Parker would not receive her degree today.

It was explained by university officials that the charter of Columbia requires that a person receiving a degree or diploma must be of good moral character, and it is the interpretation of Dr. Butler that no person can be deemed of good moral character as long as a charge of conspiracy against the United States rests upon such person.

Miss Parker has successfully passed all of her examinations and she will receive her degree if she is cleared of the Federal charge against her.

WHITE PLAINS, June 5.—Great speed was shown in the registration in Westchester County, as nearly all the young men under the Draft act had obtained their cards before 7 o'clock tonight. It was estimated that the total registration would be about 29,500. Sheriff Ulrich Weisendanger said there had been no disorder of any kind.

order, the Molokans, a branch of the Doukhobors, and have taken a vow against warfare.

MADE TO KISS THE FLAG.

Fellow-Workers Roughly Handled a Draft-Law Opponent.

RACINE, Wis., June 5.—John Robush, employed at the J. I. Case Tin Company plant, was forced to kiss the American flag by 300 of his fellow-employes today after he is alleged to have declared that he would not register and would not fight for the United States.

The man was made to crawl on his knees to the flag, which had been spread upon the floor, and after kissing it compelled to salute. The police informed him he would be arrested if he failed to register before the close of the booths tonight.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., June 5.—José Carice, Governor of the Pueblo of Santo Domingo; Santiago Pena, an influential member of the pueblo, and Julian Baca, an Indian police official, were arrested last night charged with conspiring to prevent the registration of more than twenty residents of Santo Domingo.

The three Indians refused to allow officers to summon distant members of the pueblo for registration, according to a statement issued by the United States Attorney's office, taking the position that they would not be subject to military service since they had no right to vote.

At Farmington, N. M., George Lawrence, a Socialist leader, and several associates were roughly handled by a mob last night because Lawrence was reported to have made derogatory remarks concerning the American flag.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 5.—The tears of his sister caused Raymond I. Moore, an anti-draft agitator, to sign a conscriptive army registration card in his cell at the county jail today. Success came to her only after she had told him that his mother was dangerously ill from nervous prostration and that her husband had left her, the cause in both instances being the disgrace brought on by his arrest. Moore is being held on a Federal warrant charging conspiracy to evade the draft. He is the husband of Mrs. Leonora Warneson Moore, who is being held on the same charge.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, June 5.—A Federal Grand Jury will be assembled at once to start an inquiry into charges against the three men arrested last Thursday on charges of treason in connection with anti-conscription activities. Ammon Hennacy, one of the three held, refused late yesterday to register when Sheriff Slack was taking registrations in the jail, where he is a prisoner. Cecil W. Bailey, another of the alleged plotters, filled out the registration card and told the Sheriff he was ready to fight for the United States. The third man, Harry E. Townsley, is above the registration age.

OMAHA, Neb., June 5.—E. N. Ensign, a young Socialist and anti-conscriptionist, was chased by a huge mob in the principal business street of Omaha today and is now held by Federal authorities on a charge of opposing registration.

Ensign was near a registration booth talking against conscription. White Eagle, an Indian, dragged Ensign to a naval recruiting station and insisted that he should enlist. Ensign refused and started a tirade. He was knocked down by a Corporal and took to his heels, followed by a mob of about 3,000 persons. Ensign took refuge in the Missouri Pacific Railroad offices and begged protection, offering to enlist if he was protected. A platoon of police rescued him.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., June 5.—Joseph Wesowley was taken to Boston by United States Federal authorities today to be arraigned before a United States Commissioner on a charge of interfering with registration. He was arrested yesterday.

BOSTON, June 5.—Frank Motthan of Norwood, a mill operative, arrested yesterday on a charge of urging young men not to register as required by the President's proclamation, was held in $10,000 bail for the Grand Jury after a preliminary hearing before a Federal Commissioner today. He pleaded not guilty.

FEW ARRESTS WERE MADE.

Five Seized at Houghton, Mich.—Scattering Arrests Elsewhere.

HOUGHTON, Mich., June 5.—Five arrests were made here today in the course of an anti-draft demonstration.

CALUMET, Mich., June 5.—Two men were arrested in Keweenaw County today for distributing anti-registration literature. They gave their names as Emil Hanninen and John Rimpila. Both are natives of Finland. Rimpila is a naturalized citizen.

TOLEDO, Ohio, June 5.—Gordon Dimitrio, a Hungarian, was arrested by the police today accused of interfering with registration. Dimitrio was taken from a crowd of Hungarians and Bulgarian from workers on the east side. It was said that he was urging them not to register. He had an I. W. W. card and Socialist literature in his possession. He said that he came a few days ago from Spokane, Wash.

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—United States Attorney Oliver received word today from Kennett, Mo., that one man had been arrested there for interference with registration.

READING, Penn., June 5.—Lewis Stroch, 60 years old, suspected of sending threatening letters to registrars, was arrested by the Federal authorities today.

DES MOINES, Iowa, June 5.—Arthur Formani, an Austrian, was arrested today and turned over to the Federal authorities charged with discouraging registration.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—Vincent Ferrero was arrested today charged with attempting to persuade a crowd of Italians to resist registration.

QUIET REGISTRATION GRATIFIES FRESCHI

SEES PROOF NATION IS SAFE

Favors Publishing Names of All Who Have Done Duty in Order to Shame Slackers.

Judge John J. Freschi, Chairman of the Registry Board of the Borough of Manhattan, issued this statement last night in regard to the registration:

"Thousands and thousands have registered in this great city. A wonderful machinery, with volunteers at the levers, has worked smoothly everywhere. It is surprising that there has been so little disorder. Think of the elements with which the registry officers had to deal. But everybody went to the draft law registry polls eagerly to get their names on the honor list—the roll of men who feel honored to live or to die for this country. It has been a dignified, orderly and patriotic demonstration. America's sons have responded nobly, cheerfully and proudly. America has spoken today. Over a half million of the finest young men of America have given their silent protest against tyranny and autocracy. The seed of democracy has been sown and its fruition will see very soon, I hope, the power of a citizen army enrolled for world-service to plant high the banner of equality and justice.

"The Mayor has cause to rejoice that such splendid results have been achieved in this metropolis, where the work of registration was an immense undertaking, considering the very limited time within which to do it. The efficiency of the volunteer workers from the various city departments has been a source of great help in this hour of national need. The great army of volunteer registrars cannot be forgotten. They served without pay. We honor them. Every man of them has done his bit. The Mayor will surely tender them and all other volunteer workers the thanks of the city, if thanks be necessary for duty done.

"I hope there has been no evasion on the part of the citizenry. Evasion is criminal. Let the light of publicity find the slacker. Publish the honor roll—the names of all that have done their duty by registering. Make it possible thereby to help find the evader. Draft the slacker first. Find the man who has failed in this instance. Get at the slacker. Show him up. Punish him. Prison is too good for him.

"Next, let no parent, sister, or sweetheart try to stop the natural operation of the draft law. The work of the exemption boards will be taken up next. I pray that wherever any one attempts to use influence or anything like it to get exemption, every man will hit it in the head.

"Mr. Boyle, the President of the Board of Elections, is a wonder. He is not noisy, but effective. He runs quietly. He is the coolest man I ever saw handling a heavy piece of work. I congratulate the Mayor in selecting him to act on the city board.

"The most remarkable thing is how well and willingly the foreign element has responded. These people are on the 'job.' They seem anxious to serve the country of their adoption. This speaks well for America. It means that our institutions are guaranteed to posterity.

"America is safe. Democracy is alive. The people will rule. Now for service that must, if thoroughly performed in all other respects, make our country and our homes secure. The man who registers is a good citizen. The man who fights for his country is a good patriot. We want the President of the United States to feel proud of New York City."

BOYLE TELLS OF DAY'S WORK.

President Boyle of the Board of Elections issued the following statement at midnight:

"After consultation with the Adjutant General's offices and the executive offices of the various borough Registry Boards it was decided early in the night not to insist upon complete classifications of cards and summarizations thereof of tonight, except in those election districts where registration was comparatively light. Accordingly, no official citywide figures will be given out until tomorrow, when the final classifying and summarizing will be completed at the various Assembly district headquarters, as contemplated by the Federal regulations. It would be unreasonable to expect those volunteers who have served so faithfully and well to remain up a good part of the night, when they are already tired out.

"The task of registration has been completed after a trying day of hard work by the registrars throughout the city, who assembled at 6:30 this morning. In these circumstances card classifications and accuracy might suffer through zeal to complete the figures tonight at any cost. Accuracy in this undertaking is of first importance.

"A word should be said regarding the loyal and self-sacrificing support rendered to those charged with the responsibility of the work by those citizens who gave their time and effort in an exceptionally exacting day's work—a good day's work. This big factor, in conjunction with the splendid spirit and help accorded by officials of the City Government, particularly the Police Commissioner, and the uniformed force generally, including the Home Defense League, which rendered splendid service at the registration places; the political organizations, and the city's National Defense Committee and its many valuable and effective agencies, all provide enough inspiration to write an epic.

"It is enough to say that in every instance where co-operation was sought there was found an effective response. The experience today is something New York will feel proud of, and it is the spirit which should serve to emphasize the unqualified country-wide approval of the principle underlying the Federal registration plan and a determination to show that the citizenry of New York and its official representatives are solidly behind the President and Congress."

quiry put to each man by the election inspectors as to whether he was bald.

Many business houses and offices were closed for the day, and a considerable number of the young men who registered brought out their families and made a holiday of it. Young wives accompanied their husbands to the registration places in such numbers, in certain quarters of the town, as to cause serious inconvenience to the polling officers, who had to warn them that there was no room inside for those who had no business there.

Women at Registeries.

Perhaps in subconscious imitation of recruiting posters, there were many mothers and wives who made a point of following their sons or husbands as if to point the fact that they were willingly giving their services to the country. And as the young men stepped out with their blue cards on proud display, they walked away, the eager women hanging on their arms and reading the little slip with little evidence of anything but curiosity. Moving picture houses did a big business and many holiday parties made their way to the parks and beaches.

When the hooting of the whistles in the harbor and the ringing of the bells marked the formal opening of the registry booths at 7 o'clock there were already long lines waiting at most of the places. One policeman on the upper east side discovered in the early hours of the morning three young men fast asleep on the steps of the schoolhouse where they were to register, determined to be the first to enroll.

Elsewhere the crowd of workingmen who wanted to get the matter off their minds at the very beginning of the day was large, and considerable confusion was caused in many places because the migratory residents didn't know just which was the right place for them to register in a district where perhaps they had lived only a few months. Registration officials and police knew the location of every office; but the average man, unless he had carefully inquired beforehand, was apt to mistake the one at which he himself belonged; and there was some delay caused by the turning away of men who had come to the wrong place and their arrival at the end of a long line instead of near the head of it.

[illegible] crowds; here and there was complaint of their slowness in beginning to work, and at one office the beginning of registration was long delayed by the failure to lay in a supply of ink. But the crowds were good-natured, even when they had to stand long in line waiting for their turn.

After the initial shortages in the enrolling forces had been supplied by hastily mobilized officials and by members of the Home Defense League, the process of enrollment went on with more rapidity. Registrars were almost without exception courteous, and even friendly in their treatment of those who were enrolling. The foreigner who too often had been snarled at or ignored when looking for a job found an interpreter for use in case of need, an official who was willing to explain everything to him and to listen patiently to his own statements.

There was a shortage of interpreters in many places, particularly for members of the less numerous races. Jewish, Italian, German, Hungarian, and Bohemian interpreters were numerous enough, and in all quarters where a single nationality predominated there was little difficulty. But in New York's many streets of all nations it was often found that some race represented by perhaps half a dozen families had been overlooked, and there was much delay for many of these foreigners while search was made for men to interpret. In many cases volunteer interpreters were pressed into service to explain the meaning of the registration cards to the applicants.

And the foreigners registered without complaint. Foreign-born citizens naturally manifested equal, if not greater, readiness, and one of the heaviest early registrations was obtained in a district in the Bronx where nearly everybody is of the German race. In many of the negro quarters the registration was made the occasion of considerable festivity and jubilation.

Pointed Question to Germans.

Unusual readiness was observed in the Italian districts, where a large percentage of the young men are recent immigrants not yet naturalized, and with no dependents in this country. Many of these were preparing to enlist in the Italian volunteer forces to be raised in this country, but their readiness for American enrollment did not seem to be lessened by this fact. In nearly every case when a German subject registered he was asked explicitly when it came to the question of claim for exemption if he were willing to fight against Germany, and in the great majority of cases entire willingness was expressed.

The question of exemption, of course, has not yet begun to cause real difficulty. That will come later after the men have been drafted. Yesterday's inquiries were limited merely to whether the man registered claimed exemption, and if so, on what ground. In certain sections of the east side it was said that more than half the men enrolled—in a few districts more than 75 per cent.—claimed exemption on the ground of dependent relatives. This was in a quarter where the first member of a family who arrives in the United States usually makes it his business to send for his parents and the younger children as soon as he has money enough to pay their passage. Other foreign races, however, notably the Greeks and to a lesser extent the Italians, are represented in New York chiefly by young men who have not brought over the other members of the family and in many cases do not intend to bring them over, but to go back to the old country when they have made enough money. Here the claims for exemptions were few. It was also found that in the negro sections there were extraordinarily few requests to be omitted from the operations of the law.

One man in the Bronx claimed exemption because he was a member of the police machine gun squad. He was told that this was not one of the "military forces" specified in the regulations, but was assured the Government had no intentions of making drafts on the forces of the Police or Fire Department.

British Officers Enroll.

Four of the younger officers on the staff of Brig. Gen. W. A. White of the British Army, who is at the Vanderbilt Hotel as head of the mission to enlist British subjects in this country in King George's forces, were compelled to register, since the regulations apply not only to American citizens but to aliens as well within the prescribed ages. General White had obtained the opinion of American Army officers that registration for his men between 21 and 31 would be necessary, and in consequence Captain J. Robertson Durham of the Gordon Highlanders, who was "gassed" and wounded at Loos; Captain J. A. Sise, Lieutenant F. A. Gunther, and Major F. R. I. Athill were all enrolled. Their military service was stated on the enrollment blanks in part of the form regularly provided.

The army recruiting headquarters did a pretty good day's business, but notified all applications for enlistment that inasmuch as they were not already enlisted they would be required to enroll. For fear, however, that men who wandered away to the enrolling places would fail to come back and enlist, the officers had installed in their quarters a registration place, which took the names of about 100 men.

When Dr. Sigismund S. Goldwater, Superintendent of the Mount Sinai Hospital, called up the headquarters of the Enrollment Board early in the morning and asked what provisions had been made for the [illegible] only persons in the city for whom no provisions had been made. Special enrolling officers were sent at once to Mount Sinai and afterward to other hospitals, so that no name should be overlooked.

The wardens of the various prisons and jails in the city were instructed to proceed to the enrollment of inmates, and accomplished it in most places without difficulty. In the Tombs Louis Kramer, one of the men arrested for anti-conscription agitation just before registration went into effect, refused to answer the questions on the ground of his opposition to war, and six men claimed exemption as previously convicted felons.

Those who put in a claim to exemption on the ground of conscientious opposition to war usually were stared at by the crowds around them, but escaped without even harsh words. Registration officers treated these men with as much courtesy as the others, and there was no indication of the difficulties that may possibly come later when such objectors are actually drafted and refuse to serve.

Seek Runaway Husbands.

One feature that was noted in a number of registries, as well as in the headquarters, was inquiries from elderly women who had lost track of their sons or younger women who had been deserted by their husbands. Believing that the absentees, from fear of consequences if from no other reason, would put in their appearance to enroll the women were confident that they would get some trace of them, and often tried to take the time of the enrolling officers with lengthy descriptions of men who they feared might register under an assumed name.

Another class which experienced considerable anguish of soul was the recent immigrants who had misstated their ages at Ellis Island in order to obtain admission into the country, or who had represented themselves as two or three years younger in order to obtain civil service positions or other jobs on which there were age limits. Many of those whose recorded ages would throw them within the scope of the draft, while their real ages would leave them either too young or too old, were busy asking advice from friends, from the newspaper offices, or even from policemen, as to which age to give the registration officials. They were advised to tell their real age as less likely to get them into trouble, and in consequence a good many men are now recorded as two or three years older or two or three years younger than their previous sworn statements had represented them.

Yet, with it all, there was no disorder, no open indication of sullenness, reluctance, or disaffection. It was an American holiday, treated with light-hearted [illegible]

COLUMBIA STUDENT IS ARRESTED AGAIN

MARSHAL PLEADED IN VAIN

Young Man Who, He Says, Is a "Moral and Physical Coward," Would Not Take His Advice.

Notwithstanding that the registration booth opposite his home was kept open for nearly three-quarters of an hour to give him an opportunity to register, Charles Francis Phillips, the Columbia University student of 838 West End Avenue, failed to comply with the law, and shortly before midnight last night was taken into custody by five agents of the Department of Justice as he was entering his home. Phillips was already under $3,000 bail for his part in the alleged conspiracy to publish a pamphlet urging no conscription.

When the agents first called at the Phillips home they learned that he was absent. One man was stationed at the 100th Street entrance and another at the West End Avenue entrance to watch for him. The others drove away in an automobile. Phillips was traced to the room of Owen Cattell, son of Professor Cattell of Columbia, in Fernald Hall, a Columbia dormitory at 116th Street and Broadway.

The police and the Federal authorities will begin this morning the work of locating men who violated the law by a failure to register yesterday. Police Inspector Ryan of the Sixth District, which comprises east Harlem, said last night that the police will begin a house-to-house canvass to ascertain if any persons failed to obey the law. Any slackers will be promptly turned over to the Federal authorities. Agents of the Department of Justice will also have a part in the round-up. Under the law cases involving violations of the registration sections of the selective draft law take precedence in the Federal courts over all other cases. In the round-up the authorities look for the assistance of many citizens, particularly those whose sons and kin have registered.

Considerable excitement attended the seizure of Phillips. The deputies found many of the students, some in their military uniforms, anxious to assist in finding Phillips. The deputies were directed to Fernard Hall, where young Cattell rooms, and a room to room search was made of the building. Phillips was finally found in a lavatory of young Cattell's rooms, apparently preparing to retire.

The deputies took Phillips in their automobile to the office of Marshal McCarthy, who was awaiting the party. The Marshal made no secret of the fact that he considered Phillips a very foolish young man and ordered that he be taken, handcuffed, to the Tombs. Before this was done, however, Phillips was permitted to telephone his father. He asked his parent to arrange bail for him today, but no promise was made by the father.

"Why did you not register?" Phillips was asked by the Marshal.

Prepared for Consequences.

"Then you knew you were violating the law and are prepared to take the consequences?"

"Yes, I knew what I was doing. My people begged me to register. My lawyer did like wise. But my convictions were opposed to it," said Phillips.

"What do you think, or did you think, you will gain?"

"Well, I thought that many others would do as I did and that then there would be such an army of objectors that exemptions would be added to the law. I still think these exemptions will be added," calmly announced Phillips.

"Don't you know," asked Marshal McCarthy, "that you will now go to jail for a year, then be brought out, and made to fight, and if you refuse to fight that there is a death penalty?"

PATRIOTIC MEETINGS MARK REGISTRATION

In City Hall Plaza Mayor Impresses on Throng Duties That Confront Every Person.

While those ready to serve were registering, thousands above and below draft age listened yesterday to patriotic addresses in public places, to special sermons in churches, and to the reading of the President's war proclamation in the schools. There seemed to be a general inclination to invest the day with a solemnity in keeping with the event, and in several instances the exercises were arranged to bring out the importance of the day in American history. The reading of the President's proclamation in the schools was generally accompanied by an explanation of the reasons that led to the United States going to war. In some this program was amplified by having the children go through the routine of registering, in imitation of that at the booths. Thousands gathered at Borough Hall, Brooklyn, and in public places in Manhattan, the Bronx, and Richmond to join in the singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" and the national anthems of America's allies.

Addressing a large crowd in City Hall Plaza yesterday, Mayor Mitchel urged every person, rich or poor, to help the country by subscribing to the Liberty Loan as a "practical form of patriotism available to all." The Mayor also fervently declared that if the cause of America and its allies should fail the future of liberty must be defended upon the soil of the United States.

The exercises were in charge of the National Security League, and a feature of the program was the singing by a chorus of forty members of the German Liederkranz, marshalled by President William Forster of the society. Besides singing "The Star Spangled Banner" the chorus led while the crowd sang "America." There was also a concert by the band of the Mecca Temple of the Shriners. The Mayor said in part:

"We are assembled here before the seat of local government of the city to give emphasis by this public gathering to the suggestion of the President of the United States that what is done upon this day be given the solemnity of such a recognition as this function may lend. The young men of our country of military age, between the years of 21 and 31, today place themselves upon the nation's roll of honor. They go to inscribe their names upon the lists of those who will be called upon to serve the cause of America and the cause of world democracy.

Sure to Go Across Seas.

"The men will constitute the first of our national armies, and inevitably, in the present situation, they will be sent across the seas to take their places beside the forces of the Allies to defend democracy for the world. Theirs is a high privilege, and it is fitting that the service which they are going to render should be recognized in this way, and that this day, although not a public holiday, nevertheless should be solemnized by gatherings such as this in recognition of that service that they are to give to their country.

"It is not possible for all of us to serve the nation physically upon the field of battle. Those only of an age that lends itself to that undertaking may have the privilege of serving in that way; but we can all of us serve America in this crisis of her national life, some of us by the civic undertakings that must continue during the period of the war, some of us by active co-operation with the Government—national, State, and city—in the furtherance of the national cause. And all of us, no matter whether rich or poor, can help a little by assisting in subscribing those funds that the national government must have for the successful prosecution of this war.

"My friends, these young men, the brothers, the sons, some of them the fathers, of this country will go to Europe. They will go and place their lives in jeopardy for you, for the future of American democracy, to preserve the liberties that you enjoy and which, let me say to you, if the cause of America and of the Allies should fail in Europe, must be defended here upon the soil of the United States in the future. And don't entertain any illusions as to our escape from the issue. If it is not fought out successfully abroad it will come home here.

"These men, your relatives, your friends, your fellow-citizens, must be supported when they go abroad by munitions, by equipment, by arms and with food to sustain them in the field. These things can be furnished only through the use of money. The nation must have its funds. The United States is today engaged in floating a bond issue of $2,000,000,000. Part of that goes to the support of our allies abroad; part of it goes to the purchase of munitions and equipment and to sustaining your troops in the field. The Government, during the months of the coming year, the remainder of this year and the year to come, will have to offer further issues of these bonds to the people of the country.

"Unless we take up these bonds and support the Government, this war cannot be successfully prosecuted. The obligation is ours; the burden rests on us. The duty is here now, and the privilege is yours, today, tomorrow, and through the weeks that are to come, to make successful this undertaking of America and of democracy, by supporting the armies that you, the citizens of America, are to send into the field in Europe."

Services in Churches.

In St. Paul's Chapel, Broadway and Fulton Street, the services began with a procession of children who carried flags and sang "The Star-Spangled Banner." The Rev. Dr. William Montague Geer in his sermon characterized Germany as the "wolf of the nations," and predicted that Americans would prove to be the very best kind of soldiers, because they were amateur, home-loving fighters and not mechanical professionals. He was assisted by the Rev. George B. Cox and the Rev. Thomas J. Crosby, curates of the chapel.

At old Trinity Church, on Broadway, the Rev. Dr. J. P. McComas conducted a special hymn and prayer service at noon. In St. Bartholomew's Church, Madison Avenue and Forty-fourth Street, there were special prayers, hymns, and a short address by the Rev. Dr. Leighton Parks, the rector.

PLATTSBURG IN NEED OF MUCH EQUIPMENT

Special to The New York Times.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., June 5.—Major Richard Derby, Medical Reserve Corps, was in Plattsburg today in connection with the campaign he is conducting throughout New York State to enlist physicians in the Medical Corps, which is still short. At the Plattsburg post hospital there is urgent need for more doctors, while in the City of Plattsburg itself there are four officers of the Medical Reserve Corps who have not been ordered into active service.

It is pointed out by army officers that the War Department machinery is not coping with the numerous demands for officers and equipment that come pouring in from all parts of the country. At the Plattsburg camp many companies are still without their necessary equipment. One New York company was drilling today with rifles borrowed from another company. Other companies drilled with bayonets fixed in their rifles, owing to a lack of belts and bayonet scabbards.

An eight-mile hike with full equipment was scheduled for today. Some companies went out with their full packs, others marched with lighter packs because they lacked shelter halves and other paraphernalia, and others had no packs at all. Two New England companies were forced to wait ten days before rifles arrived to be issued to them. Equipment lacking at Plattsburg is known to be available somewhere, but the War Department is handicapped in issuing it.

The camp commander, Colonel Wolf, has sent and is sending repeated requests for more equipment. It is well known by officers here that the War Department staff hardly has been increased since the mobilization of troops last Summer on the Mexican border. Guardsmen then had to wait months before receiving their equipment, while overworked officers at Washington were near the breaking point.

It is thought that a solution of the problem might come from the decentralization of some of the authority now retained at Washington to the department commanders. At present department commanders are responsible for troops within their districts, but have not the authority to provide for them. Should anything go wrong the commander is held responsible. A department commander cannot now order out the National Guard, purchase supplies, or lease camp sites without full authorization from Washington. It is felt that with authority placed in the hands of department commanders for ordering men into active duty and procuring supplies, Washington would be relieved of much of its burden, and War Department officials would have the necessary opportunity to deal with the broader aspects of conducting the war.

It was said today by camp instructors that only a shortage in the instruction staff would make it necessary to release a large number of men from the camp before June 15. They regret the possibility of this course, and should it become necessary, as they fear, thus to release many students, it would be for some slight deviations from the camp requirements and not that they consider these men lacking in the qualifications for an officer. The names of the eliminated men will be kept on record, and in all probability they will be first choice for succeeding camps.

Brig. Gen. Clarence Edwards, commander of the Department of the Northeast, made an informal inspection of the training camp today, and expressed himself as greatly pleased with the men who are to officer the new army. Following a conference with regular army officers, he telegraphed certain recommendations to Washington. General Edwards left Plattsburg this afternoon for Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont.

CHINESE GOVERNORS PRESENT FIVE DEMANDS

Want Parliament Dissolved and War on Germany—Oppose Return to Monarchy.

AMOY, China, June 5.—Five demands are made upon the Peking Government by the seceding provinces of China. These are:

The dismissal of the National Assembly.

The revision of the Constitution.

War against Germany.

Compliance with the first two demands is considered the most difficult, but both factions, according to the indications here, are confident that a satisfactory compromise will be reached.

MUKDEN, June 5.—Troops of the Governor of Mukden have reached Shan-hai-Kwan, on the railway 150 miles northeast of Tien-tsin. Forces from Anhui and Shangtung and Huchowfu are encamped at Machang, in the vicinity of Tien-tsin. The military Governors declare they will not support the restoration of the monarchy. The leaders are willing to mediate on the terms of a dissolution of the Parliament of the republic but with the retention of the President.

Consular reports intimate that should the militarists persist in the resignation of the Premier there will be a division between the north and south provinces. It is feared that should the militarists interfere with railway traffic, in which foreign money is concerned, Japan will intervene.

Tien-tsin has declared martial law. A bomb explosion has occurred in the French concession at Tien-tsin in an establishment in which explosives were being manufactured. There were two casualties.

GOVERNOR APPEALS FOR LIBERTY LOAN

BERNHARDT TO DO HER BIT

Governor Whitman issued an appeal yesterday to the people of the State of New York to subscribe generously to the Liberty Loan. His statement follows:

"The young men of the country have come forward loyally and accepted the opportunity to serve the cause of liberty on the battle fronts of Europe. The Government will now proceed to make selections from this vast enrollment and in the course of a few months a small percentage will be chosen. In the meantime, we must raise the money to equip these men and send them abroad. This cannot be done unless the Liberty Loan is generously subscribed. Only ten days more remain in which to take these bonds. We cannot wait until our soldiers go abroad before providing the money to support them. We are at war and our first duty is in connection with this Liberty Loan. Every man and woman in this State should get behind it immediately and go to the banks or trust companies and subscribe for as many bonds as they can possibly take. It is impossible to over-emphasize the disgrace in the eyes of the world and the injury to the cause which would attend a failure upon our part to do generously and with enthusiasm the first thing we have been asked actually to do in this world war."

Before daybreak yesterday, the 2,500 life insurance agents who have been mobilized by the Liberty Loan Committee started out on their campaign for subscriptions to the war bonds. They began at 3 A. M., going to the various produce markets where the farmers congregate. It was said that hundreds of dealers, who had heretofore not been approached, promptly signed applications for the bonds. After the markets had been fully covered the agents canvassed the business sections of the city, the territory having previously been laid out for the various squads. W. F. Atkinson, leader of the agents who are working under the auspices of the Life Insurance Underwriters' Association, said he had received very optimistic reports, although he was unable to make public any figures. The agents will continue their work today.

Bernhardt to Help the Loan.

Mme. Sarah Bernhardt will be the guest of honor at a patriotic meeting to be held this afternoon at The Castle, in Tarrytown. If her health permits, Mme. Bernhardt will deliver a brief address, otherwise she will simply welcome the guests and wave a flag. The other speakers will be Mrs. August Belmont, Judge C. F. Moore, and the President of a Tarrytown bank. The meeting is being arranged by the Women's Liberty Loan Committee and Miss C. E. Mason.

Today is Labor Day for the Liberty Loan, and special efforts will be made to interest the 650,000 members of the American Federation of Labor and its affiliated organizations in the necessity for buying Liberty bonds.

Tomorrow there is to be an aerial rally. The War Department has instructed the Department of the East to lend its airplanes and fliers for the Liberty Loan demonstration. It is planned to have fifteen or twenty army airplanes assemble at noon and move about in military formation and drop bundles of circulars. After assembling over the City Hall, two of the fliers will shoot toward the Battery, while the others will move toward the Bronx. Captain J. E. Miller and Lieutenant A. B. Thaw of the army reserves will be in command of the machines which will cover the financial district. The other officers will be assigned today.

A delegation of American-born Chinamen visited the Liberty Loan headquarters yesterday to subscribe in behalf of the 600 members of the Chinese-American Alliance. They also announced the raising of a regiment composed entirely of men of their own race. One of the callers, Lee Du, was in the uniform of the Home Defense League of the Twenty-ninth Precinct. The Chinamen of the alliance drill several times a week, and they are also receiving instruction from Captain Dominick Henry of the Police Department.

Actors Buy Bonds.

Every member of the "Turn to the Right" company and all the employes of the business and mechanical forces of the production have subscribed for Liberty Bonds, and it is the aim of John Golden, Chairman of the Liberty Loan Theatrical Committee, to have every member of the theatrical profession subscribe to the war loan.

A novel plan for the distribution of bonds among employes has been adopted by the Tower Manufacturing and Novelty Company, which has agreed to pay the first and last weekly installments on bonds purchased by their employes.

A story was told yesterday of an old woman coming into one of the large trust companies with a tin box containing $77 worth of Buffalo nickels. She also had a ten-dollar gold piece and some bills, totaling $100. She said the money represented her savings of two years. She signed a subscription for a $100 Liberty bond.

A banker received a letter yesterday from a prominent merchant of Minneapolis who reported that in that city $10,000,000 of Liberty bonds had been subscribed for in eight days, and that the total represented 20,000 individual subscribers. Minneapolis has about 55,000 school children and 95 per cent. of them have subscribed to the Liberty Loan.

The Ten-Dollar Liberty Loan Participation Certificates, issued by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, are now on sale at most of the banks and at many stores. Until yesterday the Federal Reserve Bank sold the certificates only in wholesale quantities, but yesterday a special teller's window was devoted to the sale of certificates in any amount, from one certificate up. It was said that the bank had received a large number of "repeat" orders, many of the distributers having quickly disposed of the first lot purchased.

Benjamin Strong, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank and Chairman of the General Liberty Loan Committee of this district, issued the following statement yesterday:

The Small Investor's Duty.

"While the campaign to place $2,000,000,000 worth of Liberty bonds is being carried into every nook and corner of the United States, the statement has been made that in such times as these the duty of every man with a small income is to make his money go as far as possible to provide for his own dependents. Therefore, in certain places, the argument has been raised that the Liberty Loan, carrying with it interest of only 3½ per cent., which is from one-half to 1 per cent. less than can be obtained, should be subscribed solely by the wealthy. It is declared that the rich alone can afford to lose the interest on their money, an amount which might help the man of a small income make ends meet.

"The persons who make this assertion, I am sure, have never really considered how little their Government asks of them in this crisis. It asks so very little that even though that little were not weighed in the scales against patriotism and the necessity of every man supporting the United States in her fight for democracy the question should not be considered for a moment.

"Here are a few figures which, I am sure, will put the matter in an entirely different light so far as this interest on a $50 or a $100 bond is concerned. Say a man has $50 which has been drawing its 4 per cent. year in and year out; that is, he has been getting $2 each year; his money is fairly safe, it has been working for him, but has not necessarily represented a single patriotic thought on his part. Now, the same man takes this $50 and invests it in a $50 Liberty bond. He is, first of all, getting actively behind the Government and is just as surely doing his share as the unmarried younger man who is facing the enemy from the trenches or the decks of a warship. He is losing by the transaction, in terms of money, just 25 cents a year, approximately 2 cents a month.

"This is a fact. The Liberty bonds will each bear interest at 3½ per cent., giving the holder of the smallest of them, the $50 one, an income of $1.75 a year.

"Nor is this all. The Liberty bonds are exempt from all sorts of Federal, State, and local taxation, except in the case of inheritance taxes. And if during the course of the war the Government should find it necessary to borrow any money at a higher rate, then these first bonds can be turned in dollar for dollar for bonds bearing the higher rate of interest.

"The Liberty bonds are declared by every banker in the country to be as good as gold. They are better than cash in your pocket because they are earning interest all the time. They are issued for the noblest purpose to which money could possibly be put—the support of the American Government in living up to American ideals. The interest, which is the very smallest item in the situation, is sufficient to keep the American who subscribed from losing any but a fraction of his income, a quarter a year for every fifty-dollar bond purchased for his country's cause."

Boy Scouts Buy Bonds.

The first Liberty Loan subscription to come from a troop of Boy Scouts was reported yesterday. It came from Troop 60, Manhattan, and will be paid for out of the troop treasury, which is supplied with money through the enterprise of the Scouts. The troop is located at the West End Presbyterian Church. It maintains a camp at Bear Mountain in the Interstate Palisade Park for a month each season. The Scout Master is Sereno Stetson, the botanist.

The Lincoln University Endowment Association, of which Major Gen. Leonard Wood is Honorary President, has subscribed $10,000 to the Liberty Loan.

The Palace Theatre yesterday reported subscriptions of $50,000 to the Liberty bonds. Deputy Controller Fisher spoke at the theatre yesterday and took subscriptions for $20,000. In the evening Lawson Purdy made another successful appeal. Other men of prominence spoke at the Colonial, Alhambra, Riverside, Royal, Orpheum, Bushwick, Prospect, Greenpoint, and other B. F. Keith theatres. A. Paul Keith and E. F. Albee have set $1,000,000 as their goal in the subscription campaign.

The largest subscription so far reported from the high-salaried moving picture stars was that of $100,000 by Douglas Fairbanks, announced yesterday. This will account for about one-tenth of the actor's reputed yearly income from the films. Marguerite Clark of the Famous Players-Lasky Company has subscribed for $40,000 of the bonds.

Other subscriptions announced late yesterday included $1,000,000 by the Mackay Companies, which comprise the Commercial Cable Company and the Postal Telegraph Company. The subscription was entered with the Liberty Loan Committee by the Guaranty Trust Company. William A. Read & Co. subscribed for $1,000,000 of the bonds, also in behalf of themselves and clients and entered another subscription for $250,000 for the Remington Typewriter Company.

A number of amateurs took the places of the regular salesmen at McCreery's yesterday and before the store closed $100,000 bonds had been disposed of. The largest batch sold was $50,000 taken by Paul Block of 250 Fifth Avenue. Among the sellers were Miss Estelle O'Brien, daughter of Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, Marion Davies of the "Oh, Boy" company and Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Drew.

Employes of the State Industrial Commission have subscribed for $100,000 Liberty Loan bonds in response to Governor Whitman's appeal. Meetings of the 700 employes of the commission are scheduled to be held in this city, Albany, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo to expand the subscription list. John Mitchell is Chairman of the committee in charge of the commission's activities.

The Railroads Liberty Loan Committee, headed by Alfred H. Smith, President of the New York Central, reported yesterday that results to date among 1,034 railroad companies show a total of $6,127,950 subscriptions, of which $5,455,000 represented block applications by the companies and $672,950 were received from individual employes. Mr. Smith has arranged a system which will result in the canvassing of every one of the 150,000 New York Central workers, while F. D. Underwood of the Erie, W. H. Truesdale of the Lackawanna, and L. F. Loree of the Delaware & Hudson are devoting much time to the distribution of bonds on their lines. The Railroads Committee has set as its goal the placing of an average of $100 with each of the 1,500,000 railroad employes in the country.

Announcement was made at headquarters of the Republican County Committee that a special meeting would be held on Thursday evening at Bryant Hall at 8 o'clock to boom the Liberty Loan and consider other patriotic matters. Speakers scehduled are Senators James W. Wadsworth, Jr., and William M. Calder, former Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio, and Thomas W. Lamont of J. P. Morgan & Co.

Large Sales by Women.

Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim will hold another Liberty Loan meeting this afternoon at Hempstead House, formerly Castle Gould, the biggest country home on the North Shore of Long Island. Every one living within ten miles has been invited to attend the meeting. A meeting to be attended by representatives of the sixty-five organizations co-operating with the Women's Liberty Loan Committee has been called for Friday, Woman's Day, when each will be asked to vote funds from its organization to buy Liberty bonds.

The largest amount of Liberty bonds sold by women, $700,000, is reported by Mrs. Frank A. Vanderlip, Chairman of the Ninth Assembly District, New York State Woman Suffrage Party. Mrs. Frederick L. Cranford, Treasurer of the Brooklyn Woman Suffrage Party, reports the sale of $107,200 through the party.

KERENSKY CALLED MAN OF THE HOUR

on with avidity. The cry that to attack Germany when she is on the eve of revolution would serve the interests of Kaiserdom, has secured considerable indorsement among the Socialists. Happily, however, the Cossacks and many other regiments, including a good proportion of the artillery and cavalry, are intensely loyal and determined not to spare Germany.

The situation that confronts Kerensky is indeed perilous. Much blood will be shed before the "passive anarchy" of the Russian people, as Maxim Gorky describes it, gives way to the personal ascendency of Kerensky.

WORKMEN'S COUNCIL ISSUES NEW PEACE CALL

Wants Socialists and Trade Unions in All Countries to Force End of War.

PETROGRAD, June 5.—The Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates today sent a long statement to the Socialist parties and central federations of trade unions of the world repeating its appeal of March 28 to the peoples of the world to unite in resolute actions in favor of peace, in which it inscribed on its banner: "Peace Without Annexations or Indemnities on the Basis of Rights of Nations to Decide Their Own Destiny."

The statement says the Russian democracy forced the First Provisional Government to accept this program and, "as the events of May 3-4 clearly showed it did not tolerate any departure on the part of the first Provisional Government from that program. The second Provisional Government, under pressure of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates, put forward the same program as the foremost article of its declarations."

The statement then refers to the decision of the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates to take the initiative in summoning an international conference, and continues:

"The Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates is of the opinion that the speedy termination of the war and the restoration of international peace on the basis required by the general interests of labor as well as of mankind can only be achieved if the Socialist labor parties and trade unions in all countries, belligerent and neutral, will unite their efforts in a stubborn and energetic fight against this universal slaughter.

"The first important step in that direction is the summoning of an international conference, the main object of which should be to arrive at an agreement between the representatives of the Socialist proletariat in regard to the termination of the 'party truce' with imperialistic Governments and classes which makes nugatory the real struggle for peace, as well as to carry this endeavor into practical effect.

"An international agreement upon such a policy is the main preliminary condition for placing the struggle for peace upon a broad international footing. This road is indicated to the proletariat by all its international treaties.

"At the same time the summoning of the conference is strongly dictated by the most vital interests of the proletariat and all peoples. All parties and organizations representing the working classes which share these views and opinions and are prepared to unite their efforts to carry them into operation are cordially invited by the Council of Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates to take part in the proposed conference.

"The council begs to express its conviction that the parties and organizations which accept this invitation will by doing so accept the obligations to carry out unfailingly all decisions adopted by the conference. The conference will be opened at Stockholm on a certain day between June 28 and July 8."

WHY KONOVALOFF RESIGNED.

Minister of Commerce Encountered Opposition from Labor Element.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PETROGRAD, June 3, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The resignation of M. Konovaloff, the Minister of Commerce, though a painful symptom of the critical state of industry and commerce, is not likely to lead to a Ministerial crisis or have any such effect as the sudden and unexpected resignation of Guchkoff, ex-Minister of War. No change is now possible in the actual form of the Ministry. At the present moment there can be no question of any Ministry other than the coalition one.

No single fact or incident can be pointed to as being the direct cause of M. Konovaloff's resignation. In his explanation to journalists he said he considered the tendencies now prevalent in the Government as not directed to the alleviation of the industrial crisis, and as he met with strong opposition and could not be responsible for the conduct of a policy opposed to his convictions he wished by resigning to emphasize the seriousness of the situation.

But two events during the last week no doubt had an effect in accelerating M. Konovaloff's decision. At the Moscow Congress of War Industry Committees, M. Konovaloff made a report on the general situation in which he drew attention to the necessity of taking decisive and extreme measures to avert the collapse of the whole of Russian industry. Guchkoff also spoke of his disappointment following on his short-lived joy of the revolution.

Both speeches were very aggravating to the labor group of the committee, who regarded them as charges against the workmen. When the labor representatives spoke in reply feeling rose very high. Charges of inciting a counter-revolution were made against capitalists, and an uproar ensued, with the final result that the labor group rose and left the hall in a body and refused to participate further in the conference.

The second incident awaited Konovaloff on his return to Petrograd. During his absence the Government drew up a declaration on the industrial crisis and the measures necessary to relieve the situation. In view of Konovaloff's absence the draft was made by his assistant Stepanoff, whose proposals met with the strong opposition of Minister of Labor Skobeloff. When Konovaloff returned he expressed entire approval of Stepanoff's draft of the declaration, and in view of the impossibility of coming to an agreement, he handed in his resignation.

Arthur Henderson arrived in Russia just at the moment when his advice and experience are most surely needed, and his assistance therefore is heartily welcomed by the Provisional Government. On Friday evening he was invited to the Cabinet meeting, and members of the Government were particularly interested in his report on the relations of the British Government toward British industry and commerce.

The chief point on which the Provisional Government desired information was the extent to which the British Government now supervises and controls industry. Mr. Henderson's explanations were extremely timely. It should be pointed out that Konovaloff was opposed to too great interference in industry on the part of the State, and this constituted the main difference of opinion between himself and the Minister of Labor.

REDS CRUEL TO PRISONERS.

Kronstadt Council Accused of Ill-Treating Officers.

PETROGRAD, June 5.—Serious accusations are being made on the score of alleged ill-treatment of about one hundred officers of the navy and army held captive by the local Council of the Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates, the same body which last night declared Kronstadt independent. No impartial inquirer is allowed to visit the prison, but the Minister of Justice informs The Associated Press that the accusations are true.

The newspapers publish stories of overcrowding, dirt, insects, neglect of the sick, and violence by guards, even the shooting of prisoners, which rival the worst prison abuses of the old régime. Although the officers were placed in jail nearly three months ago and a so-called commission of inquiry is at work, the victims are still without information as to what they are charged with.

The famous military jurist and member of the first Duma, Professor Vladimir D. Kuzmin-Karavaieff, who boldly championed the cause of political prisoners under the autocracy, publishes an open letter addressed to the Socialist Ministers of the council of delegates, imploring them to intervene.

PETROGRAD, June 5, (via London, Wednesday, June 6.)—Socialist members of the Provisional Government and delegates of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Committee spent the day at Kronstadt investigating the situation. One of the delegates reported this evening to the General Assembly of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council. He declared that if the Kronstadt Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates' decision to assume control there was maintained it would be a blow to Russia, as it would lead the country toward anarchy, especially if the example were followed in other districts.

Accordingly, the committee had drafted a resolution to the effect that while the Kronstadt Workmen's and Soldiers' delegates had given proof of great fidelity to the cause of the revolution, they were directing the energy of the people of Kronstadt along wrong lines and contrary to the interests of the whole of the revolutionary democracy of Russia, which tended toward the creation of a single central revolutionary power.

The resolution added that the Petrograd Council accordingly relied on the devotion of their Kronstadt comrades, feeling assured that they would return to the Russian democracy, which was one and indivisible.

The Kronstadt Committee is sending delegates to Petrograd, who are empowered to settle the misunderstanding at a general session of the Workmen's and Soldiers' Delegates.

SAYS GERMANY PLANS SEIZING LITTLE RUSSIA

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, June 5.—André Chéradame, the author of "The Pan-German Plot Unmasked," recognized in Europe as the leading expert on world politics, in a statement to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent points out that Germany is near the object she has been aiming at from the beginning, and which he detailed as far back as 1901—the formation of a central block comprising Austria, Turkey, and Bulgaria, which is now practically an inexhaustible source of strength financially and economically. He says:

"The public is continually misled regarding the importance of the enemy reserves. Critics generally lose sight of the fact that the coalition block comprising Germany, Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria, and Turkey is able to supply every year 1,300,000 new recruits. The importance of holding the Danube front at all costs was emphasized by me in January, 1915. If this had been done Germany would have been cut off from her main supply source and the war would have been over two years ago. It is now impossible to starve Germany, who is only now beginning to reap the benefit of the allied and invaded territories she has been preparing for industrial exploitation.

"It is a fact that Germany has already in hand land values representing more billions than she needs to cover her war expenses, in addition to having seized control of her allies' banking methods. Therefore it is comprehensible that the question of 'peace without indemnities' can be contemplated by German statesmen without uneasiness. Germany, to complete her territorial and financial scheme, is now preparing to seize what is known as Little Russia, after which there is every reason to suppose that she will be sufficiently gorged to rest content with her spoils.

"I am glad the Allies have at last realized the importance of building the Santa Queranta Monastir road, which I urged them to undertake before the Serbian disaster and which would have saved the situation by rushing troops up to Monastir direct."

Goutor Is Brusiloff's Successor.

PETROGRAD, June 5.—General Goutor, who has been in command of the Eleventh Army, has been appointed to succeed General Brusiloff in command of the southwestern front.

Monday night's Petrograd dispatch announcing the appointment of General Brusiloff as Commander in Chief of the Russian armies said that General Gurko, (or Gourko, as it is sometimes spelled,) Commander on the western front, would be General Brusiloff's successor. Apparently this was an error induced by the similarity in names. General Goutor earlier in the war was Chief of the General Staff at Kazan, in Eastern European Russia.

URGED TO SPEED UP LIBERTY BOND SALE

Regions That Have Subscribed Tentative Allotments Worry Secretary McAdoo.

UTMOST VIGOR NECESSARY

Imperative That Loan Be Largely Oversubscribed—Mint Employes Buy Bonds.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Secretary McAdoo today expressed anxiety about the attitude of many regions toward the Liberty Loan. He has been informed that there is a disposition to regard the allotment, tentatively prepared, showing what each State and city should do in support of the war loan, as conclusive of all effort to support the war, and to allow all activities directed to the sale of bonds to stop there. As the allotment applied only to the first issue of $2,000,000,000, such a course on the part of the public would be fatal to the ultimate success of the loan, which is held to be only a part of the amount of money that will be required to see the war through.

In an appeal to the country not to suspend efforts to make the loan go, Secretary McAdoo said tonight:

"I regret to find that there is a disposition to stop the campaign for further subscriptions after a city has reached the tentative allotment. It is most important that there shall be no cessation of the work, even in those cities which have already responded so promptly and patriotically.

"A tentative allotment of Liberty bonds to be subscribed by Federal Reserve districts and various cities throughout the United States was published a short time ago. It was not intended that these amounts should be considered as all that the Federal Reserve districts and cities in question should subscribe. It was merely an indication as to how the loan could be distributed if every district and every city mentioned subscribed the full amount indicated.

"I earnestly hope that the work will be continued everywhere with the utmost vigor until the subscription closes on June 15. Whether a Federal Reserve district or city has reached the tentative allotment or not, it is imperative that the loan shall be largely oversubscribed, and this cannot be accomplished unless the intensive campaign for bond subscriptions is continued with the utmost earnestness and enthusiasm. The results thus far are immensely gratifying, and if there is no letup in the work, success is certain."

Raymond T. Baker, Director of the Mint, announced today that Supt. Annear and the seventy-eight other officers and employes of the Denver Assay Office had subscribed $11,100 to the Liberty Loan. There were three subscriptions for $1,000, four for $500, six for $200, thirty-two for $100, and thirty-four for $50. All the employes in the office of the Director of the Mint have bought Liberty bonds, Director Baker heading the list with a subscription of $5,000.

A Liberty Loan "trailer" has been sent to practically every motion-picture theatre in the country, and will be shown at every performance until June 15. The trailer shows a picture of a waving flag, followed by a motion picture of President Wilson dictating a message to the American people in his office in the White House. The President's picture is followed by a short message, and the trailer ends with an appeal to buy Liberty bonds. The trailer is the contribution of a committee appointed by William A. Brady, President of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry. The film necessary for the purpose, amounting to 500,000 feet, was given by the Eastman Company of Rochester, N. Y.

The following letter was received today at the office of the Secretary of the Treasury from the Clevelandska Amerika, published in Slovenian in Cleveland, Ohio:

"A mass meeting of the Slovenian Political Club was called to encourage the buying of Liberty bonds and then to explain the meaning of the registration. Four thousand eight hundred persons were present. Fifty-seven enlistments followed. More will come. And the main purpose of the meeting: we secured 579 subscriptions to Liberty bonds in the sums of $50 and $100. More will follow."

Bonds in Lieu of Bonuses.

CHICAGO, June 5.—A number of Chicago corporations have adopted a plan of buying Liberty Loan bonds for their employes in lieu of the customary wage bonuses at Christmas.

The flying squadron of bond salesmen reported that they had obtained more than 8,000 subscriptions with a total of $2,396,000 up to today. Stanley Field of Marshall Field & Co. subscribed for $1,500,000 of Liberty bonds on behalf of the estates of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Field.

FRENCH RECAPTURE TRENCHES ON AISNE

airplanes dropped 1,000 kilograms of projectiles on the City of Treves, in Rhenish Prussia. Other air squadrons bombarded Morhange, Habsheim, (in Alsace,) Frescati, a suburb of Metz; Sissonne, the railway station at Luttes, the munitions depot at Warmeriville, (north of Rheims;) railway stations and military establishments in the region of Laon, the airdrome at Colmar, (Alsace,) and the railway stations at Thionville and Dun-sur-Meuse. Over 36,000 pounds of bombs were dropped, doing great damage.

Six German airplanes were brought down in battles and seven others were compelled to land in a damaged condition. Confirmation has been received of the destruction of two other German machines on previous days.

The text of the afternoon statement follows:

> Violent artillery fighting occurred during the night in the region north of Braye-en-Laonnois. A spirited attack by our troops resulted in the retaking of parts of trenches in which the enemy gained a footing on the previous day, northwest of Froidmont Farm.
>
> In Champagne there was intermittent artillery fighting, which was very severe near Mont Carnillet and the Casque. Various surprise attacks against our posts between Tahure and Auberive were repulsed. Elsewhere the night was calm.
>
> In reprisal for bombardment by the enemy of the undefended village of Bar-le-Duc May 29 and 30, seven of our airplanes on Sunday night flew over the city of Treves (Rheinsh Prussia) and threw down 1,000 kilograms of projectiles. On the same night our squadron rained projectiles on the enemy aviation grounds at Morhange, Habsheim, Frescati and Sissonne. They dropped 16,000 kilograms (36,300 pounds) of bombs on the barracks, which were damaged severely. Other squadrons bombarded the railway station at Luttes, in the Ardennes; the munitions depot at Warmeriville, north of Rheims, and railway stations and military establishments in the region of Laon.
>
> As a part of the operations carried out last night there should be mentioned the bombardment of the airdome at Colmar, the railway station at Thionville, where a fire was observed, and the railway station at Dun-sur-Meuse, where three explosions occurred.
>
> Yesterday our pilots brought down six German airplanes and compelled seven others to land in a damaged condition within the German lines. It is confirmed that two other German machines have been brought down, one on May 25, the other on June 3.

Tonight's statement by the War Office follows:

> The artillery actions have been intermittent along most of the front. They have been more lively on the Belgian front, in the Hurtebise sector and on the Vauclerc plateau.

USING NEW GERMAN ARMY.

Lads of 19 Among Reinforcements of War-Worn Battalions.

OTTAWA, June 5.—Information which has reached Canadian Army Headquarters in France, says an unofficial dispatch received here today, establishes "beyond a doubt" that new German formations in training which were intended to supply von Hindenburg with his next army "are being broken up to supply the reinforcements" needed on the western front.

"A division has recently been strengthened by the addition of a considerable number of these young lads of 19 years. Their training is insufficient, although their morale appears to be good and they are physically fit."

Among German troops which have been at the front for a considerable time "the war weariness is spreading," the dispatch adds, with their morale lowering as "their faith in the U-boat as a means to victory" dies out. "Discipline holds their discontent within bounds," the message declares, "but it is significant that many prisoners express pleasure that they have been captured."

The dispatch asserts that "as the man power fails Germany is turning more and more toward machinery," in the use of which there has been an increase.

Letters found recently on Germans indicate, the dispatch says, that soldiers themselves on scanty rations have here and there been sending food home to their families.

Men's Hand-Tailored Skeleton Suits

You can't make a perfect skeleton garment by merely leaving the lining out any more than you can make a home by leaving love out.

The moment lining is omitted from a coat, the real test of tailoring begins and only legitimate hand-tailoring can produce ideal results.

Franklin Simon & Co.'s Skeleton Suits for summer wear are skeleton yet substantial, because the tailors who make them by hand know the secret of so handling the fabric as to make it self-supporting in spite of its divorce from the lining.

And hand-tailoring does something else, too—it gives to a Franklin Simon Skeleton Garment those easy lines to which all clothes aspire, but which so few achieve.

ITALIANS REPEL BIG AUSTRIAN DRIVE

Vienna Claims 16,000 Prisoners and More Than 160,000 Casualties Inflicted in Isonzo Battle.

ROME, June 5.—Massed attacks by the Austrians on the Italian lines south of Gorizia from Dosso Faiti to the sea have been repulsed after severe fighting. The Italians not only succeeded in stopping the Austrian rush between Castagnevizza and Jamiano, but by counterattacks even succeeded in taking advanced positions in this sector, the War Office announced today. To the south of Jamiano the Italian centre was modified somewhat during the attacks to avoid the Austrian fire, but after the assault had been repulsed the previous positions were almost completely re-established by counterattacks. The text of the statement reads:

> There was a brief artillery action and slight patrol activity on the Trentino and Carnia fronts.
>
> Fresh attempts by the enemy upon our lines east of Gorizia and on the Vodice Sunday night and during yesterday were all repulsed. We took thirty-eight prisoners, including one officer.
>
> On the Carso, after several days of violent artillery preparation, the enemy attacked in mass on Sunday night from Dosso Faiti to the sea. Although the Dosso Faiti positions were completely destroyed they were strenuously defended by brigades of the 215th and 216th Regiments, who succeeded definitely in repulsing the enemy after severe fighting, notwithstanding a heavy barrage fire. Prisoners to the number of sixty-two were captured.
>
> Our troops gallantly resisted determined enemy attacks from Castagnevizza to the ridges north of Jamiano and by counterattacks and heavy hand to hand fighting succeeded in maintaining their positions and even in occupying new advanced positions near Castagnevizza and Versic.
>
> South of Jamiano, while maintaining our wing positions, we were obliged to rectify somewhat the centre of our new line to avoid the enemy fire, at the same time carrying out frequent counterattacks which succeeded in stopping the enemy. Our sharp counterattacks established almost completely our previous positions.

VIENNA, June 5, (via London.)—The losses of the Italians in their attack on the Isonzo front are placed at 180,000 in today's official announcement. Increasing activity near Jamiano, on the front above Trieste, is reported. The statement follows:

> East of Gorizia the enemy on Saturday repeatedly attempted to reconquer lost trenches. All attacks were in vain. Our captured were increased to 11 officers, 600 men, and 9 machine guns. In the Faiti region we took 350 Italians from enemy positions. Near Jamiano the fighting became more active. Near Arco, in the southern Tyrol, an Italian hydroplane was shot down.
>
> It is evident from a careful estimate that the Italian losses in the tenth Isonzo battle surpass all the previous sacrifices of the enemy. In the course of the nineteen days of the battle at least 35 Italian divisions were engaged in the first line, so that along a front of 40 kilometers half of the Italian army attacked. The enemy's losses in killed and wounded positively surpass 160,000 men. Moreover, we took 16,000 prisoners, making the total Italian losses 180,000 men.
>
> For his part, the enemy occupied Mount Kuk (Cucco) and the destroyed village of Jamiano, which gains hardly justify the cry of victory on the second anniversary of the war with Italy. Indisputable success remained ours.

QUESTIONED ABOUT MISSION

Britain "More Than Satisfied" at Result, Says Bonar Law.

LONDON, June 5.—Asked in the House of Commons today whether he would be in a position to give any information as to the results of the British mission to the United States which was headed by Foreign Secretary Balfour, Andrew Bonar Law, Government leader in the lower House, replied:

"I cannot think it will be useful to say anything more at present than that the Government is more than satisfied with the result of the mission."

TO DEFEND JERUSALEM.

STOCKHOLM, June 5, (via London.)—The Turks have changed their mind concerning the defense of Jerusalem, according to information reaching The Associated Press from a most trustworthy source.

Less than a fortnight ago the Turks had decided to evacuate Jerusalem, without battle, provided the city was seriously menaced. It has been learned that this decision has been changed at the instance of the Germans and that the city will be defended.

GERMAN DESTROYER SUNK IN BATTLE

ZEEBRUGGE IS BOMBARDED

Big Fleet with Heavy Guns Rains Shells Into U-Boat Harbor—British Ships Undamaged.

LONDON, June 5.—The German naval base at Ostend, on the Belgian coast, has been bombarded by British warships, the Admiralty announces. The British forces escaped without damage. A German destroyer was sunk and another damaged in a running fight between six German destroyers and Commodore Tyrwhitt's squadron. The text of the Admiralty anouncement reads:

> The Vice Admiral at Dover reports that the enemy naval base and workshops at Ostend were heavily bombarded in the early hours this morning. A large number of rounds were fired with good results. The enemy shore batteries returned our fire, but our bombarding forces suffered no damage.
> Commodore Tyrwhitt also reports that early this morning a force of light cruisers and destroyers under his command sighted six German destroyers and engaged them at long range in a running fight. One of the enemy destroyers, the S-20, was sunk by our gunfire and another severely damaged. Seven survivors from the S-20 have been picked up and made prisoner. There were no casualties on our side.

According to The Evening News correspondent, when Commodore Tyrwhitt's squadron first sighted the Germans they were five miles distant. They had apparently put to sea in fear of bombardment from the air and the water. When they tried to regain port the British squadron divided into two lines. A British destroyer opened the engagement and her fire damaged the S-20 almost immediately.

Then a British cruiser joined in the engagement. The S-20 soon began to sink. A destroyer rescued seven survivors during the chase of the remaining five German destroyers. This continued until the Germans had reached the mined waters off the Belgian coast.

A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Flushing says that according to a frontier correspondent the bombardment of Zeebrugge last night was the most formidable since the war began. It was carried out by the fleet with heavy guns and lasted for a hundred minutes.

"The damage must have been severe," says the dispatch, "for the explosions were heard continuously until 8 o'clock this morning. Several fires were seen. The German batteries replied forcibly, but, owing to the mist, found it difficult to locate the positions of the British ships, and it is not believed they got a single hit."

AUSTRIAN LOWER HOUSE INSTITUTES REFORMS

AMSTERDAM, June 5, (via London.)—A Vienna dispatch says that the Business Committee of the lower house of the Reichsrat has agreed on the following proposals for alterations of the standing orders: Secret sittings, for which the demand must be supported by fifty members; the right of questioning Ministers; payment to members of 1,000 kronen monthly, (about $200,) with allowances to the President and Vice President while in office; restriction of speeches and voting by ballot.

Government bills relating to commercial and State treaties, common Austro-Hungarian affairs, and budget and recruiting bills are to receive special treatment. The Austrian provisional budget for the second half of 1917 authorizes the Government to collect taxes and duties according to the normal standard and to defray State expenditure for 1917-18 according to State estimate.

In respect of common Austro-Hungarian affairs, Austria must contribute her share of the common expenditure if Hungary does likewise. The Government is authorized to raise credits to defray the extraordinary war expenditures and such State expenditures as are not covered by the revenue for the financial year of 1916-17. The war credits will appear twice in the period from July to December, 1917. The period for appropriating credits for railway construction will be extended.

A Vienna dispatch to the Vossische Zeitung, discussing the prospect of serious dissensions in the coming discussions of the Reichsrat, says that the position of Premier Clam-Martinitz has become more perilous since the opening of Parliament. The dispatch says that the greatest trouble is likely to arise through the airing of the grievances of the Czechs, Germans, Poles, and Socialists.

TOLL OF SUBMARINES FOR WEEK AGAIN LOW

No Vessel Was Sunk Last Friday—American Units Aid in Successful Encounters.

LONDON, June 5.—The weekly report of losses of British merchant vessels in the submarine campaign will again show a favorable total when it is issued tomorrow. In some respects the last week has been the best since unrestricted submarine warfare was begun. Last Friday was a blank day on the records; that is, no losses of British merchantmen occurred. It is the first time this has happened for a long period.

British naval people believe the improvement is cumulative, and that there is not the slightest chance, with the improved allied organizations, that the Germans ever will repeat their performance of the black week when nearly sixty boats were sunk. The weather continues to favor the boats which are fighting the submarines, and the coöperative organization of the patrols, aircraft, and other anti-submarine services is improving constantly.

The arrival of American units has helped in more ways than one. Among other things, it has instilled a friendly rivalry in the campaign against the submarine, stimulating the morale and adding to the keenness of the men of both fleets.

Progress of the technique of the anti-submarine campaign includes more careful supervision together with various vigorous offensive measures which it is impossible to detail. In the last week there have occurred numerous encounters the results of which have been entirely satisfactory to the Admiralty. American ships have a share of the credit.

PARIS, June 5.—On twenty-eight occasions last month French merchantmen came in contact with submarines. Six vessels escaped from torpedoes and twelve from gunfire. Eight torpedo attacks and two attacks with guns resulted in the sinking of vessels.

Twelve engagements occurred in May between French torpedo boats and submarines. French hydroplanes had fourteen fights with submarines, and French patrol ships three such engagements.

NO TIME TO TALK PEACE, FALKENHAUSEN SAYS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, June 5, (via London.)—Chancellor von Bethmann Hollweg has received stanch support in his attitude regarding peace conditions from so conspicuous a personage as the newly appointed Governor General of Belgium, General von Falkenhausen. As it well known, the Pan Germans, who seek to force the Chancellor's hand on peace conditions, have repeatedly attempted to make capital out of the alleged opposition of the Generals commanding at the front to the Government's non-committal policy. The Lokal-Anzeiger, which has lately joined forces with the Pan Germans, sent one of its correspondents to Brussels to see what General Falkenhausen had to say regarding peace.

His Excellency, who until his recent appointment, commanded an army at the front, made the following remarkable statement:

"I have conducted war as a soldier pure and simple. I knew it was my duty to fight the enemy in the best way possible and leave politics to those whose business it is. Soldiers must fight and win victories; no politics for them. That is the way it is on all the German fronts, thank Heaven!

"That does not mean exclusion or restriction. One does talk about the international situation and about war aims at the front because one has been fighting victoriously for peace these last three years. But every soldier knows that the discussion of war aims is unprofitable today. War is something living, creating new pictures every day, new suppositions and deductions within narrow sectors as well as its total aspect. The truths of today may be things of the past tomorrow, and to base peace conditions on the truths of today may mean to pledge oneself for conditions of the morrow that may rest perhaps on an entirely changed basis. It would mean tying one's own hands and sacrificing freedom of determination."

"How absurd to demand today that the Government make public its peace program! So far I have spoken merely as a soldier, but even personally I cannot go beyond that. We stand in the midst of war, but are always ready for peace. Our opponent wills us to continue the battle; thus there is but one thing to do—that is, do our duty to our country, conscious of our strength until the day arrives when the enemy is ready to negotiate. The common anxiety for peace will then afford us an opportunity to sit together at one table. Then we shall conceal our conditions no longer.

"A peace conference today would not differ much from any commercial convention. Many points would have to be settled. Everybody has special wishes and desires, and must have an opportunity to say which are in satisfaction of his own conditions and which are concessions to the peculiar ways of thinking of his partners. But once more to proclaim one's wishes or dislikes today, while the enemy is still anxious to continue to fight, would be regarded only as a sign of weakness and would remove us from rather than bring us nearer to a general understanding.

"Be prepared; that means everything. We are prepared for further fighting as well as for peace, and our enemies know it."

LONDON, June 5.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company from Amsterdam says:

"According to the Tägliche Rundschau, the recent visit to Brussels of Dr. von Bethmann Hollweg, the German Imperial Chancellor, to discuss with General Falkenhausen the Governor General of Belgium, a plan for the partition of Belgium, revealed the absolute refusal of all the Belgian officials to have anything to do with it. The plan, therefore, will almost necessarily have to be postponed."

FOR "CARDS ON THE TABLE."

French Declaration Expected to Clarify the Allies' Peace Policy.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, June 6.—The order of the day voted by the French Chamber of Deputies has cleared the air of many misconstructions that to some extent lately befogged the real issues of the war. It is hoped and believed by competent observers here that Prsident Wilson's message to Russia, combined with the plain statement of French aims, will have a great influence with the Russian democracy.

Several pleas have been made for a straightforward expression of British policy, in which the old-fashioned ideas of diplomatic reticence shall have no part, and all portents point to such a course of action being taken. In London the feeling in favor of a policy of all cards on the table has never been stronger than it is now.

If the proposed "International" had never achieved any other object, it map be said to have justified its projectors by the way in which the talk of the Stockholm conference has forced into the arena of open discussion matters which the war Governments long sought to keep in the background of secret negotiations.

The publication by France of her secret treaties is expected to be the first of the series, and the prediction is being made that the days of secret diplomacy are already over—at least in so far as democratic countries are concerned.

President Wilson's communication to the Russian Government is not the least momentous of the Presidential contributions to the essential facts of the world war.

Germany's attitude in the present circumstances is being watched closely here. Her manoeuvres in respect to Petrograd and the Stockholm conference are along her usual lines. Bethmann Hollweg's reported declaration that Germany sought no annexations and no indemnities still remains shrouded in mystery, which gives rise to the suspicion that it was designed only for foreign exportation and consumption outside of Germany.

The appearance of stalemate which the war seems to have assumed at present, and which, according to the best judges, in no way corresponds to realities, as may be demonstrated before very long, encouraged the pacifist elements in this country, and the German publicity mongers did their utmost to emphasize the impression.

President Wilson's communication to Russia and the French Chamber's vote completely counteracted that tendency. Their influence will be felt in Germany, for, as The Westminster Gazette says, between now and the end of Autumn there will come a decisive point for Germany—a point at which she will discover that the submarines are not going to defeat England, and that the military power of the United States is a formidable reality. When that time comes, it is urged by the advocates of a public expression of complete agreement between the Allies as to their war aims and a full statement of those aims, the policy of all cards on the table will not only be the strongest bond between all the Allies, great and small, but will be an eye-opener even to the German masses, however it may be to the Prussian militarists.

WOULD DISMEMBER RUSSIA.

Pan-Germans Urge a Separate Peace with Finland and the Ukraine.

COPENHAGEN, June 5, (via London.)—A program for the general dismemberment of Russia was put forward at a meeting at Essen of the newly formed Rhenish-Westphalian branch of the Independent Committee for a German Peace, the organization of the Pan-Germans. "Blood and iron" was the motto of the meeting, and the speakers advocated far-reaching plans of German territorial aggrandizement.

The principal speaker declared that it was useless to attempt separate peace negotiations with the Russian Provisional Government, but suggested that advantage might be taken of present conditions in Russia to approach the Finns and Little Russians with peace proposals. He asserted that Finland and the Ukraine could easily be detached from Russia. The speaker further advocated the seizure by Germany of Lithuania and Courland and their colonization by 2,000,000 German-speaking Russians from the interior of the Slavic dominions, thus weakening Russia and establishing a complete bulwark of dependent States east of Germany and Austria-Hungary.

Professor Busch of Marburg University, another of the speakers, recommended, according to the Kölnische Zeitung, the imposition of war indemnities in the form of raw materials, such as Sweden exacted from Prussia after the Thirty-Years' War. Professor Busch also said:

"Only cranks trust in international conventions, and, as for disarmament treaties, they are not worth the paper they are written on. Neutrals, as history shows, have always tried to spoil the triumph of the victor. President Wilson plays the same role as Napoleon III. after the battle of Sadowa, but Wilson may also meet his Sedan. May the sword remain unsheathed until diplomacy has spoken its last word."

Dr. Beumer, a Prussian Deputy, extolled Bismarck's maxim: "The only sane basis of a great State is a healthy egoism, not romanticism. Dr. Beumer urged a return to the Bismarckian manner of conducting Germany's foreign policy.

BERLIN, June 5, (via London.)—The following statement has been issued at official headquarters in the East, under date of May 30:

"The chief commander has approved the formation of a confidential Council of Lithuania, composed of the most prominent Lithuanians."

REPUDIATE SCHEIDEMANN.

German "International" Socialists Denounce Him to Russian Comrades.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ZURICH, June 5, (Dispatch to The London Daily Chronicle.)—The international section of the German minority Socialists refuses to attend the Stockholm conference. Their leader, Dr. Franz Mehring, in an explanatory letter to Russian "comrades," refuses to attend the same conference as Philipp Scheidemann, and advises the Russians to follow his example on the ground that Scheidemann and his party are merely assisting German imperialism.

CABLE TO GERMANY MISQUOTES BAKER

Apparently Slipped By the Cable Censorship in Some Form.

PORTRAYS US COLD TO WAR

Frankfurter Zeitung, Which Prints It, Has an Office and Correspondent Here, but No Cable Rights.

AMSTERDAM, June 5, (via London.)—The Frankfurter Zeitung says:

"Our special correspondent at New York cables, under date of June 3, that 'the American Secretary of War admits in the newspapers that the conscription law is such a revolutionary novelty for the American people that a certain amount of reluctance to join the colors is understandable.'"

The Frankfurter Zeitung thinks that this is a serious symptom and interprets it as condemnation of the war by the American people, "not because Americans are more cowardly or indifferent than others," it explains, "for the American is a born fighter and would cheerfuly rush to arms if convinced that his country's vital interests, real honor, or existence were at stake, but this conviction evidently is lacking.

"From the beginning," the paper continues, "it was Wilson's war, and, in the opinion of the American Nation, it clearly remains an enterprise frivolously begun, entirely unnecessary, and, therefore, highly immoral."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—When the attention of the Committee on Public Information was called tonight to the dispatch printed in the Frankfurter Zeitung under a New York date line quoting Secretary Baker as indicating that trouble was expected over the draft law, interest in the matter was shown immediately, and the officials on duty for the committee were quick to grasp the suggestion that there was something wrong in the outgoing cable censorship if a dispatch of this character could be sent from the United States to a German newspaper.

One of the officials of the committee said that he had not heard of the Frankfurter Zeitung dispatch until it was called to his attention by THE NEW YORK TIMES, but he realized the importance of ascertaining how it reached Germany, and he would take measures to get at the bottom of the matter. It was understood that the committee would ask the Navy Department to instruct its censors at the New York cable office to make a careful examination of all the cable messages sent to Europe on June 3.

Secretary Daniels, who, as head of the Navy Department, has charge of the matter of cable censorship, is out of town. Officers on duty at the Navy Department who have supervision over cables and wireless declined to make any statement. An official of the Secretary of War's office said that Secretary Baker was attending a college commencement at Chapel Hill, N. C.

This official said he was sure that if Mr. Baker had made any statement on the subject of difficulty in enforcing the draft law his language had been distorted in the Frankfurter Zeitung publication. This official was certain that Mr. Baker had not said anything to justify the statement in the German newspaper.

The important thing about the Frankfurter Zeitung dispatch, however, it was pointed out here, was not whether the Secretary of War had expressed doubt of the willingness of young America to join the colors, but how a dispatch of this character reached Germany. It was pointed out that the dispatch was obviously written to influence German opinion in a way to injure the United States and encourage Germany in her warfare with this country. If cable messages could be sent from New York to Germany under the nose of American censors, it was said, the United States Government must realise that there was a weak spot somewhere in the censorship.

The particular phase of the matter in which officials showed most interest tonight was whether the dispatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung had been sent from New York to some address in a neutral country of Europe, and thence transmitted to Frankfort. It was indicated that particular care would be taken to ascertain if messages were being sent to Germany through some such means.

Commander Hoff, U. S. N., the chief censor at New York, with offices at 64 Broad Street, had left his office when the Amsterdam dispatch to The Associated Press was taken there last night. In his absence none of the subordinates would discuss the interesting question as to how such a misquotation of Secretary Baker, or any American information at all, had reached the Frankfurter Zeitung.

At the offices of the transatlantic cable companies it was said that a message in the form printed could not possibly have gone over the cables from New York. It was not denied that the message might have been transmitted in apparently harmless code, addressed to a person in England, who, in turn, could relay it into a neutral country, Holland or Scandinavia, and thus send it to Germany.

The correspondent of the Frankfurter Zeitung in New York was Dr. Jaeger. His office was at 8 Broad Street. So far as could be learned last night the paper has no correspondent in this city at present. The former representative said he had filed no dispatches in several weeks. German newspapers expressed the belief that the Frankfurt paper clipped its disatches from neutral papers and dated them at their point of origin.

VIENNA STRIKERS WIN.

Munition Workers to Get Better Food and Higher Wages.

AMSTERDAM, June 5, (via London.)—A Vienna dispatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung says that the agitation conducted by the munition and metal workhas been settled, after discussions between the Ministry of War and the Food Board. The result, according to these advices has been the creation of a special department of the Food Board for supplying the munitions and metal workers.

The wages of these workers have been increased, it is stated. Those earning 50 kronen weekly are to get .75 in the future, while those who earn 100 kronen are to receive 107½.

GERMANY CALLS DESERTERS

Decree Promises Lenient Treatment if They Return to Colors.

LONDON, June 5.—A decree issued in Berlin, as reported from Amsterdam in a Central News dispatch, appeals to deserters to return to the colors before July 15. Those who do so may look for amelioration of punishment or for pardon if they show themselves worthy in the field. Furthermore, they will not be placed under preventive arrest.

The decree adds that the offer will not be repeated. The enemy, it is said, will regard this appeal as a sign of difficulty in filling the ranks, but as a matter of fact it is a noblehearted act by the Emperor.

Nebraska Socialist Quits Party.

OMAHA, Neb., June 5.—G. C. Porter, State Secretary for Nebraska of the Socialist Party, today resigned his position, declaring he could not sympathize with certain elements within the party that oppose conscription. Last Saturday Porter tore down a red flag from the walls of the Socialist headquarters and substituted the Stars and Stripes, which had been removed on the declaration of war against Germany.

Uncle Sam Invites You to Visit His National Parks

The Government has done big things this past year in adding to the interest of the National Parks.

Many new trails have been laid out in Glacier so that interesting places heretofore inaccessible may now be visited. Automobiles are universal now in Yellowstone, taking the place of the uncomfortable and slow-going horse stages, a matter for rejoicing by visitors, and the "Cody Road"—eastern gateway of the Yellowstone—has been perfected so that its marvelous scenery can be viewed from comfortable automobiles, through glorious Shoshone Canyon and over beautiful Sylvan Pass. Don't miss the Cody Road!

Let me tell you in detail of the opportunity to visit Glacier, Yellowstone, Cody Road, Rocky Mountain (Estes) Park, Denver and Colorado Springs (with Pike's Peak and Garden of the Gods near by) all on the lines of a single great railroad system—the Burlington Route—the big, Prosperous, well-managed railroad of the West. One ticket over one railroad. A glorious trip!

WIRELESS SEIZED AT MEXICAN PIERS

MANY DRAWINGS ARE FOUND

Two More Arrests Expected Today—Vigorous Effort to Capture Leaders of Plot.

The elaborate German spy-plot system added one more failure to its list in the effort to send wireless plants from the United States to be set up in Mexico. The apparatus shipped by Harry F. Perissi, New York agent of the Allgemeine-Electricitäts-Gesellschaft, or General German Electrical Company, and his accomplices to the Mexican agents of that concern got no further than Vera Cruz, where it was seized through the work of agents of the United States Government, and is now in the possession of the Department of Justice. It did not get off the piers at Vera Cruz. This apparatus was shipped from New York in January.

Assistant District Attorney Roosa said yesterday that it was the belief of his office that none of the wireless apparatus sent from New York to Mexico was ever put in operation. The investigation which led to the arrests here on Sunday and Monday has been under way since the Department of Justice learned of the shipments of parts of wireless plants from New York to Mexico.

A table in Mr. Roosa's office was piled high yesterday with documents seized in the office of Perissi, at 17 Battery Place, and in the homes of the other men arrested for complicity in the wireless plot and operating an underground mail route to Germany. There were also three suitcases filled with the documents, which Mr. Roosa had not had time to examine closely. Some of the papers disclosed that agents of the German Government had been assembling wireless parts in the back of a store in Greenwich Street. During November several of the machinists working on the job, who were Americans, finding out what they were doing, quit their places, and when the owner of the property exhibited curiosity as to what was being done on the premises the "factory" was moved to another house in Greenwich Street, where, the police said, the outer room was disguised as the office of a tea and coffee importing house.

The documents taken from the men already held will lead to further arrests. At least two arrests may be expected today and as many as ten may follow in the next fortnight.

Perissi was released yesterday on $25,000 bail, furnished by William A. Duncan of Far Rockaway. Irving Bonaparte, a clerk employed by Perissi, and Alex E. Melchar, a saloon keeper, are still held in $25,000 bail.

The police have discovered that Henry Frencke of 202 Thirty-first Street, Brooklyn, who was detained Monday night on the suspicion that he had been connected with the underground mail route between this country and Germany, was formerly an engineer on one of the Hamburg-American Line ships at the Brooklyn piers. A year ago he went to work in the main office of the company in Manhattan. The police said he admitted that on sixteen different occasions he took letters from Germans living in Manhattan and delivered them to German and other sailors in Brooklyn and Hoboken, who said they would find a way to get the letters through to Germany. He did most of this work prior to last November.

Ferdinand H. Adam of 503 West 140th Street, who is also detained by the District Attorney, is said to have shown a disposition to tell the authorities all he knows with regard to German plots in which he was concerned. Mr. Roosa said yesterday that Adam was in Mexico at the beginning of the war; that he started for Germany on a Spanish ship; was taken off by the British and placed in an internment camp in Canada, from which he was released about a year and a half ago, and came to New York. He is regarded as the "outside man" for the wireless plotters.

Efforts are being made to learn why the German electrical concern which Perissi represented did not manufacture wireless plants in Germany instead of here. The police and detectives have found at least 150 plans for wireless outfits, drawn in great detail, and they have also found that all the plans and bills were approved by one man, supposedly a German agent, whose name is withheld until it is assured that he is not in New York. The authorities consider it probable that he is in Mexico. He is believed to have been assigned by the German Government to the task of establishing a system of wireless communication between America and Germany by means of stations in Mexico and Central America.

While the authorities feel confident that the German attempt to send wireless outfits from New York to Mexico was a failure, they are not confident that outfits were not sent to Central American countries and set up. There have been frequent reports of powerful wireless plants working from Central America, and some months ago the authorities at Colon found a complete outfit destined to a Central American consignee.

The District Attorney's office and Deputy Police Commissioner Scull were reticent yesterday about the progress of the investigation of the wireless and mail plots. With the exception of Perissi, the men arrested here are regarded as "small fry," as Mr. Roosa put it, and the nets are out for those more responsibly involved. Whether they remained in this country after the declaration of a state of war by the United States is not known, but it is believed they still have important representatives here.

The authorities here were much interested in dispatches from Washington stating that the United States Government was watching intently German activities in Central and South American countries and was investigating the reported attempt by the Kaiser to buy an island off the Venezuelan coast, as well as efforts by the German Government to obtain the consent of Argentina for the erection of wireless plants there. It is considered more than likely that some of the 150 plants seized in this city were drafts of wireless plants intended for South America.

Commissioner Scull was asked if his investigation had uncovered any cases of money being shipped in suspicious quantities from New York to Central American countries. The Federal Reserve Board has called the attention of banks to the suspicion that German money was being shipped out of New York for use in spy-plot work in Central and South American countries. Mr. Scull said he had no evidence of such shipments.

MUCH COAL DISCOVERED

Officials of Museum of Natural History Say Expedition Justifies Heavy Expense.

A message signed by Donald B. MacMillan, head of the Croker Land expedition, was received yesterday by Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn, President of the American Museum of Natural History and Chairman of the Croker Land Committee. The message came from Dr. Harrison J. Hunt of Bangor, Me., surgeon of the expedition, who left the party about the middle of February, and recently arrived at Copenhagen.

A dispatch was received at the American Museum of Natural History last week from Dr. Hunt, sent from Thornshaven, in the Faroe Islands, saying that MacMillan and the rest of the party were safe at Etah, as well as the members of the first relief party, which lost its ship.

From the scientific point of view, the museum officials believe, the results of the expedition justify the heavy costs. Although Croker Land, which Rear Admiral Peary thought he saw, proved to be a land of mirage, the party discovered six new islands, and mapped and explored Finlay Island, seen more than sixty years ago by Sir John Franklin, and never before, so far as is known, visited by man.

Mr. MacMillan's message, which was sent by the American Minister at Copenhagen and came through the State Department, follows:

All well at Etah headquarters, Crockerland Expedition. Relief ships of 1915 and 1916 failed to reach us. Dr. E. O. Hovey and Captain George Comer arrived by power boat from North Star Bay in September. Will spend year with us. Hunt and Ekblaw proceeding home by way of South Greenland and Copenhagen. Have good warm house, plenty of fuel, and adequate supply of food until August, 1917. A third ineffectual attempt at relief will compel us to resort to Eskimo mode of living—an igloo for shelter, skins for clothing, and meat for food.

Plans for 1916 trip carried out successfully. Left Etah March 22 with seven Eskimos, eight sledges, eighty dogs for exploration of Finlay Land, the kind Christian Island of Sverdrup. This land was seen about sixty-four years ago by Franklin Search Expedition, but as far as I am able to learn has never been visited by white man. Plan to go light, go fast, and live largely upon resources of the country, in order to get back before Smith Sound broke out in Spring. Crossed Ellesmere Land by old Eskimo pass, ascending river bed at the head of Flagler Bay to height of land, thence to height of glacier to altitude of 4,000 feet, descending into the head of Bay Fiord.

Passed through wonderful game country—wolf, caribou, musk-ox, seal, hare, ptarmigan, lemming, fox, and polar bear. Sledging surfaces throughout trip excellent. Secured sights for longitude and latitude at all important points, also line of azimuths from 73d meridian—across magnetic meridian to 103d. Much coal all through this region. Evidence of recent uplift of land on all shores. Large numbers of bears and musk-ox kept dogs in good condition. Two sledges sent back to headquarters with specimen skins for American Museum from Eureka Sound and two from Cape southwest of Axel Heiberg Land. Game failed, however, from 97th meridian on. Reached Finlay Land April 19, twenty-nine days from Etah. Slopes very low with gentle slopes toward interior, culminating in mountain peaks 2,000 feet in altitude. Tracks of caribou, lemming, and fox seen. Two days heavy wind drift prevented us from hunting, or from making extended observations or survey of coast line. On 23d weather cleared sufficiently for me to obtain good sight for latitude, longitude, and azimuths. Compass needle at last camp pointed almost due south. Lack of dog food compelled retreat.

On the return swung south for exploration of North Cornwall, which was seen in about 1850. Tracks here of musk-ox, wolves, and caribou. Mapped northern, eastern, and southeastern shores of Findlay Island much larger than recorded and very different in shape. Discovered five islands off its shores; also good-sized island off eastern coast of Amund Ringnes Island in latitude 78 degrees 18. Built cairns and inclosed records at all prominent points on trip. Many seals on the ice on the return furnished plenty of meat. Reached Etah May 15, crossing from Victoria Head to Anoritok. Time 56 days, 1,350 statute miles.

Members of expedition have done good work in botany, geology, glaciology, ornithology, ethnology, archaeology, photography, and meteorology. Very fortunate in securing two sets of eggs of the knott, which were found by Dr. Hunt at Umanak; he will continue his work at Etah and vicinity until the arrival of the ship in 1917. Dr. Hovey has begun work in geology, seismology, and glaciology. Extensive plans for future exploration in Spring. Work to begin about March 1. I have large number of dogs, walrus meat for food, whole wheat biscuit, and pemmican for trail. Sun now well on way south, having left us on Oct. 24 for 118 days. Men all happy and confident of good health. MacMILLAN.

This cable message also came through the same channels to President Osborn:

MacMILLAN.

BAYONETS AND RAIN QUELL PRISON RIOT

ONE KILLED AND MANY HURT

Two Hundred Prisoners Defy Soldiers, but Are Driven to Cover by a Drenching Shower.

JOILET, Ill., June 5.—After one prisoner had been killed, eight severely injured, and several others hurt today during three riotous outbreaks at the State prison by 1,000 convicts, a rainstorm drove the last 200 of the mutineers to the cell house, although they had stubbornly refused to move before the bayonets of National Guardsmen who quelled the outbreak.

Fires set within the prison buildings destroyed the prison yards buildings, entailing a total loss of $200,000. Several other buildings were damaged by the flames.

John Murphy, life convict, said to be a leader of the riot, suffered a fractured skull when he was struck by a guard with a clubbed rifle.

There were three riots during the day, but the disorder was almost continuous from the first outbreak until order was finally restored by troops. All offenders are locked in cells tonight. The first disorder came at breakfast when 900 convicts showed displeasure over an order issued by Warden Bowen that hereafter prisoners could receive no visitors except relatives. Shouting disapproval, the men began throwing table ware and breaking furniture and driving the guards to cover.

The second outburst followed an incendiary blaze in the chair factory about three hours later. The prison firemen were assaulted and driven back by convicts when an attempt was made to extinguish the blaze. By the use of the fire hose upon the convicts the assailants were driven back. The threatening attitude of the convicts caused the Warden to ask for State troops. The troops in Joliet are in Federal service, and an order had to be obtained from Army Headquarters in Chicago. By the time the soldiers arrived fires had been set in several places, threatening the entire prison.

The outbreak of unruly prisoners then became so threatening that Captain Hamlet C. Ridgway ordered the soldiers to drive the men back with fixed bayonets while the Fire Department fought the flames. As the sharp points of the steel penetrated the clothing of those in the front ranks of the convicts they winced and finally broke into a run that carried all the outlaws to the prison walls. There the men were told that they must return to the cell house. With the flames crackling near them the men refused to yield, apparently hoping that the fire would release all to the open fields.

As the flames began to quench many convicts gave up. All except about 200 of the convicts were thus placed under lock and key. The remainder sullenly stood their ground and the officers decided not to fire on the men except as a last resort.

Rain began to fall in torrents on the prisoners, and they surrendered to gain shelter. All were quickly placed in the steel-barred cells, and the riot was over. In the meantime Major J. V. Clinnon arrived with a second detachment of troops, and guards were thrown around every part of the penitentiary. Captain Ridgway was detailed to stay on duty at the prison until all danger was over.

While the tightening of prison rules was said to be the sole cause of the disorder, Hinton C. Clabaugh of the Federal Bureau of investigation at Chicago sent eight men to determine what part, if any, objection to conscription registration played.

HOW ADVERTISING HAS HELPED IN WAR

J. Murray Allison Tells St. Louis Convention It Raised 3,000,000 Volunteers for England

ALSO BILLIONS IN MONEY

Advertising Campaigns Great Aid to Canada—Louis Wiley Urges War on the Free-Publicity Seeker.

ST. LOUIS, June 5.—The part which advertising men of the United States may play in the war was discussed at the meeting today of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

The delegates were told of the importance of advertising in working out the war policies of Great Britain and Canada. J. Murray Allison, former advertising manager of The London Times, and now publisher of Land and Water, tabulated what advertising had done for England. He enlisted the achievements as follows:

"It raised 8,000,000 fighting men under the voluntary system.

"It raised countless billions of dollars in loans floated in England.

"It raised millions in private donations for the various war charities, the majority of which were run by advertising men.

"It discovered to the authorities over 1,000,000 men whose trades and knowledge of trades made them skilled munition workers.

"It persuaded over 1,000,000 women to offer their country the labor of their hands to release the male workers for other duties.

"Advertising taught the people of Great Britain to work harder and produce more, to give up their useless luxuries when it was necessary to consume less petrol, less rubber."

George W. Simmons of St. Louis spoke on patriotism, saying:

"Those of us who stay behind can help win the war just as those who go to the front. There is just one way. We must follow our leaders as surely and as faithfully as do our brothers who respond to the military commands of their officers. We may have our own ideas as to what the United States should do first, and how each thing should be done; how to combat the submarines and how other such simple problems should be solved. But we must remember that all the people have selected the leaders upon whom fall the responsibilities of plan and method."

The Associated Advertising Club this afternoon adopted a resolution calling on President Wilson as Commander in Chief of American industry to do his utmost to prevent the curtailment of business conventions.

The advertising campaigns conducted by the Canadian Government as aids to the successful prosecution of the war were described to the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World today by John M. Imrie, manager of the Canadian Press Association.

"Since the war began," he said, "the Canadian Government has conducted seventeen distinct advertising campaigns. During the last twelve months its expenditures on display advertising have exceeded the combined expenditures during that period of any other four general advertisers in Canada. Most of the advertising done was in connection with Canada's war problems."

Newspapers were urged by Louis Wiley, business manager of THE NEW YORK TIMES, to follow the advice of President Wilson in calling for registration for universal military service and to "draw close in one compact front against the common foe." This foe to the prosperity of newspapers, Mr. Wiley pointed out, was the seeker of free publicity. To rout this enemy of publishers, Mr. Wiley said there was needed not only determination but a united front. It could not be achieved if each publisher pursued a private purpose.

Free publicity, he declared, was illegal, forbidden by a United States statute which required that reading matter for which money was paid should be plainly marked as an advertisement. Besides, he declared, it was a deception upon the readers of the newspaper.

"Every newspaper reader," he continued, "has a right to expect that the articles printed in the news columns shall be generally news. The printing of advertisements, puffs, statements which are not news, under the guise of news, unless they are labeled as advertisements, as required by law, is deceit. Newspapers which practice imposition of this kind always are punished. Both advertisers and readers lose confidence in and gradually desert such publications."

SERVICE

Thompson-Starrett Service on a building operation is something more than a mechanical throwing together of steel, stone and stairways according to specifications and plans—it is rather a coupling up of mutual interests in an enterprise whose efficient, economical, rapid conduct and completion are as much to our benefit as to the Owner's.

People buy The American Magazine for what they find in it and for what they get out of it

THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE does more than interest its readers. It helps them. And the very stuff that interests them most is the stuff that helps them most. Thrilling stories locked up in the bosoms of men who have succeeded—or failed—men who have learned at least one of the secrets of life—have been released for the benefit of you—me—all of us.

By an intuition almost uncanny the Editor found the men who had the best stories to tell and made them tell them. He made men unbosom themselves who had never spoken before. He got the stories not only of men who had something to be proud of, but stories that men do not tell to their dearest friends. A kindly anonymity veils the authors of some of these stories, but their message was set down in ringing words, starting influences that can never die.

When the man whose story was wanted couldn't or wouldn't write it, he told it to a trained reporter. Sometimes the stories were by big men whose names gave weight—Schwab,[1] Vanderlip,[2] Armour,[3] Tarkington.[4] Sometimes it was the author's single claim to greatness that he had here set down truthfully the supreme story of his own life.

Was the story any stronger when you knew it as the story of Schwab, or Vail, or Annette Kellerman, or Conwell, or Gary? Not necessarily. Stories printed in The AMERICAN MAGAZINE months ago, stories by men whose names it would be cruel to give, stories of titanic struggles with booze, ill-health, failure—the influence of such stories has not yet died. Did you read about the man who doubled his life by finding out what ailed his stomach;[5] the story of the man who failed at forty and made a bigger success after that,[6] the father's letter to his son when success trembled in the balance?[7]

The Editor knows. Each of these burning records left its stamp upon the souls of other men, as the letters that keep on coming long afterward tell so graphically.

The present rate for space is still too new for change. It was based on a circulation that was greatly exceeded before the rate went into effect. It is a circulation drawn to The AMERICAN MAGAZINE by the strongest of ties, interest plus self-interest.

Buy your Liberty Bond and look yourself in the face

Patriotism—duty—sacrifice: Three words that have been used much too much in connection with this Liberty Bond issue.

It's an act of patriotism to buy a Liberty Bond. Yes—the same kind of patriotism that makes you vote on election day.

It's a duty. Yes—the same kind of duty that makes you cash your pay-check.

But sacrifice? How long since investment in a U. S. Government bond became a sacrifice? The security that guardians, trustees, attorneys, banks and all business men customarily refer to as "gilt-edged." Offered this time at par—not at a premium. Offered for the first time in denominations under $1,000. Tax-free at that. And on "easy payments" like a morris chair if you wish. No—don't expect anybody to present you with a medal because you buy a Liberty Bond; more likely some one ought to hang a leather medal on you if you don't.

Those three words—patriotism, duty, sacrifice—maybe they do apply to the taxes you are going to pay. Yes, but even so—we are paying a very small price for what we now realize that the Allies have already saved us at the bloody hands of autocratic militarism. If the war taxes hit you where it hurts a bit, buy a Liberty Bond and get back at the Government that way.

To-day's the day. Go to your bank, or to your employer, and fill out an application blank. Or fill out the form below and mail it—and be prepared to dig down. Dig down till you feel it.

The 3½ per cent. the Government pays you goes that far toward tearing the whip from the hand of arrogant aggression—

—And it's good business, too!

YANKS AND TIGERS DIVIDE THE SPOILS

Donovan's Men Take First Game Handily, but Stumble Over Cobb's Bat in Second.

ATTENDANCE IS A RECORD

Crowd of 30,000, Larger Than the American League Has Ever Before Drawn in This City, on Hand.

The Yankees hit the high-water mark of their popularity in New York at the Polo Grounds yesterday, when a crowd calculated by the club officials to be close to 30,000 people saw Wild Bill Donovan's clan make a half-and-half division of the spoils of a double-header with the Detroit Tigers. The Yanks took the first game, 5 to 1, and the Michiganders absorbed the second, 6 to 4. Never before, in the fourteen years that the American League has been established in Manhattan, has the younger major organization drawn such a gate as yesterday's. The lower stand was jammed to standing room, the grand tier in the attic was nearly filled, and there were a few thousands basking in the sun in the bleachers. When the sun disappeared and it began to sprinkle, the bleacherites were still on the job.

For a number of years the Yankees had a hard job bucking the long-established popularity of the Giants, and when they played up on the hilltop, where Billy Sunday now holds forth, a crowd of 15,000 jammed the park and was considered a big crowd. Under the new ownership and in their new home at the Giants' stamping ground under Coogan's Bluff, the Yanks have gradually worked their way into the affections of the Gotham fans, until the climax was reached in the 30,000 outpouring yesterday. Bill Donovan's ability to get together a club which works in harmony and the policy of the owners in loosening up the pursestrings to get players has done much to bring the club into high favor here.

Teams Drill Between Games.

There was a smart military touch to yesterday's demonstration which keyed the crowd up to a high point of enthusiasm. With the brass band blaring out national airs and with the Yankees and the Detroit players going through the military drill between games, Registration Day was celebrated in other ways besides the baseball offerings. It must strike awe into the hearts of the umpires as they see the Yanks out there in battle array, with their rifles on their shoulders. Yet if the umps are impressed by it at all, their work certainly does not show it, for they can make as many mistakes now as they did before the Yankees were placed under arms.

Tyrus Cobb, the Georgia Gem, blossomed out in his classiest holiday batting style for the edification of the big gathering, and it was his big club that played havoc with Bob Shawkey in the second game and gave the Tigers their victory. Cobb faced Shawkey five times during the second pastime, and each time he gave the ball a glorious ride. He made two triples, a two-bagger, and two singles for his share. He drove in three of Detroit's runs and scored a fourth one himself.

When the Georgian breaks out in a demonstration of this sort you see an athlete of the rarest kind. He spilled tantalizing bunts to the infield, and his fleet feet carried him to first a tick of the watch ahead of the ball. He hammered one liner at Roger Peck which was so violent in its flight that it knocked Peck over, and before the Yank fielders could recover from the shock Cobb had hurled himself into second, his spikes flashing in the afternoon sun. With any one else a rap like this would be a single, but to Cobb, ever ready to gain the edge of a second or so by outguessing the other fellow, it means a double. His three-base welts were mighty, resounding swats high over the outfielders' heads. The game never developed a flashier player than this lad Cobb.

Shawkey Can't See Nallin's Eyes.

It is a healthy indication that the Yankees are showing more fight than ever before when they have the courage to dispute decisions with three umpires against them. Umpire Nallin was behind the bat in the second game, and Bob Shawkey will make an affidavit before any notary that the umpire has an incurable case of inflammatory absence of the retina. Bob says Nallin's eyesight is so bad that he doesn't understand how the umpire finds his way to and from the ball park. At one period of the second game Nallin had to threaten half the Yankees with expulsion before they stopped recommending an eye infirmary to him.

Nick Cullop pitched the Yanks to victory in the first game, and, although at times the Tigers touched him up smartly, he pulled out of deep holes, with the aid of good support. Willie Mitchell, who beat the Yanks in the first Detroit game here last week, lost his spell over the Donovan clan yesterday, and they rapped him so hard that he was knocked out of the game at the end of the sixth inning.

It was the irrepressible Cobb who gave the Detroits their only run in the first pastime. Bush walked in the first inning, and Pep Young rocketed to Magee. Then Cobb jammed a two-bagger to right, sending Bush home.

The Yanks missed a great chance to score in the second inning, when, with one out, Baker, Hendryx, and Peckinpaugh all got singles and loaded up the bases. Nunamaker hit into a double play, which was skillfully executed by Bush, Young, and Burns and which spoiled the fun.

The Yankees tied the count in the fourth with a run which was in the nature of a gift from Tub Spencer. Maisel singled to centre, and went down on Pipp's demise at first. Maisel stole third, and when Spencer threw to that station to interrupt his travels the ball rolled out into left field and Maisel scored.

In the fifth Nunamaker was hit by one of Mitchel's shoots. Cullop fanned and Magee singled to left. After High had hoisted a foul to Burns, Maisel ambled and filled the corners. Pipp unloaded a timely whack to left, sending Nunamaker and Magee home.

Baker opened the sixth with a single and Hendryx sacrificed, Mitchell hurling the ball to centre in an effort to get Baker at second. Peck soaked a single to second and sent Baker home, while Nunamaker's rap through second scored Hendryx. After that Mitchell was sent for a much-needed rest, and Carroll Jones finished the game and permitted no further familiarity.

Bernie Boland's pitching and Ty Cobb's batting formed a combination that would have buffaloed a better club than the Yankees in the second game. When the Tigers hit Shawkey they hit him so hard that runs fairly oozed over the platter.

Lots of Action in Third Inning.

After the military demonstration between the games, it was late when the second tilt of the afternoon got started, and it wasn't ended until long after the soup was cold. The third inning was a crowded, emotional session, during which the crowd got worked up to a high pitch of vocal carelessness.

After Stanage had been tossed out at first in the third, Boland got a pass, after numerous kicks had been registered by Shawkey against Nallin's decisions. Bush also got a pass, and Young forced Bush at second. Cobb hammered a three-bagger high over the caps of Magee and High, and Boland and Young romped home. Bob Beach further affronted the pitching of Shawkey by crashing a homer to the deepest everglades in right field, Cobb ambling home ahead of the racing Veach. Heilman's hoist to Maisel ended this distressing little soiree.

Here's where the Yanks got mad and showed their teeth. They fought right back so hard that they came within a run of tying up the score. After Al Walters got a pass, Shawkey struck out, Magee got a hit through second, and High was safe on Bush's error. The bases were jammed by this time and [illegible] a moment, even if there are two out. Here comes Wallie Pipp to the bat.

Pipp flayed a terrific drive between centre and right for two sacks, giving the necessary impetus for sending Walters, Magee, and High home with all the graceful activity and speed of three frightened jackrabbits. Pipp got to third when the ball was thrown to the plate, but Baker couldn't send him home, Cobb gobbling up the Trappe slugger's fly.

GIANTS OVERCOME BY REDS IN NINTH

Special to The New York Times.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, June 5.—The Giants lost a tough game to the Reds 6 to 5 today after two hours and a half of play filled with everything one could imagine in a ball game. Ferdie Schupp, heretofore invincible, was hit fairly hard by the Reds and gave way to George Smith, the young collegian, in the seventh. Smith pitched clever ball, and had not his support in the ninth been of the bush variety would have accomplished a victory, despite the handicap under which he went in.

The Giants and the Reds, noting it was registration day for the war, started a feud on their own account. Only Umpire Byron's intervention prevented McCarty from exchanging blows with Roush in the seventh, when the Reds' centre fielder blocked McCarty in a throw to second to catch Kopf stealing. The trouble was renewed in the eighth, when Schneider objected to a called ball with Holke at the bat. When the smoke cleared away Schneider, Clarke, Wingo, Ring, McGraw, and Lobert were among the missing.

Going into the eighth inning two runs behind, the Giants tied it up on blows by Zimmerman and Kauff behind Herzog's base on balls and a few errors. They got what looked like the winning run in the ninth on singles by Herzog, Robertson, and Zimmerman off Mitchell, who succeeded Schneider. Young Smith's support cracked, however, and the Reds pushed two runs over with nobody out. Shean singled to left. Mitchell lifted an easy one to Kauff, who misjudged it and then fell down. The hit went for a double, Shean taking third. Groh, who had seemed helpless all the afternoon, lined to Burns, but that usually reliable outfielder followed Kauff's example and came in on the ball.

At the last moment he made a desperate effort to make the catch, but got but one hand on the ball and it rolled on its way, Shean and Mitchell scoring. This ended a game which could easily have gone on the right side of the standing.

It was apparent from the beginning that it was not Schupp's day, though the southpaw seemed to have everything any pitcher could need. The Reds oepned with three hits in the first inning, getting only one run, as Ferdie fanned Thorpe and Cueto in the pinch.

The Giants got a run in the first without a hit. Burns drew a base on balls, took second on Herzog's out, and beat the ball to third when Schneider threw there on Robertson's tap. Burns scored on Zim's sacrifice fly to Roush.

McCarty's hit in the second was wasted, but the Giants scored another without the need of a safety in the third. Schupp and Burns walked. The pitcher took third on Herzog's grounder to Chase and scored while Robertson was going out.

Thorpe's base on balls and singles by Cueto and Shean gave Cincinnati two in the fourth, Herzog getting an error for failing to cover second on McCarty's throw, on which Cueto scored.

Roush's triple and Clark's single gave the Reds another in the fifth, but the undaunted Giants tied it in their eighth. Herzog walked and took second on Zim's single to Kopf. Fletcher grounded to Kopf, who kindly threw wild to Shean, Herzog scoring and Zim going to third. Zim romped home when Kauff singled to centre.

With two down in the ninth, Herzog singled to centre, stole second, and went to third on Robertson's drive to left. Zim's single to Kopf sent Herzog over.

Then came the sad ninth, in which the game was tossed away. The score:

ADAIR IS VICTOR ON LINKS.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 5.—Atlanta golfers carried off the honors of the opening of the sixteenth annual tournament of the Southern Golf Association at Roe Buck Golf and Automobile Club here today. Perry Adair, the young star from the Georgia capital, turning in the low qualifying card, with 79. The Atlanta Athletic Club, with 331, won the trophy offered to the team making the lowest score.

WEINERT OUTPOINTS REICH.

Charlie Weinert, the Newark heavyweight, making his first ring appearance since his memorable bout with Fred Fulton several months ago, easily earned the honors over Al Reich in their ten-round bout, which was the principal offering at the Pioneer S. C. last night. Weinert, at a disadvantage of seventeen and a half pounds in weight, won every one of the ten sessions, and he was enabled to do so by the lack of initiative or successful offensive of Reich.

This has been the latter's only failing ever since he entered the professional ring, and last night was no exception. Throughout the bout Weinert belabored his opponent with a stiff left-hand jab; in fact, this was practically the only blow employed by the Newark boxer, except on rare occasions when he found it suitable to send over his right to Reich's face.

In only the fifth, eighth, ninth, and tenth rounds did Reich seem to make any impression on the large crowd. In these sessions he uncorked flurries which flustered Weinert momentarily, and there were several times in these closing rounds that the Newark star was shaky. They were only flurries, however, and in each instance Weinert recovered himself in time to step nimbly about and outpoint Reich for the remainder of the round. The continual habit of Reich in falling into harmless clinches in the latter rounds aroused the ire of the spectators, and they did not hesitate to voice their disapproval.

STAGE TOUR FOR LEONARD.

Negotiations Under Way for Appearance of Lightweight Champion.

Billy Gibson, manager of Benny Leonard, the new world's lightweight champion, announced last night that it is more than likely that a theatrical tour will be arranged for Leonard shortly. Gibson said that he has been negotiating with a local theatrical producer, and expects as soon as a tour can be arranged to sign a contract. Most of Leonard's stage work, Gibson added, will be in local vaudeville theatres.

Concerning Leonard's expected entry into the army, Gibson said that the new lightweight champion registered yesterday, and will apply within a week for admittance into the service.

Leonard received a rousing reception in Philadelphia on Monday night, Gibson declared, adding that on his return from the Olympia A. A. after his six-round bout with Joe Welsh, it was necessary to enlist the aid of Philadelphia policemen to escort Benny from his automobile to the hotel where he was stopping. A crowd of about 5,000 jubilant admirers, Gibson said, formed a parade to the club before the bout, and to the hotel after the bout.

Cochran Defeats Appleby.

Welker Cochran, the Chicago professional billiardist, defeated Edgar T. Appleby of this city by a score of 300 to 98 last night in the second block of his 18.2 balk-line tourney against amateurs at Daly's Billiard Academy. Cochran made high runs of 186 and 91, and his average was 37½. Appleby had a run of 30, and his average was 11⅛. The match lasted eight innings.

GREEN GOLD TAKES BELMONT FEATURE

First by Length and a Half in Bouquet Stakes—Top o' th' Morning in Van.

Owing to a day which had all the aspects of a holiday there was an attendance of more than 10,000 persons at the Belmont Park races yesterday. While the sport was not as exciting as on other days the results were satisfactory to the casual visitors, five of the six favorites getting home in front.

The stake feature was the Bouquet for two-year-olds under selling conditions which prevented the appearance of the top-notchers in the division. A. A. Reilly's Green Gold, which had won a stake at Jamaica, was made an even money favorite in a field of five, with the R. T. Wilson, Jr., pair, Sunrose and Annchen, a strong second choice. Mr. Wilson declared to win with Sunrose, but Mr. Reilly, depending on his smart colt, Green Gold, ordained otherwise, and Sunrose finished a rather poor third.

Gifford A. Cochran's Amackassin, a son of Sweep, furnished the chief opposition to Green Gold, and but for propping in the last 100 yards might have upset the favorite. As soon as the field came into full view it was noticed that Amackassin was leading Green Gold by more than a length and travelling smoothly. The Wilson pair had hard work following the pace and never was dangerous.

Troise shook up Green Gold at the eighth pole, but in spite of all his efforts Amackassin kept in the van until after the sixteenth pole was passed. Then the leader either stopped in a soft spot in the track or propped. At any rate his speed slackened long enough to allow Green Gold to range alongside.

Once in front Green Gold swept on to victory by the margin of a length and a half. Sunrose finished five lengths back and a head in front of Annchen. The halting finish of Amackassin spoiled a third straight victory for Gifford A. Cochran in this event, as he won in 1915 with Pleione and in 1916 with Triple Crown.

The Searingtown Highweight Handicap, which preceded the running of the Bouquet, provided more general interest than the stake feature as it brought to the post a field of nine sprinters, with Top o' th' Morning the top weight and favorite. The Billings cast-off, now owned by Paul Powers, never showed to better advantage than he did yesterday. He carried 140 pounds, but assumed the lead as soon as the field got away and never wavered in his flight through the six-furlong stretch.

H. P. Whitney's Hwfa, the second choice, was well up in the early part of the race, but dropped back beaten, and Mrs. S. McNaughton's Riverdale, one of the outsiders, rushed up to dispute the pride of place with Top o' th' Morning. The race looked fairly open until the last eighth when Top o' th' Morning drew away and won under wraps by two lengths.

CAMPFIRE GETS IN LIGHT.

Handicapper Vosburgh announced yesterday the weights for the Suburban Handicap to be run at Belmont Park next Saturday. The Suburban always has been considered the most important of the handicap events for three-year-olds and upward. It has been taken over by the Westchester Racing Association as a legacy from the Coney Island Jockey Club, which held the race for many years at the Sheepshead Bay track.

No surprise was expressed when it was found that top weight had been allotted to The Finn, which showed such sterling form in winning the Long Beach Handicap at Jamaica. August Belmont's Stromboli is in with 126, one pound less than is accorded to Dodge, which will be a non-starter on account of a quarter rack. There will be many newcomers from the Kentucky district, including the old handicap champion, Roamer, which will carry 125 pounds.

The difference one defeat makes is exemplified in the weights assigned to the leaders in the three-year-old division. Following his victory in the Withers August Belmont's Hourless has been been asked to carry 112 pounds, while R. T. Wilson's Campfire, until that race considered the best of his age, is allowed in with six pounds less. The weights follow:

REACH SEMI-FINALS IN WOMEN'S TENNIS

Mrs. Cassebeer, Miss Gilleaudeau, Mrs. Hitchins, and Miss Pollak to Compete Today.

The women's Middle States patriotic tournament at the Staten Island Ladies' Club yesterday advanced four contestants to the semi-final round brackets. Those upon whom fortune smiled were Mrs. T. C. Cassebeer and Miss Helen Gilleaudeau in the upper half of the draw, and Mrs. C. V. Hitchins and Miss Helene Pollak in the lower half.

Miss Gilleaudeau's advance was marked by more stubborn resistance than that of any of the others. Her antagonist was Miss Ethel Tyndale, and it was not until the first set had gone to 9—7 that Miss Gilleaudeau was able to gain the upper hand. In the second set Miss Tyndale was hardly as effective in her stroking and Miss Gilleaudeau, having solved the style of play of her opponent to her own satisfaction, finished off the match quickly.

Mrs. Cassebeer won her way to the semi-finals by defeating Miss Bessie Holden and the result was accomplished with rather astonishing ease, the score being 6—3, 6—1. Mrs. Hitchins did not have any difficulty in vanquishing Mrs. L. Manheimer, the latter getting only two games in the match, both of these in the second set. The only three-set match of the third round was that in which Miss Helene Pollak defeated Mrs. de Forest Candee, and with the exception of the second set, which Mrs. Candee won, Miss Pollak's play was of outstanding quality. The score of this match was 6—0, 7—9, 6—2.

The doubles matches came in for attention yesterday. All but one of the first round matches were completed and two second round matches as well. The latter were first round byes and advanced the victors to the semi-final round. An exhibition mixed doubles match has been arranged for Friday in which Miss Molla Bjurstedt and Harold Throckmorton will play Miss Florence Ballin and Frederick B. Alexander.

The summaries:

SINGLES, Third Round—Mrs. Theodore Cassebeer defeated Miss Bessie Holden, 6—3, 6—1; Miss Helen Gilleaudeau defeated Miss Ethel Tyndale, 9—7, 6—3; Mrs. C. V. Hitchins defeated Mrs. L. Manheimer, 6—0, 6—2; Miss Helene Pollak defeated Mrs. de Forest Candee, 6—0, 7—9, 6—2.

DOUBLES, First Round—Miss Edith White and Miss Helene Pollak defeated Miss Emily White and Miss Janet Mead, 6—3, 7—5; Mrs. William H. Pouch and Miss Edith Handy defeated Mrs. L. Manheimer and Mrs. H. T. Hartwell, 6—1, 6—2; Miss Ethel Tyndale and Miss Helen Gilleaudeau defeated Miss Marie Wagner and Miss Elizabeth Moore, 1—6, 6—3, 6—3.

Second Round—Miss Adele Irving and Miss Elizabeth Irving defeated Mrs. Robert Le Roy and Miss Florence Ballin, 3—6, 6—1; Mrs. de Forest Candee and Miss Marion Vanderhoef defeated Miss Isabel Robinson and Mrs. S. W. McAneny, 6—2, 6—2.

BEHR AND PHILLIPS WIN.

Defeat Letson and Fox in Harlem Tennis Club Final.

Allan Behr and Benjamin M. Phillips won the doubles final of the Harlem Tennis Club tournament yesterday afternoon when they defeated Benjamin Letson and Joseph Fox in straight sets at 7-5, 6-3, 6-3. From the way in which they started, it appeared as if Letson and Fox were to have an easy path to victory. In the opening set this team ran away to a 5-1 lead only to have it nullified by a sharp rally on the part of the rival team. Six games in a row were secured by Phillips and Behr. They played with the same dash in the subsequent sets and ran out the match without great difficulty.

TENNIS STARS FORM TEAM.

Following this Alexander and Throckmorton started an exhibition singles match, but stopped when the games in the first set were 5 all.

In the tournament proper Henry Bassford made his way through the fourth round of the singles when he vanquished A. Von Bernuth at 6—1, 7—5.

MANNING ELECTED TO A BISHOPRIC

HIS ACCEPTANCE IN DOUBT

Declined Last Night to Announce His Decision—Has Refused Two Other Bishoprics.

BUFFALO, June 5.—The Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, rector of Trinity Church, New York City, was chosen this afternoon as the Episcopal Bishop of Western New York to succeed Bishop William D. Baker, who died two months ago. The diocesan council understands that Dr. Manning will accept the election, although he is now rector of the largest and richest Episcopal parish in the world, and will have to sacrifice a salary of $20,000 for one of $6,000.

Three ballots were taken, and the election was made unanimous on the fourth. Dr. Manning's strongest competitors were the Rev. C. F. G. Wrigley of Brooklyn and the Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin of Rochester.

Dr. William T. Manning said to a TIMES representative last night that he was entirely unable to say as yet whether he would accept the election to the bishopric of Western New York.

"I have only this moment heard that I have been selected," he said, "and am unable to make any statement on the matter at all."

Dr. Manning has already refused at least two bishoprics. While serving as the rector of Christ Church, Nashville, he might have been Bishop of Kentucky, but preferred his other post. Again, in 1904, he was elected head of the newly formed See of Harrisburg, but preferred to become assistant rector of Trinity, (he was then vicar of St. Agnes Chapel,) a post which carried with it the succession to the rectorship of the most important parish in the country. And at the time when he was chosen rector of Trinity it was reported that if he had desired he could have been elected Bishop of Washington, to succeed Bishop Satterlee, then lately deceased.

The rector of Trinity (he has held this post since 1908) was one of the most active supporters of the allied cause between the outbreak of the war and America's entry into it, and was particularly prominent in the movement of protest against the Belgian deportations last Winter. He was an advocate of conscription long before that measure was adopted, and in general has been strongly a supporter of patriotic movements.

In religious maters he is a strong High Churchman, one of the leaders of the Catholic Party in the American Episcopal Church. In 1915 he resigned from the Mission Board of the Church as a protest against the decision to send delegates to the Panama Conference on Christian Work in Latin America, which had aroused the antagonism of the Roman Catholic Church, and was in consequence defeated for diocesan delegate to the General Convention of the Church by the Protestant forces. At that time there was a rumor that he was to become a convert to the Church of Rome, but this was promptly denied. He has strongly opposed the remarriage of divorced persons, and in general has opposed latitudinarian views among churchmen. At the diocesan convention last Winter he was one of the leaders in the movement which brought about the passage of a resolution recommending total abstinence.

As rector of Trinity Dr. Manning's influence is said to have been strong for progress and reform and to have had much to do with the more modern policy of dealing with the real estate holdings of the parish which has latterly been adopted.

He was born in England in 1866, but came to the United States when a boy of 10, and is an American citizen. He studied at the University of the South, at Sewanee, Tenn., where he was a roommate of Archdeacon Hudson Stuck, the explorer and mountain climber. He received his A. B. degree there in 1891 and the B. D. in 1893. He was ordained deacon in 1889 and priest in 1891, and was rector of a church at Redlands, Cal., in the year following his graduation. From 1893 to 1895 he was Professor of Dogmatic Theology at Sewanee, and later was rector of Christ Church, Nashville.

In 1903 he came to New York as vicar of St. Agnes's Chapel of Trinity Parish, in West Ninety-second Street, and became prominent at once by his capable organization of the parish. In the following year he was elected assistant rector, a position which has traditionally crrried with it the right of succession to the rectorship; and to this he was chosen upon the death of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix in 1908. He was married to Florence Van Antwerp in Cincinnati in 1895.

BRITH ABRAHAM ELECTS.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 5.—The convention of the Independent Order of Brith Abraham closed today with the voting of a gift of $25,000 for the Jewish Relief Fund, following the election of officers. Ex-Judge Leon Sanders and Solomon Shelinsky, both of New York, were candidates for Grand Master, but Judge Sanders withdrew and Mr. Shelinsky was unanimously elected. The new Deputy Grand Masters, one from each State in which there is a membership of more than 5,000, are Gustave Hartman, New York; Samuel Kalesky, Massachusetts; A. W. Heller, Pennsylvania; L. S. Lutzky, New Jersey; Dr. George Sultar, Illinois; Hyman Jacobs, Connecticut; Julius Guttman, Missouri; B. Bloom, Ohio, and Harry Phillips, Rhode Island.

Court Gives Metropolitan Opera Singer Custody of Her Child.

Mme. Margarete Matzenauer Fontana of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who sued for a divorce from Edoardo Ferrari-Fontana, got a decree yesterday from Supreme Court Justice Donnelly with the custody of her child, Adriana.

In his opinion Justice Donnelly said that the evidence that the tenor was intimate with women of his household in New York and at Far Rockaway was insufficient, but he granted the decree on testimony that the tenor was guilty of misconduct at the Quirinal Hotel at Rome last Summer.

Justice Donnelly held that Fontana's contention that two young women at the hotel with him were children under his care, and were only 14 or 15 years old was not convincing.

WANTS PHYSICIAN TO SIT IN CABINET

ARMY TO BE HEALTHIEST

Because its rôle in the war brings to America the making of world history for the next two generations, Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., the world-famous surgeon, as the incoming President of the American Medical Association, told the medical profession of the country in an address last night to throw away any belief that there was any other nation superior to this in medicine or anything else, to make it true that no other nation equaled this in progress, and to make the physical American the type to lead the world in every calling.

As a foremost step he advocated national prohibition, not only for war, but for peace as well. The 1,500 delegates to the national convention of the association in the Waldorf-Astoria ballroom cheered their approval of his demand that the doctors form a fighting phalanx for prohibition. Dr. Mayo urged that the "doctor's prescription" be thrown into the waste basket. Medicine, he said, no longer needed alcohol, for it had something better.

He advocated that a medical officer be made at once a member of the President's Cabinet; urged greater conservation of life in this country, as made necessary by the war, and advised doctors and all professional men to stop talking about the supremacy of other nations in science, a supremacy that didn't exist, he declared, adding, "Tongue-control will do this nation more good than birth-control." Dr. Mayo called upon all medical men to respond to their country's need in war.

His address came as a surprise to his associates, who knew him as a mild-mannered surgeon, skilled with the knife, but not as an orator. The speech, biting in its treatment of those whom he blamed for retarding the country, glowing in its prediction of what the country was to accomplish and vigorous in its appeal, brought prolonged applause at many times.

"This has been a country of the development of the individual," Dr. Mayo said. "The efficiency of a nation needs a crisis to bring it about. That crisis is here. We have been building monuments for those who have excelled in the accomplishments of soft peace. Now we are going to build some more monuments to soldiers. The great advances of the world's history have been associated with war."

Need of Manhood Resources.

Speaking of the need of conservation of life in this country. Dr. Mayo said:

"In the past immigration has brought to us millions of workers. It has been found easier in industry to let Europe supply new men than to guard the lives of our workers. But the time has come when we must build up and guard our own people, when we can no longer replace men with the old-time ease. The economic value of a life to the community is greater than ever before.

"Now that the war is producing injured by the thousands there is a new impetus to the care and cure of cripples to make them useful members of society."

Dr. Mayo thought there was much to be done in revising the education of the country, saying:

"Flexner is right when he tries to bring about a change in the present system of education, founded in the monks' age of civilization. We should have compulsory education through the seventh grade."

"And so," he said, "much of the new thought of the world may come from Siberian minds after the next two generations; they are America's."

He gave a review of the scientific accomplishments of America, comparing them favorably with what any other country had done.

Many important medical discoveries made in this country, he said, had not reveived recognition until they were appropriated by the Teutons and sent back here labeled 'Made in Germany.'

Dr. Mayo mentioned the accomplishments of American doctors, including Surgeon Generals Blue, Braisted and Gorgas, and promised that the American army in Europe would be the most healthy of armies the world ever saw.

Calls for Prohibition.

"We have a chance," he said, "to work out progress quickly. First, there should be war prohibition. We know that in olden times, when it was found infection spread by water and that the fermentation of alcoholic drinks killed the harmful bacteria, there was use for alcoholic drinks. But that need has passed with the control of bacteria. National prohibition would be welcomed by the medical profession."

Dr. Mayo succeeded Surgeon General Rupert Blue of the Public Health Service as head of the association. In introducing Dr. Mayo, Dr. Blue paid a high tribute to the noted surgeon.

In the invocation at the opening of the first meeting of the association held in New York for thirty-eight years, Bishop Charles Sumner Burch asked "stength for the millions of Americans armed to maintain justice," and prayed for the President.

The name of Colonel Roosevelt brought a burst of applause when Dr. Wendell C. Phillips, Chairman of the Committee of Arrangements, announced that the Colonel would seak at a patriotic meeting at the Hippodrome tomorrow night. Dr. Phillips presented Dr. Stephen Smith, 95 years old, and Dr. Abraham Jacobi, "a man of many birthday parties," to show that a physician was good as long as he lasted.

Dr. Alexander Lambert, medical adviser to the Red Cross in France and Belgium, and head of the New York State Medical Association, welcomed the delegates to the State. He will leave for France soon. Dr. Walter B. James, head of the New York Academy of Medicine, welcomed the delegates to the city. He made a plea for closer relations between the doctor and the public.

Older Men Volunteer for War.

The part to be played by the medical profession in the war continued yesterday to be prominently discussed, formally and informally, by members of the association. Dr. Blue voiced the view of many when, in an interview, he said that his conversations with visiting doctors had convinced him that there would be no lack of surgeons for any army that might be raised. He said he had found men of advanced age so eager to serve that some had suggested raising the age limit from 55 to 60 years. Dr. Blue expressed his pride in the patriotism manifested by the medical profession.

A different point of view was taken by Dr. Joseph Colt Bloodgood of Baltimore, Chairman of the Committee on Preparedness of the Southern Medical Association, in an address before the American Medical Editors' Association at the Hotel McAlpin last night. Dr. Bloodgood said:

"At present the number of doctors in the Medical Reserve Corps is so much less than the immediate requirements that it is impossible for the Surgeon General's office or any of the working committees to make a selective draft. The demand will soon be 10,000, and at the present time not more than 4,000 are available."

Sees Degeneracy Increasing.

Dr. Charles W. Burr of Philadelphia, speaking before the American Academy of Medicine at the Biltmore Hotel on the subject of "Insanity and Civilization," said that "emotional education" of youths and the pampering of those physically unfit to live were deteriorating the race.

"Great increase in degeneracy," said Dr. Burr, "has been due to the fact that every degnerate child born has been carefully preserved. In history we find that some races allowed such children to die, without actually killing them. Today they are cuddled. Many an imebcile boy gets more care than a well child. This is not humanitarianism but emotionalism."

Infantile paralysis and its aftercare was the subject of several talks and exhibits. Dr. Simon Flexner presided at a demonstration at the Rockefeller Institute in the afternoon, and Dr. Robert W. Lovett of Boston explained aftercare methods at Bellevue Medical College. "Follow-Up Systems" was the general subject of a meeting at the American Medical Association Clinical Congress Hospital Social Service at the Hotel Astor, Dr. Henry Ling Taylor speaking especially about poliomyelitis.

The tenth anniversary of the Social Service Bureau of Bellevue and Allied Hospitals was observed with a luncheon in the Hotel Astor, at which "Alcoholism and Drug Addiction" was discussed.

The meetings of sections of the American Medical Association will begin today at hotels and halls.

NEW YORK, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 6, 1917.

OUR BANKS AND OUR WAR POWER.

The national banks of the United States, about half of our banking power, on May 1 reported that their deposits exceeded thirteen billions, and were their maximum at any time. Since March 5 of this year deposits have increased $118,000,000, and since May 1 last year $1,944,000,000. An increase of deposits by two billions in a single year must surely indicate that inflation of credit which some fear. The loans totals are the place to look for that, if it exists. If the deposits are the results of the growth of credits, the loans will show it. They show the contrary. Loans and discounts have increased since March only $39,000,000, and in a year only $1,145,000,000. The deposits are above the loans more than four billions, and have been swollen by profits or savings. There is no disclosure of necessitous borrowing, nor of an overloaned condition of the banks.

On the contrary, there is a waste of banking power. The surplus of reserve, the excess above legal requirements, is $974,000,000, an increase of $105,000,000 within a year, and a decrease of $135,000,000 since March. The decrease is the more welcome of the two changes. It is seasonal, due to the demands of the planting season, and prophetic of abundance if the growing season shall be favorable. It would have been disquieting if the excessive reserves had increased at this season. The central reserve cities now hold 20.47 per cent. of reserves, against requirement of 18. The other reserve cities hold 7.84 per cent. above the required 15. The country banks hold an excess of 15 per cent. above their required 12.

There has been some uneasiness about the passage of the banks from the old system under which their reserves were deposited in the "other reserve" cities and loaned against, and redeposited in the "central reserve" cities and loaned over again. This reduplication of reserves and loans has ended to great advantage and without remark. All reserves are now held either in banks' own vaults or in the Federal Reserve system. There is thus a disclosure of unused credits exceeding the Liberty Loan. In addition, there is the system of rediscounts which the banks are backward about using, as though it were a reproach instead of a virtue to use the methods which are customary where banking is more of a profession than a trade, as with us, and a sign of distress instead of good sense. The same may be said of the trade acceptance system. No amount of counsel suffices to induce its use in a manner to show its advantages. Even the few scant millions of acceptances are used in a manner little different from discounts, the banks putting their surplus funds into them, instead of using them to economize resources, or, in other words, to increase accommodations to borrowers.

The figures of banking resources show the weight we can throw into the war, and justify Secretary McAdoo's predictions of prosperity exceeding any we ever knew. The war is not fought with dollars or reserves. They are useful only for the command they give over materials and labor. The Government is asking today for two billion feet of lumber and a million tons of ship material. They do not exist. They can be produced and used only by labor. Scarcity prices must be paid for labor, not because unions force it, but because there is a genuine scarcity of labor. The cost of living must be controlled by economy in the use of labor, not in the rate of pay of labor. There must be no needless limitation of production. The mechanical plants must be speeded and worked continuously, although labor must be treated humanely. There is here a hidden reserve rivaling that of the banks. In addition, labor must be diverted to necessary tasks from unnecessary. The process has begun. There is a decrease in imports of luxuries, and there is hope for more shell and cannon as the stocks on hand pile up. Distress in the luxury trades is one of those misfortunes which have their alleviations. This war is for liberty, not for conquest or wealth. It will not be fashionable or prudent for any trader to let it be known that he has prospered at the expense of the Government or his help. On the other hand, there will be a sentiment supporting the employer in using methods of efficiency now tabooed by a false humanity.

Here are the foundations of a volume of trade and employment such as we never have experienced, and which we have no reason to pray to be delivered from. The bankers should use wisely their idle reserves. The unions should relax their selfish restrictions upon production. The idle should go to work. The self-indulgent should stop their excesses. The finale will be such rewards as cannot be expressed in dollars. Who can appraise the worth of our institutions? Who shall say how much it is worth to end feudalism, everywhere, forever?

WE STAND WITH FRANCE.

On the same day comes from two capitals the news of an irrepressible conflict between ideals. From Petrograd the Workmen's and Soldiers' Council sends to the Socialists and labor union men of all nations an invitation to join in the peace conference at Stockholm; from Paris comes the resolution of the Chamber of Deputies, passed by Socialist votes as well as other votes, refusing to consider peace except on the terms it defines.

The Council repeats its demand for "peace without annexations or indemnities." The Chamber demands "the return of Alsace-Lorraine to the mother country, together with liberation "of invaded territories and just reparation for damage." The Council declaims about "the rights of nations to decide their own destiny"; the Chamber points, as if in eloquent commentary, to "the unanimous protest which "the representatives of Alsace-Lorraine, torn from France against "their will, have made to the National Assembly." Is the right of Alsace-Lorraine to decide its own destiny not to be considered because Alsace-Lorraine is not a nation? Here a stern fact punctures an empty declamation.

The Council holds that peace can only be achieved by a union of "the "Socialist labor parties and trade "unions in all countries, belligerent "and neutral," to stop the war where it stands. The Chamber, defining the kind of peace it wants, holds a different view of the way to achieve it; it is "confident that the Government will "bring this about by the co-ordinated "military and diplomatic action of all "the Allies."

One statement answers the other. The conflict is at every point. The Council purposes to stop the war, leaving Germany the victor, Germany in position to renew it more terribly the moment she has had a breathing spell, Germany with her determination to subdue the democracies of the world undiscouraged by defeat. The purposes of the Chamber are given by Premier RIBOT, and they are in direct conflict:

> Appealing to what has been said by the President of the great Republic of the United States, we wish to establish in stable fashion justice and right for all nations, guarantees for tomorrow, for our children, against the renaissance of barbarity.

With this view, not with that of the Council, the American Government is in agreement. This country fights not for a truce and the renewal of the war by a flushed and exultant Germany; it fights to establish "in stable fashion guarantees for tomorrow." Our belief is the same as that of France, that this cannot be brought about by a conference at Stockholm in which every country but Germany offers concessions, but by "the co-ordinated mili"tary and diplomatic action of all the "Allies." That word "all" yet includes Russia; for, despite the fact that the Council is still dominant in the momentary Russian Government, the Council is not yet Russia.

NO TOLERANCE FOR TREASON.

The time has come for strict interpretation and prompt enforcement of the laws of this country relating to treason, sedition, and conspiracy against the Government. The Department of Justice is to be congratulated on the success of its precautions against treasonable interference with the registration for the selective draft. The Attorney General took note in time of well-devised plans to meddle with the registration, and used all the facilities of the department, working in co-operation with State and municipal Governments, to defeat them. There is a general feeling that all the persons engaged in this kind of mischief-making should be taken in custody. But the Department of Justice is probably wise in refraining from arrests where there is no certainty that sufficient evidence can be obtained to convict the accused persons on a specific charge. There is no doubt, however, that the inclination of the Federal Government to be lenient with avowed agents of the country's enemies has been carried too far.

Not all of the mischief-makers are spies. Many of them are merely crack-brained agitators really ignorant of the gravity of their offenses. They have had too much license in the past. The men now in custody on a charge of smuggling military information of value to the enemy out of this country are probably liable to punishment under the Articles of War. Their trial, in that case, would be by court-martial and their punishment, if convicted, would be death. No doubt the Secret Service officers are on the trail of other offenders liable to the same fate. The people will applaud the [illegible] enforcement of the law in all such cases.

The German propagandists are still at work in this country. It would be folly to assume that many of our local malcontents, pacifists, anarchists, Socialists, or whatever they may call themselves, soap-box orators, and distributers of circulars and pamphlets, are in the service of Germany. Few of them are competent to earn a living even by treason. They know no country and no law. But there are still active secret agencies in schools and colleges, among industrial workers, which must be suppressed before their evil influence further corrupts the youth of this country. In a time of peril tolerance of persons who defy the law for any reason whatever is ill-advised. Order must be preserved at home while we have large enterprises to deal with abroad. A passage in a decision rendered yesterday by Supreme Court Justice GREENBAUM, relating to corrupters of social morality, applies equally well to the malefactors who aim to destroy the patriotism of American youth:

> If the ignorant and uninformed are to be educated by being told that the laws which they do not like may be defied, and that lawbreakers deserve to be glorified as such, there would be a sorry future in store for human liberty.

The false idea that it is the privilege of every citizen of a democracy to do at all times just as he pleases underlies much of agitation against our military preparations. Obedience to the law must be insisted upon. The spies and conspirators whose machinations the noisy efforts of the uninformed malcontents serve in a way to cloak must be rounded up and brought to justice. It is the duty of every good citizen to communicate to the proper authorities any evidence of sedition that comes to his notice. He may be mistaken, but nobody will be injured in that case. Stern justice must be accorded to the enemies within our borders who are plotting mischief.

SHADOWY CONCEPTS.

Some of the comments on the Governor's action in signing both the bills relating to the west side improvement do him a manifest injustice. The Legislature passed the Ottinger bill giving the Public Service Commission joint authority with the Board of Estimate to come to some agreement with the New York Central Railroad about the proposed changes; it also passed the Green bill authorizing a "broad and constructive "inquiry and report to the Legislat"ure upon the entire matter." Superficial observers, not comprehending the spirit and tendency of this legislation, pointed out that the Governor was inconsistent in signing both bills. If the Ottinger bill, which contemplated the actual doing of the work, was signed, it was unnecessary to sign the Green bill, which provides for inquiry in its nature preliminary to the doing of any work at all.

Governor WHITMAN knew what he was about. The Ottinger bill took the exclusive control of the matter out of the hands of the Board of Estimate and brought the Public Service Commission upon the scene with changes in the law which appear to make it impossible to carry out the improvement. That is what was intended. The City Administration was thwarted in its attempt to solve a problem to which has been given four years of study, resulting in an agreement greatly to the advantage of the city and its people. But while this represented an important political gain to those who had engineered the movement, it was felt that the Public Service Commission could not very well engage in the further political work contemplated without attracting a disagreeable amount of public attention. Moreover, the Commission is a child in politics. Therefore the Green bill was passed, providing for an inquiry by a committee of the Legislature. The experienced members of that committee will have exact knowledge of the duties to be performed. Indifferent to the loud fishhorn of public clamor, they will shape their investigation in a manner most likely to furnish good campaign material against the present administration, to the end that Tammany may be returned to power, affected, of course, with a lively sense of gratitude to the Brooklyn Republicans, and some from Manhattan, too, who by bringing the west side project into politics will have contributed to the triumph of the Wigwam in the Fall elections.

The Green bill was complementary to the Ottinger bill. Both were necessary and the Governor knew it. The "dark forces" were interested in both, and Mr. WHITMAN was little likely to disregard their mandate. He has been consistent throughout. In the memorandum accompanying his signature on the bills he says that "the suggestion "that the bill violates some shadowy "concept of municipal home rule" is without basis. In proof thereof he declares that the Ottinger bill was twice passed by both houses of the Legislature "with no more than "two members of the entire New "York City representation, numbering "eighty, opposed to it." The New York City representation at Albany is made up chiefly of Republicans and Tammany men. These bills were in their interest. It was natural that they should vote for them. Moreover, when Albany talks of home rule it is always thinking of political home rule. The Ottinger and Green bills are based upon no shadowy concept. [illegible] understanding of what is good for Tammany and the Republicans. To suggest that these gentlemen and the Governor should have taken some thought about the interests of the city and its people would be an impertinence. They have killed the west side improvement, they have defeated the City Administration in its efforts to make the west side line of the New York Central Railroad more serviceable and less objectionable to the people of the city. Now by an inquiry under the authority of the Legislature they hope to make an end of business administration in the City of New York, and by setting up a different kind of government to make it possible for a large number of long-suffering politicians and placemen to get comfortable standing room at the public crib.

GREECE.

The first number of L'Echo de Grèce, published at Geneva for the defense of Greek—that is, Constantinian-German—interests, has reached us. Switzerland is a centre of German-Greek-Royalist propaganda. A considerable flow of pamphlets preceded the establishing of this regular organ. Meanwhile, in Greece the amiable, ineffectual Mr. ZAIMIS, who kindly consented a month or so ago to start another colorless Ministry, does and can do nothing.

But what have the Allies done, what are they ever likely to do, to block the betrayer of his people, the trampler on the Greek Constitution, the German intriguer and puppet, the organizer of ambuscade and massacre who sits on the throne? The Constantinian press is still gloating in anticipation over the day when Greece, now, as usual, enjoying "normal relations with the Entente," will fight openly on the German side. The Greek General Staff is demonstrating that the Allies are beaten in the west and that the submarine campaign is invincible. What are the Allies doing as between their friends and their foes in Greece?

Thessaly is to Greece what Africa and Sicily were to old Rome. A month ago Royalist irregulars were bulldozing that granary of Hellas, were threatening to burn the ripening crops in order to keep them from the Venizelists. Have the Allies changed their fatal policy of restraining their friends and helping their foes? The Venizelists mustn't intrude upon the territories of dear King "Tino." A neutral zone has been established. Has it ever been removed, as it should be, to the south of Thessaly? Have the Thessalians been allowed to say whether they prefer, as Mr. VENIZELOS insists they prefer, his Provisional Government at Saloniki to the Government at Athens? The Thessalians have been great Venizelists. Why not let them, why not let the Greek people, choose for themselves? Why keep up the pretense that the German State at Athens is "neutral"? Russia may be powerless for the present in the councils of the Allies. What holds the British and French Governments back from the path of their own interests and of popular government? The United States, too, might distinguish between a Hohenzollern dummy and the leader of the Greek democracy.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Deceptive, Though Accurate.

There would be some difficulty, perhaps, in giving a name to the offense committed by the American Union Against Militarism in distributing, as part of its propaganda, a pamphlet containing a speech by DANIEL WEBSTER, arguing against the raising of soldiers by conscription. WEBSTER did make the speech, it seems, and it was correctly and fully reproduced, yet, as was shown conclusively on this page yesterday in a letter from Professor C. H. VAN TYNE, from whose carefully edited collection of WEBSTER's speeches this one was taken, the attempt of the anti-militarists thus to utilize for their purposes the fame and authority of the great Massachusetts orator and statesman was a departure from common honesty not less real than would have been false quotation or even out-and-out forgery.

For, as Professor VAN TYNE revealed, the speech was not, as the pamphlet stated, the work of "the ablest constitutional lawyer in Congress," but that of a young and inexperienced politician, just arrived in Washington and eager to voice the opinions of a New England constituency bitterly antagonistic to the war then in progress and indulging in treasonable talk about secession from the Union. WEBSTER himself had the grace, later, to be ashamed of this speech, and he did not let it be printed in the Congressional Record, nor did his son deem it worthy to be included in his collection of his father's papers.

These being the circumstances, Professor VAN TYNE was not unduly severe in characterizing as a "deliberate disregard of historical truth" the attempt on the part of the pacifists to shield themselves behind the name of WEBSTER, and he was quite justified in selecting from the "enthusiastic nobodies" who contributed most of the signatures borne by this pamphlet three—OSWALD GARRISON VILLARD, JANE ADDAMS, and DAVID STARR JORDAN—as persons who, however "enthusiastic," are far enough from being "nobodies" to make it surprising that they should have participated in an obvious attempt to mislead and confuse the public judgment and sentiment.

It is hard to imagine any other defense for what they did than ignorance of the facts presented by Professor VAN TYNE, and ignorance, in their case, is no defense at all. They are "chargeable with knowledge."

Doctors Are Well Employed.

As medicine is itself a science so interesting, it is no wonder that many of the subjects to be discussed and acted on at the great convention of physicians and surgeons now holding in this city should have the same characteristic, out of professional circles as well as in them. Three reports to be [illegible] vention, possess this quality to a notable degree.

One of them proposes that medical students be strongly advised to remain in their schools and complete their studies, instead of volunteering for the sort of military service of which they are now capable. The impulse that would lead these students to enlist at once for ambulance and field hospital service is patriotic and therefore admirable, but it would be followed at the cost of depleting, for the years immediately to come, the ranks of fully trained doctors, and that would not be wise or profitable.

That advice is good, but it does not contain the elements of a hot controversy, as does the report of the Council on Health and Public Instruction, which asks the convention to go on record as declaring that alcohol has no value, either as a tonic or as a stimulant, in the treatment of disease, and that its only legitimate use in medicine is as a preservative in the preparation of certain therapeutic products. Here is a change, indeed, from the medical practice of other days not yet remote, and many of the older doctors will not agree with a condemnation of alcohol that pronounces it entirely worthless for medical uses.

The third report of great interest to "laymen" is one which, without exactly expressing approval of what it calls "social insurance," yet commends that subject to the serious consideration of the medical profession and advises its members, not, as some doctors and all industrial insurance companies would like, to oppose the whole plan, but to use their intelligence and influence in making the details of the inevitably coming laws practical, efficient, and safe for all concerned. The superiority of that attitude to one of blind or selfish antagonism is plain enough.

Can Airships Cross the Atlantic?

In the part of Secretary McADOO's Liberty Loan speech which was devoted to removing from the minds of his hearers any delusive ideas that lingered in them as to the immunity of the United States from direct military attack, he made the statement that "the flying machine has not yet crossed the Atlantic simply because 'military necessity' has not required it."

Coming from a man who ought to be, and presumably is, possessed of more information in regard to the war and its possibilities than are people not in the inner Government circle, this assertion cannot be lightly dismissed as contrary to the known facts. For of course there may be facts not generally known. Certainly it will be a surprise, however, even to those who have followed aeronautical developments with some care, to learn that there are now in existence aerial craft of any kind, dirigible balloons or machines heavier than air, that can make the voyage between Europe and America.

The impulse is strong to say that the crossing in one continuous flight is as yet impossible. At any rate, nothing at all approaching it has yet been done, and the practicability of an airship's getting en route new supplies of fuel from ships sent on ahead and stationed at pre-arranged places on the ocean, though several times suggested, is still to be demonstrated, and it is doubted by many experts.

These are not days, however, for confident talk about impossibilities, and it will be well for us all to heed Secretary McADOO's warning in this as in other respects.

AMERICAN-MADE SOLDIERS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

At the time of the Spanish war our youngest son, just past 21 years of age and well established in one of the greatest business houses of New York, London, and Paris, surprised me by saying one day, "Mother, I want to enlist."

Protesting vehemently, after the manner of mothers, I told him of the army of the unemployed, who should go to Cuba first, those detached, unadjusted men of whom the country was full.

He was very restless and unhappy all that week, and when he came the second time, saying, "It will break my heart to have to go to war without your consent—please give it to me," I replied, "Son, such a sacrifice is unnecessary now. Wait for a later call and go on with your business career."

With flashing, darkening eyes came these words: "Mother, I feel if the country needs any one at all it needs me." When I said "You have had a sheltered life, you cannot endure the hardships; but I suppose you are thinking what others can endure you can stand," he replied, "Oh, no, mother; I shall go knowing what others cannot stand I can."

He went, getting transferred from one regiment to another, ordered to the front. He was in the charge up San Juan Hill, fought in the trenches, had yellow fever, and was on the verge of starvation again and again—nearly two months without a change of clothing, &c., but never complained. After his return at the end of the war, when the papers were full of "Embalmed Beef" headlines, Government scandals, &c., he only said, "The Government did the best it could—it was not prepared."

Sequel: My boy is a Captain in the regular army now, eager to reach service in France. Among those who will register on June 5 will be hundreds with the same patriotism, the same longing for service of country and flag. We have not years of militarism behind us, but the world shall take note of our "American-made" soldiers in this world conflict.

I am inclosing a translation of a letter from Signor P. Boselli, President of the Dante Alighieri Society at Rome, to Mrs. Heloise Durant Rose, Secretary of the Dante League of America, in reply to a letter recently written to Signor Boselli telling him of the establishment of the Dante League of America and its activities.

CONDE B. PALLEN.

[Inclosure.]

Rome, May 5, 1917.

The words I wrote in your album still express my feeling toward you, your culture, and the generally Italian spirit of your work.

I welcome the "Dante League of America," which you tell me is now an accomplished fact, as its plans to celebrate worthily the sixth centennial of the death of Dante must assuredly aid the spread in America of the study and cult of the poet of our race.

The aims of the league differ somewhat from those of the "Dante Alighieri," whose objects are known to you. Yet it is my hope that the noble work you have undertaken will have the best support of our local committees.

With thanks for your good wishes, and in the firm conviction that you will always uphold the ideals for which Italy fights so valiantly, I offer my devoted homage.

P. BOSELLI,
President of the "Dante Alighieri."

HISTORICAL PARALLELS.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One hundred and forty years ago there were people who believed that no perils from tyranny and injustice were so great as those which might arise from breaking the ties between the colonies here and the mother country. Above all, rebellion against the authorities representing the home Government seemed to be absolute impiety. Many, perhaps most, of these people were estimable, kind neighbors, and they were not markedly aggressive in their attitude. Some were aggressive, venomous in spirit, cruel, and treacherous in conduct. These gave the name "tory" the hateful sound the word has ever had in the ears of the revolutionists and their descendants. The mark of the tory was blindness to the meaning of history.

Fifty-six years ago there were other people who thought no evil was so great as the attempt to force the Southern States to remain in the Union. They thought that the National Government had no right to "coerce" the Southern States, and that coerced participation in national life was valueless. Many of these people were not aggressive, many were estimable in all personal relations and in character. Some were so venomous that they brought upon themselves the name "copperhead."

At the present day there are also not a few persons equally blind to the meaning of history. Some are so enamored with the undisturbed enjoyment of the physical blessings of life which they call peace that they are thinking of the disturbance of their peace as the greatest possible calamity that can come to a people. Others base their opposition to war on their interpretation of some words of Jesus, and blind themselves to all His teaching at variance with their interpretation. For them, apparently, the worst sin a man can ever commit is to participate in war. They represent the horrors of war not only as they are, inconceivably evil, but as the worst possible evil that can come into a people's life.

Inhumanity of any sort, and in any degree, however great, is not evil enough to justify a nation in taking up arms for self or for any other people. It is yet worse even to suppose that an occasion might come for war and to prepare for repelling it. Of one who reasoned thus a friend wrote: "The blindness that confuses things that differ has fallen upon him! The taxing of anise and mint and cummin is all on a par with justice, the sacredness of the pledged word, good will, and good faith."

Many of them show a singular incapacity to see facts visible to the normal mind or to reason logically. An extended argument by one of them is apt to furnish teachers of logic many and choice illustrations of the fallacies known as the suppressio veri and also the non sequitur.

Some of these reasoners are so venomous that the name pacifist is a misnomer, and they are making it so hateful that it is fast coming to rank with the two other unsavory words connected with our great national crises.

Baron Rosen's Peace Overtures.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Baron Rosen, a good friend of mine for many years, is reported in today's NEW YORK TIMES as suggesting a diplomatic conference with the Allies and the United States in order to determine a possible basis for peace with the Central Powers. Certainly everything that Baron Rosen proposes deserves serious attention. It was he who, fully a year in advance, predicted this terrible war in his speech delivered in the Council of the Empire, when he warned his countrymen of the German peril. Baron Rosen's chief reason for his suggestion is that as now, after three years of desperate struggle, there is no hope for either side to crush the other, the war promises to develop into a slow process of general exhaustion of both sides. Hence his proposition.

With all due respect to Baron Rosen's foresight, we may ask if there is just now, indeed, any hope for a compromise peace settlement between the belligerents? I am afraid there is no reason for such a hope. In France and Great Britain they thoroughly understand that there can be no security and no peace in Europe, and indeed in the world, so long as Kaiserism and Prussian militarism remain dominant at home; that a compromised peace would be just a truce, a postponement of definite settlement. Therefore both for France and Great Britain the watchword yet holds true, "War to the end." It is true Russia is paralyzed for the time being, but she may soon recover her wonderful vitality. And the Baron should not overlook the fact that the United States has just entered the field, not in order to urge a patched up peace settlement, but to help Europe to get just conditions for a durable peace, to clear ground for the safe and free development of democracy everywhere. And the German Government, unless crushed on the battlefield, cannot accept a compromise peace, for the German people would not tolerate the Kaiser and his Generals returning home empty-handed. They want only a German peace as long as the German Army, millions strong, is yet intrenched in enemy soil. No, unfortunately, the hour for peace has not come yet.

Will you kindly allow me to state in reply to inquiries that the Friends of the German Republic are located at 32 Union Square, Room 802, New York, to which all letters should be addressed? The interview you published has led to the belief that the society was a Socialist organization. Such is not the case. The Friends of the German Republic welcome the co-operation of all men and women of German descent who sincerely wish to see a democratic republic established in Germany, and who are willing to aid the forces in Germany now struggling for that goal.

"The War for Democracy."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When referring to our wars of the past, we speak of the war of the Revolution, the war of the rebellion or the civil war, the Spanish-American war, &c. In years to come, when the distance of time has given us a truer perspective of worldwide conditions today, we shall be apt to think and speak of the present conflict as "the war for democracy." Why not call it that?

TO FRANCE.

Through the wild welter of this devils' dance
Is it a foolish, transitory dream
That peace, security, and freedom seem
Nay, nay, renascence cometh not from chance;
Still fortitude and ordered zeal, I deem,
And these are thine above all else, O France!

Silenced are now the blatant mouths that erst
The sons of bluster and of sordid greed
Have felt thy still rebuke of self-control
And silent purpose, risen to a creed;

BALFOUR PRAISES Y. M. C. A.

Says Value of the Work to British Soldiers Is Beyond Reckoning.

The Right Hon. Arthur James Balfour, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in a communication yesterday, addressed to Alfred E. Marling, Chairman of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association, expressed a high opinion of the work being done under the Red Triangle at the front and also in the prison camps of Europe. Mr. Balfour's letter is in reply to an inquiry addressed to him in Washington. He writes:

> You ask me for my opinion as to the work of the Y. M. C. A. in the military training camps of Great Britain. I am sincerely glad to be able to say that this work has been admirably done, both at home and at the front. Its spiritual and material value to the men is beyond all reckoning, and the service of its personnel are deeply appreciated by the soldiers themselves. Moreover, I know that, largely owing to the generosity of the United States, our home organization has been enabled to operate on an extended scale in many parts of the world, and that the activities of your Y. M. C. A. officials have afforded untold comfort to our prisoners in many lands.
> Therefore, when I hear that you propose to raise a large sum of money to provide similar benefits for the soldiers of your own army I cannot refrain from expressing the earnest hope that your endeavor may be triumphantly successful.

There has been effected in Paris the organization of an Advisory Y. M. C. A. Committee of eighteen prominent American residents, among them M. Harjes of Morgan, Harjes & Co. A new Y. M. C. A. Administration Building has been opened in Paris for the use of secretaries who are to work in behalf of American troops, and $12,000 raised to start the work there. An additional sum of $25,000 has been cabled from New York for this purpose. Association work is also being pushed at other points in France pending the arrival of the American troops.

A motor ambulance, to be known as the "Anne Tiffany Ambulance of the American Red Cross," was presented yesterday to Mrs. Belmont Tiffany, who is about to retire from the Chairmanship of the Fifth Avenue Branch of the American Red Cross to take an important place at the Red Cross National Headquarters in Washington, by the members of the Fifth Avenue Chapter. The ambulance will go into service wherever Mrs. Tiffany may designate.

TRANSFER HEARING TODAY.

Service Commission to Open Session on Application of Surface Roads.

The submission of facts and figures by the surface railroad companies to the Public Service Commission in support of their applications of authority to charge 2 cents for first transfers will begin in the meeting room of the commission at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. William L. Ransom, chief counsel of the commision, will control the inquiry to the point of keeping it within the scope of the object sought so as to avoid loading up the record with useless material and prevent wrangling.

Corporation Counsel Hardy, assisted by several other lawyers familiar with corporation law, will be present in behalf of the city. The main work for the railroads will probably be done by J. L. Quackenbush, counsel for the New York Railways Company.

The Third Avenue Railroad Company will be heard first. It is estimated that it will take several hearings before this company is through attempting to show that it must increase its revenues or else face bankruptcy, and to controvert all of the statements made by those who will appear in opposition.

ITALIANS HERE TO SERVE NATION

PRINCE OF UDINE BETTER

WASHINGTON, June 5.—General Guglielmotti, military attaché of the Italian war mission, will remain in this country after the departure of the mission to supervise the operation of a plan designed to solve the problem arising from the uncertain status of Italians of military age in this country. The question, raised upon the entrance of the United States in the war, is one of the most important discussed by the mission with American officials.

Italy will not bring up the question of whether these men should serve in the Italian Army, it is learned, and there will be no regiments of Italo-Americans sent to the front. Through General Guglielmotti, however, the Italian Government will endeavor to recruit here as many of its unnaturalized subjects as it can.

Settlement of the point came about as the result of an appreciation by the mission of the American Government's viewpoint. The United States felt, the mission was informed, that if all Italians considered of military age by the Italian Government were to be sent back to their native land the labor problem here would be seriously accentuated. The American Government emphasized the point that the men who came within the scope of the United States conscription law could not of necessity serve under the Italian colors, while the others would contribute more efficiently to the economic needs of the Allies by remaining here.

The mission is ready, its members made evident today, to reach an agreement that many of the Italians in this country can give more effective service by continuing those following agricultural work in that occupation and diverting others not so engaged into positions where the national service will be benefited most.

The problem has been intensified by the fact that Italy's call to the colors included men between the ages of 18 and 43 years. Those not heeding the call were legally classed as deserters. Inasmuch as two-thirds of the Italians in this country are between those ages the economic drain would have been considerable had they been forced into Italy's army.

Marquis Luigi Borsarelli, Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, who has taken a leading part in the negotiations between the mission and the American authorities, may make an announcement shortly regarding the results achieved. In considering the problem the mission discussed the advisability of recommending to the Italian Parliament the passage of an act granting amnesty to Italian subjects in this country unable to answer the military call. Because it was feared such a law might give "slackers" an opportunity to claim exemption, the discussion did not go further. But the discussion was not without results, as from it was evolved the plan which General Guglielmotti will stay behind to execute. The plan is devised to do for the individual Italian what a general amnesty could not do.

The mission held a brief meeting today, at which plans were perfected for a series of conferences to begin tomorrow which will enable the mission to conclude its business by the end of the week, leaving it free to enjoy its proposed tour of the South and Middle West in comparative leisure. The trip, which was to have begun yesterday, was postponed owing to the sudden illness of the Prince of Udine, head of the mission.

The original itinerary of the trip may be changed to make New York the first city to be visited. The rearrangement of the tour is in the hands of the State Department, and the new itinerary, if a new one is drawn, probbaly will be announced tomorow.

The condition of the Prince had materially improved tonight. William Marconi had so far recovered today from the illness that prevented him from taking part in the business of the mission last week that he went to New York, where tomorrow he will receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Science at Columbia University.

The Italian Royal Commission now visiting this country will be the guests of New York City on June 12, 13, and 14, it was announced yesterday. It is the purpose of Mayor Mitchel and other city officials to give the visitors a welcome and entertainment as cordial and impressive as that which marked the visit of the French and British missions. WILSON PLEDGES NATION'S ALL IN WAR

SEES DIGNITY IN SACRIFICE

Registration a Signal That the Country Is United in Answering War Challenge, He Says.

VETERANS CHEER WILDLY

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Veterans and visitors in Washington by the thousands for the annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans joined today in giving President Wilson a great ovation when he welcomed the soldiers of Dixie to the capital, and told them that the country was beginning to understand that one of the purposes of Providence in keeping the nation united was to meet the opportunity now before America to fight for liberty and mankind.

The President's declaration that the day was one of gladness because of the sacred memories, and of a rededication of a united country to those principles that have made America great among the nations of the earth, was greeted by the veterans with a rousing cheer.

The hall was filled with thousands and twice as many more were turned away. While waiting for the President the crowd cheered Confederate leaders, and noisily expressed its appreciation of old airs of the South played by the Marine Band and sung by groups of gray-jacketed young women from Portsmouth, Va.

The old soldiers waved their hats and the hall resounded with the "rebel yell" when the President mounted the platform. Many veterans crowded around him and shook hands before he began his speech.

The President's Speech.

The President said:

"Mr. Commander, ladies and gentlemen:

"I esteem it a very great pleasure and a real privilege to extend to the men who are attending this reunion the very cordial greetings of the Government of the United States.

"I suppose that as you mix with one another you chiefly find these to be days of memory, when your thoughts go back and recall those days of struggle in which your hearts were strained, in which the whole nation seemed in grapple, and I dare say that you are thrilled as you remember the heroic things that were then done. You are glad to remember that heroic things were done on both sides, and that men in those days fought in something like the old spirit of chivalric gallantry. There are many memories of the civil war that thrill along the blood and make one proud to have been sprung of a race that could produce such bravery and constancy; and yet the world does not live on memories. The world is constantly making its toilsome way forward into new and different days, and I believe that one of the things that contributes satisfaction to a reunion like this and a welcome like this is that this is a day of oblivion. There are some things that we have thankfully buried and among them are the great passions of division which once threatened to rend this nation in twain. The passion of admiration we still entertain for the heroic figures of those old days, but the passion of separation, the passion of difference of principle, is gone—gone out of our minds, gone out of our hearts; and one of the things that will thrill this country as it reads of this reunion is that it will read also of a rededication on the part of all of us to the great nation which we serve in common.

Why We Are United.

"These are days of oblivion as well as of memory; for we are forgetting the things that once held us asunder. Not only that, but they are days of rejoicing, because we now at least see why this great nation was kept united, for we are beginning to see the great world purposes which it was meant to serve. Many men, I know, particularly of your own generation, have wondered at some of the dealings of Providence, but the wise heart never questions the dealings of Providence, because the great, long plan as it unfolds has a majesty about it and a definiteness of purpose, an elevation of ideal, which we were incapable of conceiving as we tried to work things out with our own short sight and weak strength. And now that we see ourselves part of a nation united, powerful, great in spirit and in purpose, we know the great ends which God, in His mysterious providence, wrought through our instrumentality, because at the heart of the men of the North and of the South there was the same love of self-government and of liberty, and now we are to be an instrument in the hands of God to see that liberty is made secure for mankind.

"At the day of our greatest division there was one common passion among us, and that was the passion for human freedom. We did not know that God was working out in His own way the method by which we should best serve human freedom—by making this nation a great, united, indivisible, indestructible instrument in His hands for the accomplishment of these great things.

"As I came along the streets a few minutes ago my heart was full of the thought that this is Registration Day. Will you not support me in feeling that there is some significance in this coincidence, that this day, when I come to welcome you to the national capital, is a day when men young as you were in those old days, when you gathered together to fight, are now registering their names as evidence of this great idea, that in a democracy the duty to serve and the privilege to serve falls upon all alike? There is something very fine, my fellow-citizens, in the spirit of the volunteer, but deeper than the volunteer spirit is the spirit of obligation. There is not a man of us who must not hold himself ready to be summoned to the duty of supporting the great Government under which we live. No really thoughtful and patriotic man is jealous of that obligation. No man who really understands the privilege and the dignity of being an American citizen quarrels for a moment with the idea that the Congress of the United States has the right to call upon whom it will to serve the nation. These solemn lines of young men going today all over the Union to places of registration ought to be a signal to the world, to those who dare flout the dignity and honor and rights of the United States, that all her manhood will flock to that standard under which we all delight to serve, and that he who challenges the rights and principles of the United States challenges the united strength and devotion of a nation.

Ready for All Sacrifices.

"There are not many things that one desires about war, my fellow-citizens, but you have come through war, you know how you have been chastened by it, and there comes a time when it is good for a nation to know that it must sacrifice if need be everything that it has to vindicate the principles which it professes. We have prospered with a sort of heedless and irresponsible prosperity. Now we are going to lay all our wealth, if necessary, and spend all our blood, if need be, to show that we were not accumulating that wealth selfishly, but were accumulating it for the service of mankind. Men all over the world have thought of the United States as a trading and money-getting people, whereas we who have lived at home know the ideals with which the hearts of this people have thrilled; we know the sober convictions which have lain at the basis of our life all the time, and we know the power and devotion which can be spent in heroic ways for the service of those ideals that we have treasured. We have been allowed to become strong in the Providence of God that our strength might be used to prove, not our selfishness, but our greatness, and if there is any ground for thankfulness in a day like this, I am thankful for the privilege of self-sacrifice, which is the only privilege that lends dignity to the human spirit.

"And so it seems to me that we may regard this as a very happy day, because a day of reunion, a day of noble memories, a day of dedication, a day of the renewal of the spirit which has made America great among the peoples of the world."

Blue Greets the Gray.

Patriotism was the keynote of the opening session of the reunion. The presentation of a United States flag to General George P. Harrison, Commander in Chief of the Confederates, by Colonel Andrew Cowan of the Grand Army of the Republic, was the signal for a demonstration. The Stars and Stripes hung side by side with the Stars and Bars behind the presiding officer and will remain there throughout the reunion.

The introduction of Mrs. Lousiana Ransburg Briggs of Briggsdale, Ohio, to the convention as the "veiled lady of Camp Chase" by General Bennett H. Young, moved the veterans to lusty yells in appreciation of the woman who for ten years, heavily veiled, scattered flowers on the graves of Southern soldiers who died in Camp Chase prison, near Columbus.

When the Senate, after a short session today, adjourned until Friday in observation of Registration Day and to permit members to meet visiting Confederate veterans, Senator Bankhead, the only surviving Confederate soldier in the Senate, wearing a gray uniform, paid this tribute to the veterans:

"Today the shattered remnants of the armies of Lee and Jackson, Johnston and Bragg, and of the navies of the Confederacy are in Washington and on Thursday will march, with their sons, down Pennsylvania Avenue in review before the President of the United States.

"A little more than half a century ago these same men in arms were hammering at the gates of Washington in an effort to sever their relations with the National Government. Thursday, marching with broken body and faltering step, on a misson of peace and love, not of hatred and bloodshed, but in a spirit of resolute reconciliation and absolute loyalty to our flag, they will voice in vibrant tones to all the world an indissoluble union of the United States.

"I am grateful that God has spared me to see this day when my old comrades in arms of the Confederacy are here in the capital of that nation which for four years they struggled desperately to destroy, but which now, one and all, in this great republic, are more than anxious to preserve."

R. M. OLYPHANT, JR., WEDS.

Member of Aviation Corps Marries Miss Grace Oakey.

The wedding of Robert M. Olyphant, Jr., son of Robert Olyphant by his first wife, and Miss Grace Oakey, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Forbes Oakey, was celebrated at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Madison Avenue Presbyterian Church, Madison Avenue and Seventy-third Street, by the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin. The chancel was decorated with boughs of white flowering fruit trees.

Miss Oakes, who walked with her cousin, Sullivan W. Jones, who gave her in marriage, wore a short soft white satin frock with a full buffant skirt. The corsage was cut low and had long tulle sleeves. The court train was of old point lace over chiffon, and was a gift to the bride from her cousin, the late Mrs. Henry P. Kernochan, and the long tulle veil was caught to it with orange blossoms and was held in cap fashion at the back of her coiffure with orange blossoms, while the front was turned back like a Puritan cap of olden days. She carried a mass of white roses and lilies of the valley.

She was attended by her cousin, Miss Elaine Sargent Oakey, as maid of honor, who was in a panniered frock of pink taffeta and chiffon with the pannier draperies outlined with gold lace. The quaint corsage, cut low, had tapering bretelles of gold lace trimmed taffeta over the chiffon body. A large leghorn hat trimmed with large pink roses and faced with pink topped the gown, and a neck band of black velvet gave a chic touch. She carried a huge cluster of pink sweet peas.

Little Miss Carol Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. K. Anderson, and a niece of the bridegroom, was the flower girl in a crisp white lingerie frock dotted with tiny pink silk roses and a leghorn hat wreathed with shaded pink Mignon roses.

Mr. Olyphant's best man was his brother, Donald Olyphant, and the two ushers were E. Raymond Notes and R. W. K. Anderson, a brother-in-law of the bridegroom. The ceremony was followed by a small reception for the families and a few friends of the bride and bridegroom at the Colony Club.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Leslie Hotchkiss, Jr., of Rye, N. Y., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Adeline Hotchkiss, to Richard Emmet Keogh, third son of Supreme Court Justice Martin J. Keogh and Mrs. Keogh of Pelham Road, New Rochelle.

Mr. Keogh is the third of Justice Keogh's sons to enlist, and is a member of the First Armored Motor Battery of New York. His brother, Grenville Temple Keogh, was wounded twice driving an American Ambulance at Verdun, was decorated for bravery under fire, and has since been transferred to Greece. John M. Keogh, like his brother Grenville, is to drive an American Ambulance in France.

Mr. Keogh's other brothers are Martin Keogh, Jr., Alexander Keogh, and Hugh Keogh, and the Misses Katharine T. and Margaret P. Keogh are his sisters. His mother was formerly Miss Katharine Temple Emmet.

No date has been mentioned for the wedding.

BRIDE OF SERGEANT STEARNS.

Miss Nancy Barrell, who has been living with her sister, Mrs. C. F. Peters, at the Martha Washington Hotel, was married yesterday to Sergeant Ralph Stearns of Company F, Seventy-first Regiment, at the Church of St. Vincent Ferrer, 871 Lexington Avenue. Lieutenant Joseph E. Barrell gave his sister in marriage.

Lieutenant Barrell is a member of the same company as Sergeant Stearns, and they became friends while the regiment was in service at the Mexican border. After the regiment returned to New York the Lieutenant introduced his sister to Sergeant Stearns, and their engagement followed shortly afterward.

FROM New York to San Francisco is 3316 miles by the Lincoln Highway, and if you have ever made the trip in your car without a single involuntary stop, of over five minutes, from any mechanical cause whatever, you probably boast of it to this day.

Yet last year an average of 6202 miles for each such stop was obtained as a matter of course by the

The church was massed with greens and June flowers, the chancel being banked in palest pink hydrangeas and roses. The auditorium was taxed to its capacity with a brilliant and fashionable assembly.

There was a brief musical program while the guests were arriving. The ushers were Paul S. Brinsmade, Lowell Mason, John A. Milholland, Bradford B. Locke, Stephen Bruce Smart, all of this city, and Gordon McNeil of Brookline, Mass.

Young Miss Priscilla Chisolm, another sister, was the flower girl. She was dressed in pale blue chiffon, her long golden hair being crowned by a large hat of matching blue. FIND NO EMERSON ASSETS.

Tour of Banks Fails to Reveal Cash Reported in January.

A representative of Receiver John R. Johnston, who went to Kingston on Monday in the hope of finding much money and other valuable assets of the Emerson Motors Company, reported yesterday that all he found at the company's plant was about twenty-four stenographers who were idling away their time. When the company, together with three concerns which had been disposing of its stock, and fourteen individuals were indicted in the Federal Court the three petitioners in bankruptcy thought that rapid action would net some return.

According to a report of the company made on Jan. 31 last, its assets included $201,994.51 deposited in several Ulster County banks and in two other banks, one in this city and one in Indianapolis. But a tour of the Ulster County banks revealed nothing but news that one of them had been the victim of an overdraft. In the same list of assets appeared an item of $4,510,000 representing the company's alleged interest in the Emerson Truck and Tractor Company.

Willis George Emerson and Will H. Stetson, two of the indicted men, appeared before Judge Mayer yesterday and gave $10,000 and $2,500 bail, respectively. O. E. Chaney and Robert Craig Hupp sent word that they would appear today.

It was learned yesterday that in the Government inquiry into the Emerson Company the trail of two other automobile concerns was struck and that they were being investigated.

UNIVERSITY HONORS TO PAUL M. WARBURG

NATIONAL SERVICE PRAISED

The degree of Doctor of Commercial Science was conferred upon Paul M. Warburg, the banker, by New York University last night in recognition of Mr. Warburg's services to the United States Government in connection with finance. The ceremony took place at a private dinner given by Chancellor Elmer E. Brown of the University, at the Hotel Biltmore, at which Mr. Warburg and seven other candidates for degrees were present.

The degree was to have been conferred upon Mr. Warburg today at the University Building in Washington Square, but as he had to go to Washington on important business it was decided to hold the ceremony last night. The other candidates will receive their honors today. The presentation was made by William R. Willcox, Chairman of the Republican National Committee and former Chairman of the Public Service Commission.

In a short speech Mr. Willcox told of Mr. Warburg's activities. Born abroad in 1868, he said, Mr. Warburg came to this country and became prominently identified with financial institutions of New York City, being a member of the banking firm of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and Director of many banks and industrial corporations. Mr. Willcox also told how, in 1914, Mr. Warburg became by appointment of President Wilson a member of the Federal Reserve Board, a position which he now holds.

In conferring the degree, Chancellor Brown paid a high compliment to Mr. Warburg's financial ability. Besides his successful practice of finance, he said, Mr. Warburg had made far-reaching researches in modern theories and systems of banking, leading to "his recognition as a wise and trusted counselor of our Federal Government in financial matters of the highest concern." Dr. Brown added that Mr. Warburg had severed personal connections of the greatest value to his private fortunes in order that he might "singly and whole-heartedly serve the public good."

SETBACK FOR NEW HAVEN.

Net Operating Income for April $280,101, a Loss of $200,000.

The net corporate income of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad suffered a sharp decline in April from the total earned a year ago, although gross revenues were larger. The net operating income of the company was $280,101, a decrease of $200,000 from the corresponding month a year ago. Including the earnings of the Central New England and other separately operated companies the New Haven's net corporate income for the month of April was $309,629, as against $665,156 a year ago.

Of the subsidiaries, the New England Steamship Company, Hartford and New York Transportation Company, New Bedford, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket Steamship Company, Rhode Island Company, Berkshire Street Railway, New York and Stamford Railway, Westchester Street Railway and New York, Westchester & Boston all showed deficits. The Central New England, New York, Ontario & Western and Connecticut Company all showed small balances after expenses.

For the first four months of this year the New Haven is still well ahead of the corresponding period last year, despite the setback in April. Net corporate income of the parent company and subsidiaries for the period was $176,000 this year, against a deficit of $320,000 a year ago.

WHEAT EMBARGO QUALIFIED.

The Argentine Government, through apprehension of a shortage of wheat for local consumption and seed purposes, placed an embargo on the exportation of wheat and flour during the last of the month. This embargo has recently been qualified by the following exceptions, according to advices received by the National City Bank:

One hundred and eighty thousand tons of wheat and 20,000 tons of flour to be exported to Great Britain on condition that the British Government will return this quantity to the Argentine when the Canadian crop is harvested in July, and

Paraguay	8,000	1,000
Brazil	25,000	45,000

About 8,000 tons either of wheat or flour, to be decided later, will be shipped to Norway.

LONDON MARKET IS STEADY.

Money in Better Supply—War Loan Shares Are Strong.

LONDON, June 5.—Money in better supply; discount rates steady. The increasing flow of money for investment keeps dealers busy, but maintains a steady undertone. Colonial bonds, the war loan, and ammunition shares were the best of the Britishers, while Japanese, Brazilian, and rubber shares were the most prominent of other sections. South American issues were irregular, while Russians were weak.

Fall Garment Sales Good.

The initial orders placed for Fall suits are understood to be much better than a year ago at this time. The comparison with last Fall, however, is not one that the manufacturers like to make, owing to the fact the season yielded very poor results a year ago. Buyers appear to be well pleased with the lines shown this season, even though in most cases there is a smaller number of models to make a selection from than usual. The restricted showing is due to inability to get a wide range of cloths from the mills.

Cotton Hose Coming Back.

In spite of the vogue for silk hose in all grades and at all prices, one of the leading sellers of hosiery here reports a marked improvement in the demand lately for women's full-fashioned lisle and mercerized cotton goods to retail at 50 cents. It is said that some seamless fibre hose can still be retailed at 50 cents, but that women have come to depend on the shape-holding qualities of full-fashioned goods and they prefer them in cotton to seamless hose of artificial silk. Full-fashioned thread silk hose to retail as low as $1 are now said to be in a class with the teeth of the fabled hen.

Steam Size Coal Easier.

The Coal Trade Journal will say today that recent changes in the anthracite situation have been confined largely to the steam sizes, which are steadily weakening in the local market as the demand slackens and the tonnage at tidewater increases. It is impossible to judge the true strength of the domestic sizes, as there is practically none of that coal being offered in the open market for spot loading. Tidewater bituminous prices continue to sag under the weight of a growing accumulation at the piers and the disinclination of consumers to buy freely at prevailing figures.

Economy in Use of Material.

With every prospect of a woolen scarcity, a movement is growing among manufacturers of both men's and women's clothing to limit the use of material. The garment makers have seized the opportunity to create styles that do not call for such a lavish amount of goods as in the past seasons. Pleats, flares and other extravagances have been declared passé for the Fall season, and simplicity is the keynote of the fashions. Skirts are narrower and lines straighter. In the men's wear field there is talk of discarding the trouser cuff. The manufacturers do not believe that sales will be less for any economy practiced.

Registration Hits Gray Goods.

Following a none too active demand in the morning, business in the local gray goods market yesterday fell off so sharply that many of the leading houses closed their doors. Registration day was given as the reason, and more than one regret was expressed that the trade had been so backward about declaring a full holiday. In the morning there was further buying of sheetings by the bag trade, but it did not assume large proportions. The absence of cotton quotations helped to take the snap out of the demand for these goods, as it did out of the call for printcloth. In the latter goods some additional business for early Fall was placed on 39-inch 68-72s and 64-60s at full figures. These were, more or less nominally, the closing prices:

When Laces Will Be "Good."

Apropos of recent remarks that have been made about the expected improvement in the demand for laces as dress garnitures, one of the leading local importers expressed the opinion yesterday that it would not be seen this season, as much as he should like to be able to say otherwise. In conjunction with a similar view expressed in this column several days ago, he said he looked for a good Fall demand for them and an excellent business next Spring. By that time, he added, the vogue for high-colored sport fabrics will be pretty much on the wane and, with the return of white dresses to general favor for Summer wear, laces will have their inning.

How to Change Selling Terms.

Business houses that want to shorten their datings, but are afraid to do so for fear of offending their customers and losing business, should follow the example set by the credit department head of a local concern. When the executives of the house in question decided that it was time to "tighten up" a little, the question of how to do it was put up to the chief credit man. He analyzed his accounts and found that only 15 to 20 per cent. did not discount. On learning this he made up his mind to change the dating without notifying the buyer, who did not take advantage of the privilege. So far, he says, he has got away with it in fine style, and he is confident that he will have no trouble in keeping his accounts in line permanently.

War Needs Affect Clothing.

While the Government's need of woolens will not affect the Fall clothing business to so serious an extent, the manufacturers see a very critical dearth of piece goods for the next Spring season, which opens in less than a month. According to information given out by Herbert E. Peabody, President of the American Association of Woolen and Worsted Manufacturers, there will be less than 25 per cent. of the regular woolen supply available for the civilian trade and only 60 per cent. of the usual quantity of worsteds. The latter fabrics, as Charles W. Endel, President of the Clothiers' Association, pointed out yesterday, can be used only in the higher grade lines. The sentiment among the clothiers is that the deficiency must be made up by cotton worsteds and clothing lines must be restricted. A letter addressed to the retailers giving them a summary of conditions will shortly be issued.

Criticise Clothing Sales.

In the wholesale clothing trade a poor opinion is held of the merchant who slashes prices at this time in order to dispose of his surplus Spring stock. Very few of the representative retailers in the large cities are doing this. At one of the local department stores operating a large department it was said that no reductions had been made, since it was believed that the range of prices started sufficiently low, and values ought to be attractive enough considering conditions as they exist today. In many cases where bargain sales are being held, according to the manufacturers, the sacrifice of stock is due to inability of the merchant to carry over merchandise from one season to another.

Fabric Glove Demand Improves.

While the coming of warmer weather has brought with it an increase in the consumer demand for fabric gloves, especially women's, much more business has to be done on these goods before "the smiles that won't come off" appear on the faces of the retail buyers. Were it not for the fact that the increased cost of silk, coupled with the scarcity and higher cost of labor, has added materially to wholesale selling prices, there would doubtless be a considerable quantity of these goods thrown back or canceled. As it is, however, the average buyer knows that it would be impossible to replace goods later on that were ordered at the prices current several months ago. For Fall, a nice advance business on kid and other seasonable gloves has been done, in spite of the high prices asked for the goods, these prices being based on the scarcity of glove leather and high production costs generally.

HEARING ON GATE CLOSINGS.

Service Commission Wants Autos to Act as Alarms in Early Hours.

Many owners of automobiles are expected to attend the hearing before Public Service Commissioner Hervey this afternoon to enable the commission to decide whether an order should be issued requiring that all of the gates at the 200 railroad crossings in the city be kept closed between midnight and 5 o'clock in the morning.

Commissioner Hervey thinks that if the gates are kept closed each passing vehicle will have to wait until they are opened, and that, therefore, the drivers of the vehicles will not only avoid danger but will also serve as alarms for the watchmen.

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

The third day's sale of the Lorillard Spencer estate property in the Bronx by Joseph P. Day and J. Clarence Davies, resulted in the disposal of 252 lots, when the selling for the day closed at 6 o'clock. At that time a total of 1,205 lots had been sold for $577,150, averaging about $478 a lot. The remaining lots, 240, will be offered today at the final sale in the Vesey Street Salesroom.

They include some of the most desirable portions of the estate, including choice corners on the Boston Road, Williamsbridge Road and Radnor Avenue.

The sale yesterday did not start until 1 o'clock and the attendance during the afternoon was about 500. Many new bidders appeared, attracted by the opportunities of picking up bargains and many of the inside parcels went from $300 to $400 apiece.

Richard Hagedorn, and August F. Schwarzler, who were prominent buyers at the first day's sale, have secured many of the best parcels offered. The Schwarzler syndicate paid $3,000 for the northwest corner of Pelham Parkway and Wallace Avenue, the highest figure recorded at the sale. They also paid $21,500 for twelve lots on the Parkway between Holland and Wallace Avenues.

The six-story Garfield apartment house at 338 and 340 West Fifty-sixth Street, 50 by 100.5 between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, has been sold by the Henry Morgenthau Company, to an investor. Hanigan a vacant plot, 100 by 100 feet, located on the west side of Hull Avenue, 125 feet south of 209th Street. The property was held at $10,000. James J. Donovan, Inc., negotiated the sale.

The property was held before the sale at $150,000 and was a part of a large tract in the same ownership. The remaining thirty-seven acres is now being improved under the direction of John H. Ward, by the construction of more than 2,450 feet of bulkhead and by considerable dredging and filling which will be completed within six weeks.

ASKS 1 PER CENT. TAX ON VALUE OF AUTOS

Senator La Follette Proposes That Owners Pay a Flat Rate Based on Retail Price.

SUGGESTION FINDS FAVOR

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—A new system of automobile taxation, suggested by Senator La Follette as an amendment to the war Revenue bill, was considered today by the Senate Finance Committee as a substitute for the graduated tax tentatively agreed upon last week. Senator La Follette proposed a flat 1 per cent. tax on owners upon the retail purchase price of all automobiles, with a provision for a 10 per cent. reduction each year for a period of five years to allow for usage. Under Senator La Follette's scheme every automobile would be taxed proportionately, the cheaper machines escaping with less tax than that proposed under the graduated scale and the more expensive paying relatively more.

Under the graduated tax, which seemed to have been agreed upon by the committee until Senator La Follette came along with his amendment today, motor cars costing less than $500 retail would have been taxed $7.50, the taxing increasing up to $25 for cars with a purchase price of $3,000. A machine costing anything over $3,000 would pay no more than $25. Under Senator La Follette's system, a car costing, for instance, $10,000, would have to pay $100 tax.

Senator La Follette argued with the committee that under the graduated tax owners of the more expensive cars would escape their fair proportion of tax, while owners of the cheaper cars would have to pay more than their share. He insisted that he would oppose the graduated tax on the floor of the Senate, as being manifestly disproportionate.

Judging from comments heard by members of the Finance Committee after the conference today, it is considered likely that Senator La Follette's scheme wil be adopted. Senator Simmons, Chairman of the committee, said the automobile tax levy would be slightly increased under the La Follette amendment.

The committee spent the day making slight changes in the bill so as to perfect it for introduction in the Senate the latter part of the week. This process of alteration in minor details will keep the committee occupied until Friday.

Among the changes made by the committee was to increase the tax upon cigarettes as fixed by the House. Cigarettes weighing less than three pounds a thousand will be taxed $2 on the thousand instead of the House tax of $1.25, while cigarettes weighing more than three pounds a thousand will be taxed $4.80, instead of $3.60. The cigarette tax, as well as that upon cigars, fixed last week, is to go into effect within ten days after the signing of the War Revenue bill. Cigarette paper in packages of less than twenty-five sheets were also exempted. This affects the "give-away" paper.

The committee exempted from the mileage and transportation tax circuses and theatrical companies owning their rolling stock. This applies where traveling organizations have cars and call upon railroads only for use of an engine for hauling.

So as to equalize the tax on distilled spirits manufactured during the remainder of the war, to conform to the heavy tax decided upon yesterday, the committee agreed to recommend an increase on grape brandy used in fortifying spirits from 10 cents a gallon, the existing tax, to $1.10 a gallon. The House had fixed a tax of 20 cents. The committee agreed that to leave a low tax upon spirits used to strengthen wines would give them an advantage over the whisky distillers. This tax will make an appreciable increase in the retail price of wines manufactured during war time. The committee decided not to increase the direct tax upon wines and beer beyond that fixed by the House. It rejected a proposal to increase the House tax of 15 cents a gallon on rectified spirits.

The committee agreed to retain the House increase upon whisky sold out of bond from $1.10, the existing tax, to $2.20 per gallon. It is estimated that a gallon of whisky, with the manufacturers' tax imposed yesterday and the tax of $2.20 a gallon agreed upon today, will run the manufacturers' sale price up to nearly $9 a gallon, the retail price, allowing for middleman's profit, is expected to run it up over $11 a gallon.

Where a consumer used to pay $1 for a quart of whisky he will have to pay at least $2.50 under the new tax, or considerably more, according to the profit the retailer thinks he ought to make. To ask only $2.50 would allow the retailer only the slightest margin of profit.

FIGHT OVER SUFFRAGE IN THE HOUSE TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Both Democratic and Republican whips have notified all absentee members of the House to return to Washington before the House reconvenes tomorrow, with indications pointing to a fight over the woman suffrage resolution. It was disclosed today that the Republican leaders were planning to force a showdown on the "Susan B. Anthony amendment" carried in a resolution which has been pending before the Judiciary Committee since the session opened.

The unexpected Republican campaign calls for a motion to discharge the committee from further consideration of the resolution and to bring it before the House for immediate action. Representative James R. Mann, the Republican floor leader, is expected to offer the discharge motion, which the Democrats probably will combat with a motion to adjourn.

FINDS COAL PRICES LOWER.

Trade Board Declares Its Efforts Have Been Successful.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Efforts of the Federal Trade Commission to lower anthracite coal prices are succeeding according to an announcement by the commission today.

"The producers of a very great proportion of anthracite tonnage," the commission said, "are selling their output at moderate prices so that the high premiums charged by a number of operators during recent weeks are beginning to disappear from the market.

"In its efforts to insure that the consumer gets anthracite coal at moderate prices the commission is requesting operators to report weekly all orders accepted, together with the prices for the same.

"As a basis for publicity within the powers of the commission production costs are being secured from any operators who continue to maintain unjustifiably high prices. Anthracite jobbers are required to furnish the commission with a weekly report, giving complete purchase and sales data and gross profits on each transaction.

"Agents are in the field keeping in close touch with retail prices so that distribution and prices are being traced all the way from the mine to the consumer."

OPPOSE RATE INCREASES.

Protests of Shippers Presented to the Commerce Board.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Ex-Governor W. R. Stubbs of Kansas told the Interstate Commerce Commission today that the railroads of the United States had $1,000,000,000 surplus, and that if an emergency existed now was the time for them to spend it.

"I believe this will be a banner year for the roads, without a 15 per cent. raise in freight rates," Mr. Stubbs said. "The consumer and the producer would have to foot a $300,000,000 additional bill if this advance were approved. With the public paying heavy war taxes, now is the time for the stockholders and bondholders of the carriers to 'do their bit,' and not throw an added burden on the consumer."

The protests of the nurserymen of the country against the proposed increase were presented by F. W. Kelsey and Orlando Harris, officers of the American Nurserymen's Association.

Clifford Thorne, counsel for the National Shippers' Conference, told the commission that the net earnings of the carriers in 1917 would be less than in 1916, but he contended that last year was a banner period in the financial history of the railroads. He presented figures showing a decrease in earnings of 3.8 per cent. in several lines, but said that this showing should not be taken as a basis for an advance, contending that differences in operating ratios made forecasts of earnings uncertain.

"No case involving $300,000,000 should be decided by any tribunal without an exhaustive examination," said Mr. Thorne. "The proposed rate raise would impose a greater tax burden on the people than the interest on the $7,000,000,000 war appropriation."

West Point Superintendent Chosen.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Professor Samuel E. Gillman, who retired from the army as a Colonel some years ago and has since been on the faculty at West Point, will be appointed Superintendent of the Military Academy, succeeding Colonel Biddle, who has been assigned to command the new Sixth Regiment of Engineers, for service in France.

DINERS, ANGERED, REBUKE PINCHOT

"No! No!" Greets His Suggestion That the Rich Are Unwilling to Fight.

The view expressed by Amos Pinchot that the conscription law was not popular and his misquotation of a speech that had been made a few moments before in the same room by Frank A. Vanderlip, President of the National City Bank, provoked angry remonstrances last night from several guests at a dinner given at the Park Avenue Hotel by the Women's City Club. Mr. Pinchot was interrupted by cries of "No! No!" when he appeared to convey the impression that the rich were not willing to do their share in the war, and there was one or two hisses when he attempted to elaborate his views on why a war "3,000 miles away" was not popular. He was not without friends at the dinner, however, and there was an outburst of applause when he finished.

Mr. Pinchot and Mr. Vanderlip had been invited by the Women's City Club to discuss the financial aspects of the war, and the trouble began when Mr. Pinchot, who was at one time reputed to be a pacifist, quoted Mr. Vanderlip as suggesting that there was "not enough free capital" to pay the income taxes sought to be imposed by Congress.

"He didn't say that," shouted Fabian Franklin, one of the diners, jumping to his feet. "You are not repeating what Mr. Vanderlip said."

The interruption evoked an uproar of laughter and cries of derision, through which Mr. Pinchot tried in vain to make himself heard. It was evident that some of the diners remembered what they considered Mr. Pinchot's past opposition to the war, and that the demonstration was prompted more by a desire to rebuke him for this than anything else.

"I'll yield the floor glady to Professor Franklin," said Mr. Pinchot finally, sitting down. He resumed his speech later, however, upon being told by Mr. Vanderlip himself that he had made no reference to the income tax in its relation to the free capital of the nation. As a matter of fact, the statement attributed to Mr. Vanderlip was made by Professor Seligman of Columbia University, also a speaker. He had been on his feet but a few minutes after the first interruption when he caused another storm by saying:

"Of course, a war that is being fought 3,000 miles away cannot be popular, and it is equally true that the conscription law is not popular."

"It is! It is!" shouted several women, sitting close to Miss Belle Da Costa Greene, the librarian at J. Pierpont Morgan's library. "It is popular."

"Well, I do not believe it is," retorted Mr. Pinchot. "I have my own views."

About 300 men and women attended the dinner. Mr. Vanderlip's speech was in spport of the Liberty Loan and was along the lines of the other speeches that have been made by him on the same subject.

CHARTER SHIPBUILDING CO.

The Eastern, with Capital of $30,000,000, to Operate Here.

Special to The New York Times.

DOVER, Del., June 5.—A charter was issued today to the Eastern Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company of New York, with a capitalisation of $30,000,000, permitting the corporation "to build and operate boats and dry docks." It is learned here that it is the intention of the corporation to build new docks and ships, as well as to acquire and operate plants and vessels to be bought by them. The ships, old and new, will be used in transoceanic as well as coastwise service, it is said. A. W. Britton, L. H. Gunther, and Harry B. Davis of New York are the incorporators.

Mr. Britton, a member of the firm of W. R. Britton & Co., investment brokers of 80 Broadway, said last night that he had no additional information to give out about the plans of the new shipbuilding company. He said the corporation intended to build and operate boats and dry docks, as the charter said, but added that he could not give the names of the other officers or stockholders of the company, nor the names of other persons who might be interested in the project.

WESTERN UNION EXTRA PAY.

Will Aid Employes to Meet High Cost of Living.

The Directors of the Western Union Telegraph Company at their meeting held yesterday afternoon voted to give their employes two special payments during the year 1917 to meet the high cost of living, similar to the extra compensation distributed on Dec. 5, 1916. At that time is was announced that the action was taken because of "exceptional conditions that prevailed," and the Directors decided that these conditions will continue during 1917. Two single payments will be made as of Aug. 30 and Dec. 31, to each regular employe, excepting the President of the company and such cable employes as have received special payments during the year.

All messengers at independent offices will get a flat sum of $25; employes receiving less than $1,200 will get 8 per cent. of their annual wages; employes receiving from $1,200 to $1,999.99, both inclusive, 6 per cent., with a minimum of $100; employes receiving $2,000 and more, 5 per cent., with a minimum of $130. One-half of the special payments is payable on June 30 and the other on Dec. 31. The Directors declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1½ per cent., payable on and after July 16, to stockholders of record June 20.

RAG FAIR AT THE FESTA.

American Ambulance Hospital's Friends Prepare for a Surprise.

Mrs. Robert Bacon, wife of the former Ambassador to France who is now a major in the army, announced yesterday that there would be some surprises for the public in the American Ambulance Hospital section of the Macdougal Alley Festa, which opens this evening.

The section under the direction of Mrs. Bacon will be decorated on the style of an eighteenth century rag fair and will be called "La Foire aux Jambons." There will be many amusements, ancient and modern, and a tableaux will be put on in which the chorus girls from the "Love o' Mike" and other musical shows will take part.

Prominent among the artist organizations which are bending their energies to the festa is The Appui aux Artistes which, since the beginning of the war, has sent thousands of dollars to Paris and provided 500,000 meals for the families of artists in the trenches and those artists who by reason of the war have been reduced to want. The Appui aux Artistes will have three booths at the festa, one an outdoor soda fountain, the other a quick sketch studio where visitors may have his likeness made and watch its making.

The Festa will also offer special moving pictures for the benefit of the Les Gens de Lettres and the French Heroes Fund. The pictures will show new scenes from France, Russia and Italy. The program contains also reels showing the President and members of the Cabinet and "An Episode in the Life of Mark Twain," by Ex-President Taft.

NEW CUTTER WILL TRIAL.

Justice Greenbaum Annuls Jury's Verdict That Woman Was Insane.

A third trial of the contest of the will of Mrs. Amelia Gertrude Cutter, widow of Henry T. Cutter, founder of the Hegeman drug stores, was ordered yesterday by Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum when he set aside the verdict of a jury finding that Mrs. Cutter was insane when she made her will. The jury's verdict agreed with a previous decision of Surrogate Cohalan, the case having been taken to the Supreme Court under a ruling of the Appellate Division.

Justice Greenbaum said that in his opinion Mrs. Cutter possessed a strong and dominating will, and he believed that the jury had been led astray by evidence bearing on her eccentricities. The court believed that Mrs. Cutter's act in reducing from $500,000 to $50,000 a bequest to her attorney, Frank M. Tichenor, showed that she retained a keen intellect. "The law looks with suspicion upon large bequests to a testator's lawyer," said the court.

THE LATEST STYLE CHALMERS JUST RECEIVED; EVERY INCH A QUALITY CAR

And why should anyone want a heavier car? These are days to be sensible in purchasing. Remember a heavier car costs more to run.

It is well to bear in mind that $500 less places you in the dangerous position of buying a skimped or "starved" automobile. To pay $500 less is to postpone the day when you will own a quality car.

Just let us punctuate a few remarks about the Chalmers. Take the wheelbase—117 inches. Plenty of size there. Then the 5-inch frame. No weaving of body or frame now in crossing car tracks or turning a corner. Instead, severe rigidity—so severe that squeaks, rattles or chassis noises are not audible.

A tilted windshield with plate glass. A front seat that is only 13½ inches from the floor. A rear seat that is only 14 inches. Tell that to the women of your home.

Better brakes—2 inches larger, if you please. And when you push down with your right foot you get results.

A larger steering wheel, dustproof bearings in the front wheels, all wiring encased in flexible armored tubing so that a short circuit in your ignition, or lighting, or starting is well-nigh impossible.

Then, too, the automatic lubrication of the engine controlled by the carburetor throttle so that the engine is getting oil directly in proportion to its load.

Any car that can do a mile in 38.1 seconds or at the rate of 94½ miles per hour as the Chalmers did on the beach at Jacksonville, Florida, which set a new time for cars of the 230 cubic inch class answers the question of speed even for the worst "fan" on the subject.

This time was made on May 4, 1917, by a Chalmers. It was of course stripped for racing purposes.

As for flexibility one need look no further. A car that traveled the highest traffic mileage ever reported in twenty-four hours through the heart of Chicago on high, or a car that webbed its way through Detroit's busy traffic at the rare low speed of 2.9 miles per hour for twenty-four hours without stopping the engine but once is a real performer.

Come down to our show rooms and view the beauty they have drawn into this car. And then get behind the wheel for a little spin. You'll want your initials on the door inside of a mile.

Try Man-a-cea Water with your next meal and see if it does not eliminate indigestion and stomach distress. Stand Behind the Man Behind the Gun

Your simple duty, if you can't enlist, is to invest. You can buy a Liberty Bond by paying a little down and the balance on easy installments.

Don't think if you can only subscribe $50 that your subscription is not important. Every one must do his part. The small subscription is just as important as the large. For subscription blanks and full information, apply to any bank or trust company, or your department store or the Liberty Loan Committee, 120 Broadway.
